REPORT ON LABOR LEGISLATION

1957 Regular Session of the California Legislature
January 7 to 25, and March 4 to June 12

FOREWORD BY THE SECRETARY

Measured against previous sessions of the California Legislature, the 1957 session clearly stands out in retrospect as one of the most successful and productive of labor legislation advances in the eighteen years of experience of your secretary-treasurer as legislative representative.

Both in terms of defensive actions and positive accomplishments, the array of victories borders on the impressive side even to those of us who during the session were so embroiled in the "forest" of bills as not to be able to see, evaluate or place in proper perspective the progress being made. The briefest of capsule summaries would show: substantial and in many respects, far-reaching improvements in all three phases of California's social insurance programs, i.e., unemployment insurance, unemployment disability insurance and workmen's compensation; defeat of all major efforts to restrict these programs; enactment of a workable "health and welfare disclosure" measure; and finally, defeat of all other major legislation adverse to the workingman, including a Senate bill jabbing at the collective bargaining structure and seeking to end trade union organizing activities. While it is not possible, or perhaps even desirable to measure or think of the advancements in terms of dollar benefits, official figures nevertheless indicate that improvements in the social insurance programs alone could bring to workers in the state close to $41 million dollars a year in additional benefits.

The accomplishments at the 1957 session, however, cannot be properly evaluated by a mere accounting of bills enacted or defeated or by totaling the dollar values placed on those bills. The significance lies, rather, in the political framework from which they were wrested. Just as the 1957 session was one of the most productive in your secretary's legislative experience, so was it the most trying, and in many respects the most hectic in his experience. With hindsight, it can be seen that there was no single cause of this, but rather that there was a series of contributing factors producing it.

To start with, labor entered the session with an unprecedented number of endorsed legislators in both houses as a result of effective political action at the polls in the November 1956 general election. Labor accordingly had a right to assume an air of cautious optimism in the organization of both houses of the legislature. This, however, was soon shattered on the Senate side with the organization of the Senate. Not only did labor fail to gain a more balanced committee than in previous years in the appointment of the all-important Labor Committee, but in some respects, the composition of the committee appointed placed it even more rigidly under the control of employers than previous committees, with labor able to count on only two of seven votes where a majority of four was needed. But what was more important was the expanded jurisdiction granted the Senate Labor Committee. Whereas in previous years the Senate Labor Committee handled all workmen's compensation bills and other Labor Code changes, at the 1957 session it was also given all unemployment insurance and unemployment disability insurance bills, which heretofore had been processed by the Committee on Social Welfare. Thus, virtually everything of major importance to organized labor had to be channeled through the Senate Labor Committee, which was heavily weighted against the workingman.

Many of the problems of the 1957 session, therefore, can be attributed to this fact of existence of an all-powerful, hostile Senate Labor Committee, which had to be circumvented, either directly or by negotiated agreements on major legislation, i.e., unemployment insurance and disability insurance, if any progress was to be made. But there were other factors contributory to the elusive nature of the session. Not least among these was the emergence of "partisan politics" to a degree greater than ever experienced before. To the extent that this encouraged responsibility to party platform, it was a development to be desired. But to the extent that it produced political maneuverings for the sole purpose of party advancement unrelated to issues or platforms—and unfortunately this was the case in most instances—it was a very disruptive development that necessitated over and over again the complete revamping of tactics put together with painstaking care by the Federation to secure an objective.

Another related and contributing factor to the hectic nature of the session was the apparently large number of legislators “running for office,” who wanted to keep their records clear of controversy. Unfortunately, everything labor strove for seemed to be controversial.

These, in brief, appeared as the major factors that shaped the political environment of the 1957 session for labor. Needless to say, it was the unpredictability of the session that confused and made the task difficult, for there was only one constant that labor could depend upon and that was the dedicated reactionaryism of the controlling group in the Senate Committee on Labor. It was primarily by overcoming these obstacles that the achievements detailed in the body of this report, section by section, were actually realized.

MAJOR DEVELOPMENTS

Workmen’s Compensation

Improvements in workmen’s compensation benefits will contribute an estimated $8.3 million a year to the overall social insurance benefits package won at the 1957 session of the legislature. The gains include:

1. An increase in the maximum weekly benefit payable for temporary disabilities from $40 to $50;
2. A boost from $35 to $40 in the maximum weekly benefit for permanent disabilities; and
3. Substantial increases in the death benefit: from $12,500 to $15,000 for total dependencies involving a dependent child; from $10,000 to $12,000 for all other total dependencies, plus a like increase in the maximum death benefit for partial dependencies.

The session-long struggle to obtain these benefits is detailed in the preface to the Workmen’s Compensation section of this report. In a very real sense, the story of that struggle epitomizes the nature of the 1957 session, and as such is necessary reading for the understanding of the session.

Unemployment Disability Insurance

The far-reaching improvements won in unemployment disability insurance benefits match in every respect the successes obtained in workmen’s compensation legislation. As pointed out in the body of the report, the advances reflect for the first time a break in the “combined lobby” composed of groups who invariably work together to oppose labor’s legislative programs. The essential problem in securing the improvements won was one of holding on to advancements negotiated earlier in the session with private insurance carriers, who were pulled away from the combined lobby. The unremitting pressure of the employers to whittle away at those improvements because of their precedent-setting effect on unemployment insurance and workmen’s compensation, made it virtually impossible to rejoice in victory at any time during the session right up to its closing hours.

Among the major improvements in the state’s pace-setting unemployment disability insurance law are the following:

1. An increase in the maximum weekly benefit from $40 to $50;
2. A boost in the daily hospital benefit from $10 for a maximum of 12 days to $12 for a maximum of 20 days;
3. Repeal of the so-called 75 per cent eligibility rule which has heretofore disqualified many seasonal workers; and
4. Confinement of disability insurance liens against workmen’s compensation benefits to liens against temporary disability benefits.

As a means of financing these benefit increases, it was found necessary to boost the taxable ceiling on wages for purposes of worker contributions from $3,000 to $3,600 a year. This means that workers earning over the taxable wage ceiling will be contributing $6 more a year in support of the improvements won.

On the other hand, in terms of added benefits to be enjoyed, the official estimate of the Department of Employment is that these will amount to approximately $11.1 million a year under the state plan, plus about an equal amount from voluntary plan carriers, totaling over $22 million.
Unemployment Insurance

The improvement of unemployment insurance benefits at the 1957 session of the legislature, although less spectacular than in the case of workmen's compensation and unemployment disability insurance, was nevertheless far above average as compared to previous sessions. The increase won in the maximum weekly benefit from $33 to $40, without the imposition of harsher eligibility provisions as urged by the employers, will yield an estimated $11.1 million annually in added benefits to qualified claimants.

This increase, obtained in the face of the power of the employer lobby to block any bill in the Senate Labor Committee, was made possible only by utilizing to the maximum extent possible the leverage gained from effective action in other related fields of social insurance legislation. This made the difference between the substantial increase won and the few dollars increase that would have otherwise been obtainable.

Major Anti-Labor Legislation

In regard to anti-labor legislation, the 1957 session produced a thinly veiled substitute for so-called "right to work" proposals. Although the Federation was spared the introduction of such an "open shop" proposal for the second straight session, primarily because of the Governor's message asserting strong disapproval, the anti-labor groups instead climbed on a bill by Senator Abshire (AB 2229), supposedly aimed at stopping what was vaguely referred to as "organizing from the top." The purpose of the bill, however, could only be measured by the fact that it required a representation election before any contract could be negotiated or signed, without in any way establishing the machinery for such elections. Nor was there any intent to establish such machinery. Its ultimate purpose, like that of all extremist anti-labor legislation, including "right to work," was the undermining of labor unions to the point of rendering them ineffective, while at the same time giving the outward appearance of recognizing their right to exist.

There was no stopping the bill in the Senate Labor Committee, but, as detailed in the body of the report, the Federation undertook an "educational" project that stopped the bill cold before it could even be taken up on the floor of the Senate.

Other Legislation

Apart from legislation striking at the body of the trade union movement, there were other major defensive victories. These included: defeat of the cigarette tax and beer excise increase proposed by the California Teachers Association as an expedient means of obtaining increased state school aid; rejection and referral to interim committee of the Business and Professional Women's efforts to emasculate the women's eight-hour law; bills allowing virtually unrestricted use of prison labor; and other measures providing special tax concessions for industrialists and the wealthy, to mention only a few.

On the other hand, some basic legislation supported by organized labor was also rejected. Chief among these was the defeat again of fair employment practices legislation on the Senate side. It is significant, however, that the chief bottleneck—the Senate Committee on Labor—was effectively sidestepped to obtain a roll call on the issue on the Senate floor, which will be useful in future campaigns to enact such legislation.

On the positive side, secondary to the major accomplishments already mentioned, the number of other Federation-sponsored or supported bills enacted are in themselves evidence of a favorable legislative year. In addition to a workable program for the regulation of employee health and welfare plans, bills were passed to: liberalize the various social welfare programs, including the establishment of new categories of aid; permit state contributions into trustee health and welfare funds; eliminate abuses of the contractors' licensing law and strengthen prevailing rate provisions for public employees on public construction projects; extend child care centers on a permanent basis; increase substantially state school aid in accordance with the "equalization" principle; and strengthen the state's equal-pay law for women.

In still other areas of special interest to affiliated organizations where progress was made, the accomplishments are reported in considerable detail by appropriate subject matter in the body of the report, along with other bills of general interest to the working people of this state.

LABOR'S FRIENDS

Needless to say, labor could not have emerged from the 1957 session of the legislature as successfully as it did without the support of a solid core of legislators friendly to the trade union movement. To these legislators, and particularly to those who carried labor’s bills and took the lead in fighting labor’s many battles in and out of committee where actions are out of view of the public, and also on the floor of the legislature, we are greatly in debt. The only adequate method of demonstrating our gratitude is by “reward at the polls.”

For this purpose, to help us select our friends for reward, we include at the end of this report the usual tabulation of roll call “test votes” on the floor of the respective houses of the legislature. These tabulations, however, cannot be taken as conclusive, for a good portion of the legislative process is embodied in the work of committees where most bills are disposed of without reaching the floor. Prior to the end of the year, therefore, the Federation will publish a supplemental list of committee votes for use in conjunction with the floor test votes in the 1958 elections. Here, too, there are limitations on use, since committee roll calls are not officially published and many issues are determined by voice votes.

There are other limitations on the floor test votes at the end of this report, in addition to the life and death functions of the committee. In situations such as existed in the 1957 session, where one committee, namely the Senate Labor Committee, stood in the way of all important labor legislation, it was necessary to proceed either by compromise to get through the committee, or else go around it. Obviously, where settlements were negotiated, as in the case of unemployment insurance and unemployment disability insurance, there are no test floor votes. Despite these limitations, the test votes in the report should be of considerable assistance in selecting our friends.

Finally, I wish to express my appreciation for the full cooperation extended by affiliated organizations who had occasion to send representatives to Sacramento, and also for the effective work done by organizations that undertook to help us in our work in Sacramento by communicating labor’s positions on key measures to their representatives. I especially call to your attention the invaluable work of President Thomas L. Pitts, who saw the session through daily from beginning to end, together with Vice President Harry Finks and Chief Counsel Charles P. Scully and the remainder of the legislative staff. Without their untiring efforts, and the assistance of representatives of affiliated organizations who worked through the Federation office during the entire session—Wayne Hull of the Painters, George Mulkey of the Electrical Workers, Vern Cannon of the Teamsters, Don Henry of the Teachers, and Al Albertoni and Fred Smith of the Fire Fighters—the mammoth legislative assignment of the Federation could not possibly have been carried forward. The continuous availability of the Federation’s legislative committee for guidance — Vice Presidents Arthur F. Dougherty, chairman, Harry Finks, Pat Somerset, Robert S. Ash, and Lowell Nelson—was also of immeasurable assistance.

Fraternally submitted,

SUMMARY AND REPORT ON LEGISLATION

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES

Of significance in this area of legislation was the defeat of a number of overzealous efforts to correct "abuses" in the industry without affording adequate protection to licensees and their employees. The bills falling in this category were numerous. We list below antagonistic bills defeated.

Other measures affecting the liquor industry are reported under ELECTIONS, SCHOOLS and TAXES.

Good Bills

AB 1961 (Weinberger and others). As amended and enacted, makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by at least a $100 fine, for a person to sell or furnish any person under 21 years of age false or fraudulent written, printed or photostatic evidence of majority and identity, and for any person under 21 to have such fraudulent evidence in his possession. Chapter 1274.

AB 3126 (Pattee and Holmes). Permitted as a defense in a criminal prosecution or disciplinary proceedings for the sale of liquor to a minor, proof that the appearance of the person under 21 years of age was such that any reasonable person would have considered him to be over 21. Died in Assembly committee.

SB 1715 (Burns and Brown). As amended and enacted, allows occasional inspection and cleaning by beer manufacturers and wholesalers of beer taps and tapping equipment installed in retail on-sale premises; declares this to be an interpretation of existing law. Chapter 258.

SB 1720 (Burns). As amended in the Senate and passed, permits issuance of on-sale liquor license to Shattuck Hotel in Berkeley. Chapter 2303.

Bad Bills

AB 1965 (Weinberger and others). Made sale of liquor in excess of 3.2 alcoholic content, except beer, within one mile of grounds of state colleges or junior colleges as measured by access roads, instead of airline miles, a misdemeanor; permitted sale in existing licensed premises, but prohibited transfer of license to another premise within the prescribed area. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1967 (Weinberger and others). As introduced, gave party aggrieved by decision of Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control only ten days, instead of forty days, after the decision is delivered or mailed to appeal to the Alcohol Beverage Control Appeals Board. As passed by the Assembly, provided for a 21-day appeals period. Died in Senate committee.

AB 3039 (Wilson and others). Made it a misdemeanor for off-sale licensee or agent or employee to sell, give away or deliver alcoholic beverages between the hours of 2:00 a.m. Sunday and 6:00 a.m. Monday. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3612 (Winton and others). Prohibited off-sale establishments, under penalty of misdemeanor, from being open before 10:00 in the morning and after 8:00 p.m. on weekdays except Saturdays, in which case closing time was set at midnight; required Sunday closing. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3661 (Bee and others). Under penalty of misdemeanor, required closing of off-sale premises between 8:00 p.m. and 10:00 a.m. the next day, and between 8:00 p.m. Saturday and 10:00 a.m. Monday. Died in Assembly committee.

ACA 29 (Weinberger and others). As introduced and sent to the floor of the Assembly, gave a judicial review proceeding of orders of Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Board priority over all other civil business except election causes, irrespective of position of the court's calendar; prohibited court from granting stay pending judgment in cases in which Department has revoked a license and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has reaffirmed the Department's decision; permitted granting of stay in other cases, but only after notice of motion had been given to the parties in the proceedings, and after notice and hearing thereon; permitted legislature to provide for a different type of judicial review. Successfully opposed by the Federation on the Assembly floor and amended to restrict contents to giving judicial review proceedings priority over all other civil business except election causes irrespective of position of the court's calendar. As such, passed the Assembly by roll call vote of 63-7 following the rejection of several re-referral motions, but was killed on the Senate floor.

SB 1056 (Cunningham). Originally a skeleton bill amended in the Senate to drastically restrict the number of on-sale liquor licenses in accordance with a new formula based on grouping of counties into four classes by population and a sliding scale for determination of allowable licenses. Died in Senate committee.

SB 1668 (Collier). As introduced, extended present exemption from licensing requirement of persons bringing specified amounts of liquor into the state for personal and household use to Mexican liquor, and deleted requirement that liquor be brought in on board steamship, common carrier or air common carrier. Amended to reinsert the requirement that liquor be brought in by common carrier, etc. for other than Mexican liquor and to place several restrictions on the amount of liquor that could be brought in from Mexico. As such, bill was sent to interim committee for study.

SB 1677 (Desmond). As passed by the Senate, was a very bad bill permitting any on-sale licensee whose premises are properly equipped and maintained to sublet the sale and service of the meals required as a condition of the license, provided the licensee remains responsible for any violations of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Act, caused or permitted by the lessee on the licensed premise. Made less objectionable in the Assembly by amendment by restricting the subletting or concession of foods to hotels or motels of 75 rooms or more, which are licensed and equipped to serve food. As such, was passed by Assembly and enacted into law. Chapter 1922.

SB 2613 (Hollister). Originally was companion to AB 3033 requiring all day closing of off-sale establishments on Sunday. Amended to require afternoon closing on Sunday.
Tabled by unanimous action in Senate committee.

Other Bills

AB 1948 (Rees and Conrad). As amended and enacted, defines “club” for purposes of Alcoholic Beverages Control Act to restrict club license to sale of alcoholic beverages to only its members and its bona fide guests. Chapter 618.

AB 1949 (Rees and others). As amended and enacted, clarifies the law relating to the issuance of caterers’ permits; permits veterans’ club licensee to apply for such caterer’s permit; provides that caterer’s permit issued to on-sale licensee may be used for purposes presently provided by law for events held any place in the state authorized by the Department; specifies that licensee with a caterer’s permit may exercise only those privileges authorized by his license; provides for different fee for caterer’s permit issued to club and veterans’ club licensees. Also provides that license issued on premises owned by state or public agencies are exempt from payment of original license fee other than annual fee and are not transferable. Chapter 1149.

AB 1953 (Conrad and Thomas J. Doyle). Consolidates provisions regarding the employment of females in on-sale liquor premises. Chapter 1268.

AB 1957 (Johnson and others). Provides that on-sale license fee of golf club shall be the same as fee for retail package off-sale general license rather than club license. Chapter 618.

AB 1962 (Weinberger and others). As introduced and passed by the Assembly, made it a misdemeanor for any on-sale licensee, whether knowingly or not, to permit a person under 21 to consume liquor on the premises; made it a misdemeanor alike-wise for person under 21 to enter or remain in a licensed premise without lawful business. As amended in the Senate and enacted, contains a minimum fine of $100 on the misdemeanor penalty and provides that the on-sale licensee must knowingly permit a person under 21 years of age to consume liquor on the premises, but contains a confusing provision that to “knowingly permit” consumption is irrespective of whether or not the li-see has knowledge that the person is under the AB 2634 (Hawkins). Authorizes sale of alcoholic beverages during school district elections. Chapter 2351.

AB 2993 (Hawkins). Eliminates restriction on alcoholic content of beer sold within certain distances from schools. Chapter 526.

AB 3006 (Biddick). As amended, specifically authorized the Department of Alcoholic Beverages Control to refuse the issuance of both on-sale and off-sale retail licenses for premises located within at least 600 feet of schools and public playgrounds. Refused passage on Assembly floor by roll call vote of 29-38.

SB 863 (Desmond). Declared that it is not contrary to public welfare to issue off-sale retail license within the immediate vicinity of churches, hospitals, schools and children’s public playgrounds. Passed Senate by roll call of 21-17 and died in Assembly committee.

SB 1098 (Regan). As amended and passed by the Senate, permitted issuance of new on-sale general license for seasonal business for a period not to exceed nine months in any single calendar year to premises located in recreational areas where there is a temporary increase in population and an increased demand for food and alcoholic beverages during certain periods of the year. Died in Assembly committee.

SB 1310 (Desmond). Provides that 2:00 a.m. closing time for bars on the day when daylight saving time goes in effect or goes off, shall mean two hours after 12:00 o'clock p.m. of the day preceding the day such change occurs. Chapter 569.
SB 1719 (Burns). As enacted, broadens services which manufacturers, wine growers, manufacturers’ agents, rectifiers, distillers, etc. may provide in connection with retailing of their products. A provision permitting them to stock shelves was deleted prior to passage, after the Governor had vetoed AB 1467 containing a similar provision. Chapter 1768.

APPRENTICESHIP

Good Bills

AB 780 (Henderson). Provides that only apprentices as defined in the Shelley-Maloney Act who are in training under apprentice standards and written apprentice agreements under the Shelley-Maloney Act shall be employed on public works; requires that such employment be in accordance with the provisions of apprenticeship standards and apprenticeship agreements. Chapter 699.

Bad Bills

SB 519 (Hollister). As introduced, permitted high schools and junior colleges, in accordance with standards of the State Board of Education and implementing rules and regulations of the Department of Education, to establish work experience education courses for credit, defined to include employment of pupils in any part-time jobs selected or approved as having educational value and assignment of pupils to observe and assist in business, industrial or professional establishments and institutions under supervision of persons charged with aiding the pupils to understand the nature of such operations; exempted such work experience education from minimum wage orders of Industrial Welfare Commission where specified conditions prevailed: required workmen’s compensation coverage of students exempt from minimum wage orders; provided, except in cases of assignment of pupil to observe and assist in business, industrial and professional establishments and institutions, that part-time work experience jobs may be arranged within or without the hours of the regular school day or week; made related changes regarding work permits and reporting of a.d.a. for apportionment purposes. Amended in Assembly to restrict work experience education to employment of pupils in part-time jobs selected or approved as having educational value for the students employed and coordinated by school employees, specifying that work experience education involving apprenticeable occupations shall be consistent with the Shelley-Maloney Act and with standards established by the California Apprenticeship Council. Assembly amendments also deleted the exemption from minimum wage orders and required that all laws or rules applicable to minors and employment relationships to be applicable to students enrolled in work experience education courses. Despite these substantial improvements in the bill, a veto was requested by the Federation in that a work experience program is presently being developed by the Department of Employment and should not at this point be transferred to the Department of Education. Signed into law. Chapter 1571.

Assembly companion, AB 967 (Munnell and others), was likewise amended to conform to SB 519 and was dropped in the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means.

BARBERS AND COSMETOLOGISTS

Bills marked * were sponsored by the Federation

Good Bills

AB 57 (Thomas J. Doyle). Required State Board of Barber Examiners to issue a certificate of “registered instructor” to any applicant who satisfactorily passes an examination with the score of 75 per cent or who possesses other qualifications required by law. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 520 (Thomas J. Doyle). Required state Board of Barber Examiners to inspect and approve a barbershop for location and sanitary conditions prior to issuance of a certificate for operation; increased the fee to be paid by an applicant to conduct a shop from $3.00 to $50.00. Provided for the issuance of two licenses by the state Board of Cosmetology: one for shop manager to any person making application with at least two years’ service as a licensed manager-operator in a licensed cosmetological establishment in which all of the occupations of hairdresser and cosmetician or cosmetologist are practiced; and one for an apprentice to any person who makes application to the Board in writing. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 522 (Thomas J. Doyle). Abolishes classification of permanent waiver and designates present licensees as hairdresser and cosmetician. Chapter 493.

*AB 523 (Thomas J. Doyle). Required as a condition of license for cosmetological establishment that application

AB 583 (Bonelli). As introduced, prohibited Board of Barber Examiners from issuing certificate to conduct a barber shop unless owner gives 30 days notice to the Board before opening for purposes of inspecting the barber shop as required by law; prohibited issuance of certificate unless shop complies with applicable requirement of Business and Professions Code and regulations of the Board; increased from $3.00 to $50.00 the fee to be paid by an applicant to conduct a barber shop.

As amended and enacted, the fee increase is labeled as an inspection fee and increased from $3.00 to $25.00, instead of from $3.00 to $50.00; also establishes a restoration fee of $5.00 for expired licenses. Chapter 865.

AB 3422 (Meyers and Gaffney). Requires applicant for registration certificate to operate a new barber college to offer sufficient proof to state Board of Barber Examiners that the new barber college in the area will not be detrimental to the public welfare; establishes criteria for determination of what is detrimental to the public welfare, requiring consideration of need in relation to (a) economic character of the community, (b) adequacy of existing barber shops and barber colleges in the community, (c) ability of community to support the proposed college, (d) character of adjacent communities and extent to which establishment of college would draw patrons from adjacent communities, and (e) social and economic effect of establishment of college on the community where proposed and on adjacent communities. Chapter 1065.

SB 1557 (Gibson). Chapter 915.

SB 1753 (Miller). Provided for the licensing of apprentice hairdressers and cosmeticians or cosmetologists and abolished the position of junior operator; prescribed qualifications for apprenticeship and allowed each shop to employ one apprentice and one additional apprentice for each two licensed hairdressers over two. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2043 (Kraft). As introduced, was a bad bill allowing greater employment of apprentice barbers by permitting a shop to employ apprentices in the ratio of one apprentice for each registered barber working in the shop.

SB 2051 (Kraft). Required state Board of Cosmetology to inspect a proposed cosmetological establishment before the issuance of any license. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2052 (Kraft). Requires every cosmetological establishment to provide one public toilet room for its patrons, and adequate hand-washing facilities, including running water, soap and approved sanitary towels; sets the requirements for toilet facilities. Chapter 389.

SB 2565 (Richards). Prohibited a barber college from charging a fee of more than 15 cents for each service offered to a customer. Died in Senate committee.

Bad Bills

Other Bills

As introduced, was a bad bill: provided that requirement of two years’ experience as registered barber for issuance of instructor’s certificate may be satisfied, as alternative, by passing practical demonstration of barbering; specified that required examination must be oral and written; and provided that when both practical and theoretical examinations are taken, only one examination fee be paid. As enacted, reestablishes requirement of two years’ experience as a registered barber and also requires that the examination be written and oral on the theory of barbering. Chapter 488.

AB 201 (McMillan). As introduced, was a bad bill: provided that diploma, certificate, or certification from any accredited school, college or university in any state, rather than diploma or certificate from California public schools system or by state accredited elementary school, constitutes proof of eighth grade education, as required for barber’s license. As amended in an acceptable form and enacted, requires Barbers’ Board to give every certificate holder 30 days’ advance notice of the regular renewal date and 90 days’ advance notice by registered mail of the expiration of the fifth year that a renewal fee has not been paid, including statement that examination will be required if renewal is not accomplished before expiration of fifth year. Permits Board to satisfy 30-day notice requirement by giving written notice to each barber shop 30 days in advance of regular renewal date. Specifically requires examination as condition of reinstating certificate where renewal fee has not been paid for five years, except where no examination was required in the issuance of the original certificate. Also prohibits requirement of examination for reinstatement if the certificate was forfeited solely by reason of non-payment of the renewal fee if such non-payment was for less than five years. SB 1558 (Gibson). As enacted, amends various sections of the code relating to the practice of cosmetology: allows either training or practice outside of state for such period as Board may specify as a method of qualifying for a license as an electrologist, rather than requiring both training and practice as formerly provided; provides if cosmetological establishment practices only electrology, it shall be in charge of a licensed electrologist, rather than licensed hairdresser or cosmetician; requires every person employed in school as instructor in electrology to be licensed electrology instructor; deletes provision that conviction of felony constitutes cause for disciplinary action, and provides record of conviction or certified copy is conclusive evidence of conviction of crime involving moral turpitude; eliminates provision that Board may bring disciplinary action for any unfair or unjust practice which in its judgment justified such action; deletes a number of obsolete provisions. Chapter 1369.

CIVIL RIGHTS

On the positive side in this area of legislation, the overriding issue was fair employment practices legislation. The Federation again this session joined in the all-out effort of the California Committee for Fair Employment Practices, together with other civic minded groups, to support AB 2000 (Hawkins), a full-fledged FEPC measure based on effective and practical legislation in other states.

Following the pattern of two years ago, AB 2000 moved swiftly through the Assembly by roll call vote of 61-15, and ran headlong into the reactionary
Senate Labor Committee, which two years earlier had tabled the 1955 FEPC bill. Although history was to repeat itself, the California Committee for Fair Employment Practices worked diligently at the local level building grass roots support for AB 2000 among the constituents of senators on the Labor Committee. It was this pressure that undoubtedly produced the divisive tactic of Senator John McCarthy who introduced SCA 41, proposing the submission to the voters of a constitutional amendment containing the provisions of AB 2000. It was clear from the outset, that this amendment was introduced as a "face-saving" political gesture to kill FEPC for the session, with full knowledge that the forces behind FEPC legislation could not muster adequate finances to counter the large sums that would be spent to defeat and confuse the issue in a ballot measure as proposed in SCA 41. Accordingly, the FEPC Committee opposed SCA 41, which was happily tabled at Senator McCarthy's request by the Senate Labor Committee, which at the same time tabled AB 2000.

Following this defeat in Senate Labor, FEPC supporters began working to bypass this committee. Since the Senate has an historic policy against withdrawal of bills from its committees, the only alternative to bypassing the Senate Labor Committee was to "hijack" a Senate bill on the Assembly side by proper amendment, so that it would go directly to the Senate floor on the question of concurrence in Assembly amendments. The vehicle used in the closing days of the session was SB 1955 (Short), relating to the 8-hour law for minors. Assemblyman Hawkins successfully moved the amendment of watered-down, unlawful employment practice provisions of AB 2000 into the bill by roll call vote of 49 to 14, following rejection of a motion to table the Hawkins amendments.

On the Senate floor, Senator Regan, who was handling the Short bill, sought concurrence on the Assembly amendments. Senator John McCarthy, however, countered with a motion to table, which carried by roll call vote of 21-13, with six absentees. Although the struggle for the session ended here, the floor test vote in the Senate will serve as a political issue for election campaigns next year, which in turn will enhance eventual passage of FEPC legislation by the Senate.

Again this year, the only positive measure on the subject passed at the 1957 session was an AFL teachers-sponsored measure (SB 2366—Richards), following up on an FEP policy bill for teachers passed last year, and providing for state commissions to assist and advise school districts on problems relating to discriminatory practices in the hiring of teachers.

On the negative side of legislation in this field, the story is in the number of "bad" bills listed below that would have given overzealous law enforcement officers far-reaching powers relating to searches and seizures, arrest warrants, etc., opening the door for abuse and destruction of cherished and essential civil rights. The more dangerous of these bills were defeated, while others were drastically amended to delete the most destructive provisions.

Good Bills

AB 367 (Elliott and others). As introduced and passed by the Assembly without opposition, declared policy of the state that rental of real property, leased or sold after acquisition in a redevelopment project or improved as part of such project, shall not be restricted on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin; required agencies to obligate lessees and purchasers from so restricting rentals. Died in Senate committee.

As passed by the Assembly virtually without opposition by roll call vote of 61-15, the original provisions relating to enforcement and judicial review were rewritten to place greater emphasis on methods short of issuance of orders to correct discriminatory situations and to establish more elaborate procedures for hearings prior to issuance of orders. Amended in Senate to exempt agricultural employees and was set for hearing together with SCA 41 (John McCarthy), a constitutional amendment paralleling AB 2000. Tabled in Senate committee.

SB 237 (Busch). As passed by the Senate by roll call vote of 23-10, modified provisions relating to the grounds on which search warrants may be issued by referring in some instances to “things” as well as “property” proposed to be seized; by referring to property or things used as a means of committing a public offense, rather than just a felony; by eliminating provisions dealing specifically with casks, bottles and other packages bearing trademark possessed with fraudulent intent; and by providing that the warrant may be issued when the property or things consist of any item or constitute any evidence which tends to show a public offense has been committed or that a particular person has committed or intends to commit an offense; also eliminated provisions relating to specific types of property, those governing the place or person from whom the property may be taken, and provided generally that the property or things may be taken from any place or from any person having possession. As amended in the Assembly and enacted, the bill was made less bad by striking the nebulous reference to public offense and restoring “felony”. Chapter 1884.

SB 928 (Regan). Originally a skeleton bill, amended in the Senate to provide that the Public Utilities Commission shall issue regulations requiring telephone companies to maintain complete and public records of all instances in which the company discovers bugging devices over its lines, and to also require the PUC to regularly check telephone companies to determine whether or not they are taking adequate steps to insure the privacy of communications. Chapter 1899.

CONSTRUCTION AND CONSTRUCTION WORKERS

Apart from an overall record public works program valued at almost $500 million, contained in the 1957-58 budget and supplementing measures, the 1957 session produced substantial advancements for building tradesmen. Not least among these were the improvements embodied in Federation-sponsored bills: *AB 399 (Miller), removing the so-called “paper licensing” provision whereby licenses are issued in the name of individuals not responsible for real operation; and *AB 400 (Miller), establishing a disqualification period for persons convicted of operating without proper license.

In the area of “prevailing rate” legislation, although a Federation bill *AB 192 (Wilson) requiring the inclusion of health and welfare contributions in the determination of "prevailing rates" failed in the Senate Labor Committee after passage by the Assembly, other less comprehensive but beneficial bills were enacted. As reported under STATE, COUNTY AND MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES, Federation bill *AB 257 (Donald D. Doyle) permits state contributions into trust funds for group life and disability insurance, and another bill, introduced at Governor Knight's insistence, AB 1267 (Nielsen), gives the State Personnel Board power to authorize payments into private funds for health and welfare benefits for non-permanent state employees hired as laborers, workmen and mechanics.

Limited progress was also made in labor's effort to reverse a State Personnel Board decision of a year ago whereby a number of prevailing rate positions occupied on a permanent basis were transferred to monthly range positions paying lower rates. An outright repealer bill, AB 2411 (Nielsen), failed on its last hurdle in the Senate, but a resolution calling for review and reversal was adopted. These bills are also reported under STATE, COUNTY AND MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES. The adverse Personnel Board decision as it applied to the San Francisco harbor was reversed in SB 1648 (Robert I. McCarthy), reported under HARBORS.

On the negative side, the Federation was successful in correcting many bills that either exempted public works from competitive bidding requirements or removed public work done by day labor from the prevailing rate provisions of the Labor Code. The bills in this category are too numerous to mention except for the few listed as examples below.

Bills marked * were sponsored by the Federation

Good Bills

*AB 192 (Wilson). As passed by the Assembly without opposition, provided that employer contributions for health and welfare, pensions, and vacations shall be included in determining the prevailing rate of per diem wages on all public works falling within the scope of Section 1720 of the Labor Code. Tabled in Senate Committee on Labor.

*AB 370 (Don A. Allen). Required of applicants for contractor's license, as a condition of issuance, and of contractor licensees prior to the commencement of activity, the filing of a $25,000 bond issued by an admitted surety insurer insuring the risk of personal injury, when engaging in the business of wrecking or demolition of structures. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 399 (Miller). As amended and enacted, removes in contractors' licensing law, the so-called "paper licensing" provision whereby the contractor's license is issued in the name of an individual who is not responsible for the conduct of the real operations; requires that the applicant for license be a bona fide employee with a legitimate relationship to the organization for whom he is carrying the license with the resultant interest and responsibility in the activities of such contractor. Chapter 720.

AB 1453 (Hanna). Referred to interim committee for further study.

Chapter 399.

AB 3060 (Donald D. Doyle). As introduced, required licensing of any person who advertises himself as a contractor, regardless of whether his operations as a builder are otherwise exempted from the contractors' licensing law. As enacted, contains an additional provision making it a misdemeanor to falsely advertise as a contractor without holding a valid license. Chapter 948.

AB 3394 (Crawford and others). Required two-ton or heavier trucks used by contractors to display the name of such contractor, his address and primary contracting license number and his primary contracting classification or classifications for which he is licensed. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3881 (MacBride). As amended and passed, required cities and counties, as a condition precedent to the issuance of any building permit, to require applicant, unless specifically exempt, to submit evidence that he or his agent or representative is licensed to perform the work covered by the application; prohibited issuance of permit unless evidence is submitted. Vetoes by Governor.

SB 1562 (Gibson and others). Provides that when any contractor's license has been suspended or revoked, any additional license issued in the name of the licensee or for which he furnished qualifying experience and appearance may be suspended or revoked without further notice. Chapter 1712.

Bad Bills

AB 190 (Elliott). Originally a skeleton bill, amended to give a person who engages in the business or acts in the capacity of a contractor without knowledge that a license is required or that his license has expired the right to bring or maintain an action in a state court for the collection of compensation for the performance of the illegally performed work. Referred to interim committee for further study.

AB 2107 (Brown). Added provision relating to actions against sureties on contractor's bonds on public works for labor or materials and supplies and reasonable attorneys' fees, to provide that no action shall be filed against sureties until 60 days after the notice of claim is given to the surety or sureties. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3709 (Biddick). Exempted school district bids from specifying the general prevailing rate of per diem wages and the rate of holiday and overtime work in the locality for each craft, classification or type of work needed to execute the contract, provided the school district board determined such rates in accordance with prevailing rate provisions of the Labor Code and filed such rates with the secretary of the governing board. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3949 (Ernest R. Geddes). Modifies requirement that city council let contracts for improvement of street lighting to lowest bidder to permit council to award contract at its discretion without competitive bidding where the council determines there is only one contractor practically capable of serving the street lighting system to be improved in the manner provided in the plans and specifications and that such contractor is subject to the jurisdiction of Public Utilities Commission; removes conflicting provisions. Chapter 998.
SB 2304 (Dolwig). Provided that no person who does not have a contractual relationship directly with prime or general contractor shall maintain action against surety on contractor's bond unless he has given notice to the contractor within 30 days after commencement of delivery of materials for performance of services that materials have been delivered or are being delivered or that services have been or are being rendered; imposed like restriction on right to receive payment for claims. Referred to interim committee for further study.

Other Bills

AB 429 (Ernest R. Geddes). Amends Los Angeles County Flood Control Act to require bids for contracts if cost exceeds $10,000 rather than $5,000; also requires engagement of independent contractors for services if aggregate cost, exclusive of district materials, exceeds $6,500 rather than $2,000. Chapter 1106.

AB 945 (Bradley). Amends, repeals and adds various sections to the Health and Safety Code regarding county sanitation districts: provides that work exceeding $4,500 shall be let to lowest responsible bidder, but permits rejection of all bids by four-fifths vote of district board and performance of work by day labor; contains specific provision inserted by Federation prohibiting language from being construed to exempt any work from the prevailing rate provisions of the Labor Code; also prohibits incurring of bonded indebtedness without vote of the people of the district and applies conflict of interest law to district employees. Under former law there existed no limit on amount of work that may be done by day labor. Chapter 2123.

AB 1099 (Belotti). As introduced, was a bad bill: revised the provision for performance of a state public work for use of rented tools or equipment to require finding by Department of Public Works that work did not lend itself to preparation of plans and specifications to enable bids to be taken on lump sum or unit basis and to provide that contract may provide for equipment rental and, in addition, for furnishing of necessary materials and labor for the work. As amended by the Federation and enacted, specifically requires the application of prevailing rates on such work and excludes regular maintenance work from the exemption in the original bill. Chapter 605.

AB 1130 (Hansen). As amended and enacted provides that contracts of county water districts in excess of $2,000 shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder instead of all contracts as presently required, while excepting contracts between districts for furnishing labor, materials and supplies required for improvements upon terms and conditions elected by the district boards. Chapter 1171.

AB 1500 (Backstrand). As introduced, was a bad bill allowing Department of Public Works to authorize a state agency to carry out its own project where the estimated cost did not exceed $50,000. Amended in Assembly to assure that such maximum shall not imply that a larger amount of work than presently authorized may be performed by day labor instead of by contract to the lowest bidder. Chapter 1216.

AB 1501 (Backstrand). Increases from $2,000 to $5,000 the value of public works projects falling within the application of the State Contract Act requiring letting to the lowest bidder. Chapter 466.

AB 1540 (Backstrand). Permits emergency highway work by counties to be done by majority rather than unanimous consent of legislative body, and defines a great emergency for such purposes as including a state of disaster as defined in the Military and Veterans Code, Section 1505. Chapter 412.

AB 2673 (Schrade and others). As amended and enacted, permits irrigation districts to construct works or any part thereof without calling for bids if the California District Securities Commission so approves. Former law permitted rejection of all bids, so that change merely permits work to be done by force account in the first instance without the necessity of going through bidding procedure if the requisite approval is obtained. Although the Federation unsuccessfully sought clarifying amendment that no work shall be exempt from prevailing rate provisions of Labor Code, a legislative counsel's opinion to the effect that such prevailing rate provisions already applied was secured. Chapter 525.

AB 2889 (McGee). As introduced, provided that in Los Angeles county, maintenance, alteration or repair work upon county buildings may, in the discretion of the Board of Supervisors, be done either by contract or by force account without any limitation as to the value of the project. As amended and enacted, the exemption from going to bid is restricted to alteration or repair work upon county-owned buildings where the cost does not exceed $50,000, and only if before the work is authorized the Board of Supervisors determines that detailed plans for the existing building are obsolete or do not exist, and that because of the age or condition of the building it is impractical to have detailed plans and specifications prepared for the proposed work. Chapter 2407.

AB 3226 (Ernest R. Geddes). Requires that if applicant for building permit under the state Housing Act is other than the owner, the application must include the name and address of the owner. Chapter 1405.

AB 3327 (Miller). Originally was a bad bill, authorizing registrar of contractors to retroactively reinstate any license suspended for failure of licensee to notify registrar of cessation of employment of person whose experience qualified the licensee for a license or employment of a person whose license is denied, suspended or revoked. As amended and enacted, merely provides that a contractor may maintain an action in court for compensation for services performed for six months after license has been suspended for failure to notify the registrar to renew, provided such failure is due to inadvertence. Chapter 845.

AB 3587 (Brown). As amended and enacted, relieves requirement that drainage districts go to bid on all construction projects valued under $2,000. Existing law already permits rejection of all bids on any project, and construction by force account under Labor Code prevailing rate provisions. Chapter 1435.

AB 3922 (Gaffney). Originally a skeleton bill, amended in the Assembly to permit bridge and highway districts to do emergency work by day labor without letting contracts, or in cases where work is done by contract in whole or in part, to do such work on a cost plus basis. As enacted, contains a Federal amendment to assure payment of general prevailing rate of per diem wages on such emergency work. Chapter 1455.

AB 4123 (Dahl). Permits employment on public works of aliens admitted under the Refugee Relief Act of 1953. Chapter 727.

AB 4143 (Johnson). Permits cities and counties to lease property up to 99 years for stadium, park, recreational fair, exposition or exhibition purposes. Chapter 1475.

SB 1203 (Gibson and others). As amended and enacted, declares bankruptcy of licensed contractor arising to substantial degree from his operations as a cause for suspension or revocation of license; provides conditions for renewal of such license, including the condition that each contract undertaken by the licensee be separately covered by a bond conditioned on performance of the contract and payment of labor and material required by such contract. Vetoed by Governor.

SB 440 (Busch). Adds mandatory requirement that court assign counsel to defend any indigent person accused of a crime who desires but is unable to employ counsel. Chapter 209.

Bad Bills

AB 986 (Weinberger and others). Introduced a uniform post-conviction procedure for collateral attacks upon sentences imposed upon persons convicted of felonies; provided one remedy to take the place of all common law and statutory remedies heretofore available for challenging the validity of incarceration under sentence of death or imprisonment. Passed by Assembly and sent to interim committee for further study on the Senate side.

ACA 39 (Meyers and others). Proposed constitutional amendment to provide for holdover grand juries. Refused adoption on the Assembly floor and then referred to interim committee for further study.

ELECTIONS

As a prelude of what is to come in a few years when district reapportionment is again before the legislature, virtually all measures affecting elections and election procedures at the 1957 session were subjected to intensive partisan scrutiny to the point that many detrimental provisions not geared to the functioning of committees on a per capita basis, such as the LLPE, was a prime example of partisan debate. It was literally riddled by so many amendments before passage by the Assembly that the author of the bill, himself, dropped the bill in disgust on the Senate side.

Traditional measures supported by labor fell short of passage again this year. These include: complete repeal of cross-filing, and restoration of the time-off-to-vote law to assure workers such time as a matter of right. In regard to the latter, a Senate bill on the subject, SB 861 (Desmond), listed separately at the end of this section, was passed and signed into law. It removes the presumption that a person having four hours to vote before or after his working shift shall not need extra time to vote, thus converting the law to an unmodified "need" concept.

Also worth noting, is a "good" bill signed into law, SB 458 (Richards), which establishes a statutory basis for numbering ballot propositions.

Bills marked * were sponsored by the Federation

Good Bills

AB 38 (Rees and others). Eliminated cross-filing for partisan office. Died in Assembly committee after refusal to withdraw by roll call vote of 30-36.

AB 271 (Conrad and others). Provides that affidavit of person absent from county and desiring to register to vote shall specify residence or post office address, rather than the Assembly district or precinct in which he claims residence; provides affidavit may be sent to clerk either by registered or certified mail but only wherever possible. Chapter 687.

Chapter 2122. Requires voter's approval of ACA 2.

*AB 1566 (Kilpatrick). As introduced, required school board elections to be held on regular general election dates, provided that in no case shall a school board election be held on a Friday. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3580 (Nielsen). Reestablished as a matter of right that workers may take two hours between opening and closing of polls without penalty or without deduction from usual salary or wages to vote at any general, direct primary or presidential primary election. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3877 (Caldecott and others). Established a Fair Elections Practices Study Commission. Passed Assembly and died in Senate committee.

ACA 2 (MacBride and others). Proposes constitutional amendment to permit legislature to give new state residents in the state at least 54 days, but less than one year, the right to vote for presidential electors provided such persons would have been qualified to vote in another state. Filed with Secretary of State for placement on 1958 general election ballot. Resolutions, Chapter 318. See also implementing legislation AB 932 (MacBride and others).

ACA 6 (Busterud and others). Proposed a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age from 21 to 18. Refused adoption on Assembly floor by roll call vote of 51-23, thus dying on the Assembly floor.

ACA 7 (Burton and others), also proposing the same reduction in voting age, died on the Assembly floor following defeat of ACA 6.

ACA 13 (Elliott). Prohibited the charter or ordinance of chartered or general law cities and counties from denying candidates for county and city elective offices the right to have occupation designated upon the ballot the same as in the candidate's affidavit of registration. Refused adoption on Assembly floor by roll call vote of 30-33, thus dying on the Assembly floor.

SB 458 (Richards). As introduced, required initiative measures, referendum measures and legislative proposals in the order of adoption, to be placed on ballot in the order named, rather than as determined by the Secretary of State. As amended and enacted, establishes statutory order to be legisrelative proposals in the order determined by the Secretary of State, followed by initiative measures in the order in which they qualify, and then referendum measures in the order in which they qualify. Chapter 2410.

SB 1932 (Miller and Erhart). Like AB 38 (Rees and others), eliminated cross-filing for partisan office. Re-fused passage on Senate floor by roll call vote of 13-24, thus dying on the Senate floor.

Bad Bills

AB 273 (Conrad and others). As introduced, provided for cancellation of registration for not voting at the preceding general election, rather than either the preceding primary or general election.

As amended and passed by the Assembly, carried a two-year expiration date. Died in Senate committee.

AB 756 (Rees and others). Required filing of campaign statement by any group of persons, whether incorporated or not, which contributes or spends any money or valuable thing, directly or indirectly to aid the nomination or election of any candidate or group of candidates. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 2419 (Lindsay and others). Made it unlawful for a person, including a public or private corporation or labor union, to contribute more than $200 either in cash or other consideration, on behalf of an election of a candidate at a primary or other election; made violation by any person, officer or agent a misdemeanor punishable by fine up to $10,000 or one year in county jail or both. Killed in Assembly committee.

AB 2812 (Rees and others). So-called fair election practices bill: as introduced, completely rewrote provisions of Election Code regarding the reporting of campaign expenditures and contributions, to require campaign committees, defined to include committees such as the LLPE, and campaign treasurers appointed by candidate, to file, under penalty of $1,000 fine or six months in jail or both and forfeiture of nomination for office in the case of successful candidates, a detailed and accurate statement both before and after primary and general elections reporting all campaign expenditures and all contributions exceeding $50.00 made directly or indirectly for the purpose of aiding or defeating the nomination or election of any candidate or group of candidates. Prohibited committee from acting for candidate without his written authorization; required contributions to be made in name of person making them and only to duly authorized campaign treasurer; and contained other provisions, not geared to committees functioning on a per capita basis although clearly applicable to such committees, which raised serious technical problems as to compliance with the law and which could have precluded continued LLPE operation on a per capita basis, especially during interim periods between elections.

Amended on numerous occasions both in committee and on the floor of Assembly as a result of intensive partisan activities by legislative members of both major parties. As finally passed by the Assembly, was literally riddled with amendments to the point that the primary author asked that the bill be dropped on the Senate side. In its final amended form prior to defeat, the bill prohibited altogether the operation of political action bodies established by organized labor, in addition to prohibiting contributions from outside a district either by individuals or by committees, and contributions from oil and gas corporations. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3598 (Britschgi and others). Prohibited an appointed public officer or employee from becoming a candidate for any public office other than the one held at the time of becoming a candidate unless public officer or employee resigns from his position or requests and receives a leave of absence at least 60 days prior to election. Died in Senate committee.

Other Bills

AB 31 (Levering). As amended and enacted, provides that applications for absentee ballots received after the 60th day but prior to the 20th day before an election shall be held until the legal acceptance date of 20 days before an election, and accordingly processed instead of being returned. Chapter 786.

AB 293 (Conrad and others). Requires filing of ballot measure with Secretary of State at any time prior to 150, rather than 130 days, before an election; requires press release calling for arguments on ballot measures to be mailed by Secretary of State at least 170, rather than 150 days, before a legislative measure is to be voted upon, and at least 140 days, rather than 120 days, before an initiative or referendum measure is to be voted upon. Chapter 2026.

EMBALMERS

Bad Bills

AB 3095 (Johnson). As introduced, was an extremely bad bill, reducing the requirements for licensing in this state of out of state licensed embalmers by removing the apprenticeship requirement and allowing the licensing of such out of state embalmers by oral examination at the discretion of the State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers, thereby placing absolute authority in the hands of the Board to provide for reciprocity in licensing between states. As amended in Assembly committee and sent to the floor of the Assembly over the strenuous objections of the Federation, contained the essential provisions of the original bill, except that the Board was given power to license out of state embalmers even without an oral examination, while establishing the absolute requirement that all state licensees must furnish proof of completion of a high school course.

Over objections of sponsors, the measure was amended by the Federation on the floor of the Assembly by roll call vote of 44-17 to insert the requirement of an examination prior to the licensing of out of state applicants. As so amended, the bill passed the Assembly, but was dropped in Senate committee by the author because of fear that some favorable provisions of another embalmers' bill, SB 1200 (Gibson and others), would be amended into the bill.

SB 1200 (Gibson and others). As introduced, was a bad bill containing the bad provision of AB 3095 that removed the apprenticeship requirement for licensing in California of out of state licensed embalmers. Also required that of the two years apprenticeship for license as an embalmer, six months be served before commencing the required course of instruction; contained another provision favored by the embalmers requiring that one member of the State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers be a licensed embalmer who is not also a licensed funeral director. As amended several times into acceptable form to the embalmers and passed by the Senate, exempted out of state applicants from apprenticeship requirement only if the state standards where the applicant is licensed and where he practiced are equal to those in California for licensing of embalmers. Died in Assembly committee.

Other Bills

AB 3096 (Johnson). Increases the amount of fees and penalties prescribed by the funeral directors and embalmers' law. Chapter 651.

AB 3097 (Johnson). Makes unprofessional conduct grounds for disciplinary action against funeral directors and embalmers; makes it a misdemeanor for a person to represent himself as a funeral director without a license. Chapter 652.

SB 288 (Gibson and others). Limits to six months the time which members of State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers may serve after expiration of term; prohibits more than three consecutive terms except as to existing members. Declares that record of conviction or certified copy of such record is conclusive evidence of a conviction; defines conviction and authorizes Board to suspend, revoke or decline license after such conviction. Provides that right to practice is suspended on adjudication or commitment to a state hospital or other mental hospital because of mental illness, and provides conditions for restoration of such rights, including necessary protections in case of voluntary commitment. Chapter 1539.
EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES (Private)

Good Bills

AB 1912 (Hawkins). Limited fee that may be charged by private employment agencies to 10 percent of applicant's employment contract for his first month's salary. Referred to interim committee for further study.

AB 2738 (Dills). Prohibited private employment agencies from requiring or accepting advance payment of fees. Referred to interim committee for further study.

Bad Bills

AB 3177 (Conrad). Originally a good bill, deleting the authority of the Labor Commissioner to certify there is no controversy for his determination where the agency presents substantial evidence that applicant acknowledges the fee due. Amended into a bad bill by adding that the failure on the part of applicant to appear after notice of hearing shall constitute prima facie proof that a fee was due the agency. Died in Assembly committee.

SB 1046 (Cunningham). Deleted requirement that the forms of contracts and receipts used by private employment agencies be uniform and approved by Labor Commissioner. Referred to interim committee for further study.

SB 1047 (Cunningham). Weakened regulations for private employment agencies by allowing agencies to give applicants a referral receipt instead of a contract or receipt; altered the amount of information required to be given the applicant, and among other things removed requirements that receipts show manner of transmission of order for help, the date and number of the receipt, the fee paid by the prospective employer, the cost of transportation and by whom paid, and the general conditions of employment. Allowed agency to give or mail the referral receipt one day before the applicant is referred, rather than requiring the agency to give the contract or receipt at the time of referral. Referred to interim committee for further study.

SB 1078 (Thompson). As amended, repealed present provisions of the Labor Code regulating private employment agencies under the jurisdiction of the Labor Commissioner, and provided for the regulation by a newly created Division of Placement Services in the Secretary of State's office dominated by an employment placement examining board controlled by the private employment agency interests. Repealed many of the protective provisions written into the law over the years to correct the abuses of private employment agencies. Referred to interim committee for further study.

Six other bills intended to accomplish the same purpose died in committees in their respective houses of origin. These bills included AB 2217 (McCullister), AB 2218 (McCullister), AB 3156 (Grant and Klocksiem), AB 3157 (Grant and Klocksiem), SB 1769 (John F. McCarthy), SB 1770 (John F. McCarthy).

SB 1176 (Desmond and Gibson). Eliminated the requirement that private employment agencies agree to refer any controversy between agency and applicant regarding terms of agency contract to the Labor Commissioner for adjustment; deleted provisions requiring parties involved in controversy arising under chapter to refer matters in dispute to Labor Commissioner, and required that he hear and determine same. Killed in Senate Labor Committee.

SB 1180 (Desmond and Gibson). Permitted employment agencies to employ collection agencies to collect claims owed or asserted to be owed by an applicant to the agency. Referred to interim committee for further study.

Other Bills

SB 1179 (Desmond and Gibson). Permitted employment agencies to receive and negotiate promissory notes from applicants for fee owed the agency. Referred to interim committee for further study.

FARM LABOR

Improvements in farm labor legislation were restricted to minor beneficial modifications of the farm labor contractors' licensing law. A minimal proposal to create a coordinating commission necessary to study the plight of farm workers, coordinate governmental activities and make legislative recommendations was dumped by the Senate Labor Committee.

Measures extending the provisions of California's social insurance programs to farm workers, all of which failed, are reported under UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE, UNEMPLOYMENT DISABILITY INSURANCE and WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

Good Bills

SB 800 (John F. McCarthy). Created a California Agricultural Labor Resources Committee composed of 15 members, appointed by the Governor with the advising consent of the Senate, to consist of the Directors of Agriculture, Education, Employment, Public Health, Industrial Relations, Social Welfare and Agricultural Extension.
Service of the University of California, two members of boards of supervisors of counties in which agricultural activities are prominent, two members from agricultural associations or groups, two members representing labor interests and two members from the general public, complete with provisions for a full-time executive officer with staff; required committee to make studies, conduct educational programs, hold public meetings, advise and consult with various groups, and make legislative recommendations regarding working and living conditions of agricultural labor. Supported strenuously by Federation and various church groups. Killed in Senate Committee on Labor.

SB 1541 (Short). As amended and enacted, requires farm labor contractor to register with Labor Commissioner all vehicles used by him in his operation as a farm labor contractor but not owned by him, and have in effect insurance policies covering such vehicles; requires contractors to use such vehicles on a fixed fee basis only. Chapter 1703.

SB 1542 (Short). As amended and enacted, includes so-called “day haulers” employed by farm labor contractors to transport, or who transport for a fee, farm laborers by motor vehicle within the meaning of the term “farm labor contractor,” thereby subjecting such day haulers to regulation as farm labor contractors. Chapter 1704.

SB 1543 (Short). Required farm labor contractors to keep records showing earnings and payments to employees on forms specified by Labor Commissioner. Died in Senate committee.

SB 1544 (Montgomery). As amended and enacted, requires all vehicles used by a farm labor contractor for the transportation of workers in his operations as a farm labor contractor to have displayed prominently at the entrance of the vehicle the name of the farm labor contractor and the number of his license issued by the Labor Commissioner. Chapter 1705.

SB 1545 (Montgomery). As amended and enacted, requires chauffeur’s license of farm labor contractor or any of his employees who regularly operate a bus or a truck in the transportation of farm workers in connection with labor contractor operations. Chapter 1706.

Bad Bills

SB 42 (Murdy and others). Under guise of state’s rights and adequate state standards, urged the President and the Secretary of Labor to direct the Bureau of Employment Security to forego its new program of enforcing housing standards in labor camps used to house Mexican nationals imported into the state. An attempt to sneak this resolution through during the bill-introducing part of the session was repulsed. The bill died on the Senate inactive file during the second half of the session after proponents were unsuccessful in attempts to muster up sufficient votes to secure adoption.

A similar resolution, HR 61, was actually slipped through the Assembly during the bill-introducing portion of the session by roll call vote of 46-26.

FIRE FIGHTERS

Bills marked * were sponsored by the Federation

Good Bills

AB 346 (Johnson). Allows county to lend funds to fire protection district within county for acquisition and construction of district property; requires Board of Supervisors to specify date and manner for repayment within certain established limits. Chapter 859.

AB 525 (Bonelli). Requires that when territory withdraws from a fire protection district and is included within a city, the city must use funds received as a result for fire protection purposes; provides that a city or portion thereof desiring to be included in a fire protection district need not be adjacent to the fire protection district. Chapter 760.

*AB 526 (Bonelli). Provides that within one year after incorporation or before January 1, 1958, whichever is later, an incorporated city must decide whether it wishes to withdraw from the fire protection district, or thereafter the withdrawal can only be effected by vote of the people or by petition pursuant to the provisions of Article 12, Chapter 2, Part 3, Division 12 of the Health and Safety Code. Chapter 797.

A similar bill sponsored by the Federation, *AB 1730 (Masterson and others), was dropped in favor of passage of this bill.

AB 532 (Johnson). Fixed minimum non-service-connected disability retirement pension of safety members of a county retirement system at one-third, rather than one-fourth, of final compensation. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 994 (Ernest R. Geddes and others). As introduced, deleted provisions for modification of benefits for injury in line of duty under county employees retirement systems when workmen's compensation is awarded for the same injury or disability; provided that non-safety member who dies or suffers disability while engaged in active fire suppression when acting as volunteer fire fighter, etc., shall have his disability or death benefit determined as though such member were a safety member.

As liberalized by amendment and enacted, extends safety member disability benefits for service-connected injuries to all members, and incorporates the provisions of *AB 1716 (Masterson and others) allowing member entitled to retirement for non-service-connected disability who dies prior to retirement to have elected, in lieu of death benefit, an optional death allowance of 60 percent of pension for non-service-connected disability, retroactive to the date of member's death, for life of spouse, and same amount for unmarried surviving children under the age of 18 of the deceased member if the spouse dies. Provides for similar election on behalf of surviving unmarried children under 18 of deceased member leaving no spouse. Chapter 1161.

AB 1236 (Donald D. Doyle and others). Established a voluntary arbitration procedure for fire fighters. Died in Assembly committee.

Similar measures, AB 3357 (Donahoe and others) and SB 2149 (Miller), also died in committee of their respective house of origin.

AB 1585 (MacBride and others). Fixed the minimum disability retirement allowance under state employees retirement system at one-third, rather than one-fourth, of final compensation. Died in Assembly committee.

HOUSING

The focal point of attack in this field of legislation was the Division of Housing in the Department of Industrial Relations. A bill to abolish the division was introduced, but was not taken up as such. Instead, the attack was shifted to the budget bill where an attempt was made in the Senate to restrict division funds to the administration of only the Labor Camp Act. After many conferences with the Director of Industrial Relations and members of the legislature, the restricting language was eventually taken out of the budget, with the understanding that there would be more and stricter enforcement of the Labor Camp Act, closer liaison between cities and counties in the promotion of building codes and building department and trailer park ordinances, and less emphasis on enforcement of state laws in cities and counties which have adopted building codes and trailer park ordinances that meet the state minimum requirements.

In other areas of legislation, the major enactment was a bill permitting redevelopment agencies to undertake parallel "urban renewal projects" with emphasis on rehabilitation and conservation, rather than complete redevelopment. An attempt to further hamstring the operation of redevelopment agencies, on the other hand, was repulsed by the defeat of SB 2273 (Desmond), which would have imposed unreasonable owner-participation requirements and otherwise prohibit the functioning of redevelopment agencies except by two-thirds vote of the electorate.

Good Bills

AB 1884 (Hanna). Originally an excellent bill, prohibiting any home building corporation from being dissolved or collapsed for at least 18 months after the last sale of a house built by the corporation. As amended and enacted, is less protective: permits superior court of county, upon petition of three or more persons who have purchased homes from a construction corporation, to make orders and adjudge as to any and all matters concerning the windup of affairs of the corporation; provides that if corporation has, within 18 months prior to the commencement of the proceedings for winding up its affairs, been in the building business as a contractor or subcontractor for residential purposes, the court shall make such provision in its orders as it deems reasonably necessary to protect the rights of the purchasers of the homes, including rights which might arise against the corporation for breach of warranties in connection with the construction. Chapter 1256.

AB 3336 (Burton and others). Appropriated $50 million from general fund to State Allocation Board for allocation to public housing authorities upon local application for the construction of low-cost public housing units for senior citizens of low income, required public housing authorities in each housing project thereafter constructed to set aside an unspecified percent of the dwellings for rentals to senior citizens, and establish priority therefor. Referred to interim committee for further study.

Died in Senate committee after numerous amendments restricting bill to agencies hereafter established and to require majority vote.

SB 2520 (Donnelly and Berry). Transferred to Commissioner of Corporations the functions of the Commission of Housing in the Industrial Relations Department regarding limited dividend housing corporations. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2521 (Donnelly and Berry). Abolished Division of Housing within the Department of Industrial Relations and transferred its functions to local health officers subject to supervision of the Department of Public Health. Died in Senate committee.

Other Bills

AB 781 (Henderson). Deletes power of housing authority to hire secretary to serve at pleasure of commission; provides that authority shall determine the terms of employment, as well as classifications, duties and compensation of all employees. Chapter 764.

AB 977 (Stewart). As introduced, authorized redevelopment agencies to undertake urban renewal projects the same as redevelopment projects for the primary purpose of rehabilitation and conservation of blighted, deteriorated and deteriorating areas; defined powers of agency, community legislative body, planning commission and other public officers and bodies with reference to such renewal projects, which, as defined, crossed redevelopment lines so that redevelopment, rehabilitation, and conservation may be carried on simultaneously in one project as well as on a coordinated basis; prohibited urban renewal provisions from becoming operative in any community until legislative body declares by written resolution the need for urban renewal.

As amended several times and passed by the Assembly, contained additional provisions protecting displaced persons in renewal plan areas in regard to relocation; also imposed new procedures for contesting the validity of a plan, permitting review by the superior court of the county in which the land affected by the plan is situated. Amended further on the Senate side along these lines and to require longer notice and public hearings prior to adoption of redevelopment plan, and sent to interim committee for further study.

Essential provisions were amended into SB 1234, enacted into law.

SB 1081 (Hollister). As amended and enacted, provides that no provisions of the State Housing Act, instead of only those relating to design, construction, reconstruction, improvement, conversion or alteration of buildings, shall apply within any city having and enforcing a local ordinance prescribing minimum standards equal to or greater than provisions of the state law; provides that such local ordinances shall supersede the provisions of state law. Chapter 1620.

SB 1234 (Robert I. McCarthy). As introduced, permitted community redevelopment agencies to pay relocation costs to persons, businesses, etc., displaced by redevelopment. Following defeat of AB 977 (Stewart), in Senate committee, was amended on Assembly floor to include the essential provisions of AB 977 to permit redevelopment agencies to undertake urban renewal projects. SB 2273 (Desmond). As introduced, was merely a skeleton bill. Later amended to impose harsh restrictions on community redevelopment and the acquisition and disposition of property therefor: imposed unreasonable owner participation requirements on redevelopment projects and prohibited functioning of redevelopment agency except by two-thirds vote of community voting at an election called for that purpose. Later amended to remove objectionable provisions and passed by the Senate, but was referred to interim committee for further study on the Assembly side.

INDUSTRIAL SAFETY

Activity in this field of legislation was focused on legislation to establish an overall state agency or commission charged with coordinating functions in the protection of workers and the public from the hazards of radioactive materials. The Federation followed this legislation closely to assure the workability of any legislation passed, and to secure labor representation on commissions and advisory bodies proposed by the various bills. The two major bills were SB 654 (Miller) and AB 4126 (Bruce Allen), but neither was enacted because of failure of the Assembly and Senate to iron out conflicting viewpoints. In their final form, labor representation was provided for in both bills.

Despite the failure to enact overall radiological safety legislation, passage was secured of another bill, AB 3092 (Chapel) to provide specifically that the state Division of Industrial Safety has full authority to issue safety orders protecting workers against exposure to ionizing radiation and radioactive materials.

Bills marked * were sponsored by the Federation

Good Bills

AB 310 (McCullister). As introduced, required all cranes to be equipped with automatic boom stop approved by Division of Industrial Safety. As amended and approved by Assembly committee on Industrial Relations, bill was restricted to crawler-track or rubber tire lifting cranes, and specifically exempted equipment used exclusively for non-lifting purposes such as ditch digging, clam shoveling or agricultural purposes. Died in Ways and Means Committee.

AB 537 (Thomas and others). Established statutory safety standards for longshore, stevedore and waterfront warehouse operations. Sent to interim committee for further study.

AB 674 (Gaffney and others). Made it a misdemeanor for employer to fail to make available proper ambulance and first aid facilities on a construction job site to insure prompt and adequate treatment in case of industrial injury; required Division of Industrial Safety to enforce provisions. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1498 (Backstrand). As amended, prohibited bulk transportation of gas under pressure unless tank has been manufactured in compliance with rules and regulations adopted by the Department of Industrial Relations. Referred to interim committee for further study.

AB 1499 (Backstrand). Prohibited trailers and semi-trailers from being used for the transportation of workmen, excepting any semi-trailer originally designed and constructed by a manufacturer as a passenger carrying vehicle and registered as such prior to January 1, 1958. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1609 (Thomas J. Doyle). As amended, makes three years' service requirement for steam locomotive engineers applicable to all locomotive engineers, and provides that service requirement for train conductors must be in road service. Chapter 180.

AB 4058 (Meyers). Required employers employing persons to make excavations more than five feet in depth to have work supervised to protect employees from cave-ins. Died in Assembly committee.

SB 1981 (Cunningham). Provides that all trains and engines however propelled shall provide a first aid kit for persons who may be injured in the course of train operation; repeals requirement of first aid kits in steam trains only. Chapter 716.

Other Bills

AB 3093 (Chapel and others). Required Department of Public Health to prescribe rules, not inconsistent with those established by National Bureau of Standards, to control transportation, storage, packaging, sale, distribution, production and disposal of radioactive materials which may affect public health or the health of persons exposed to radioactivity or carrying radiation; prescribed penalties for violation of rules and manner of enforcement; prohibited operation of provisions to prevent Department of Industrial Relations from establishing rules for the protection of the health and safety of employees. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 4126 (Allen and Lindsay). As amended and passed by the Assembly, created State Radiological Safety Agency headed by director appointed by the Governor and assisted by a technical council of seven members, also appointed by the Governor, with specified powers and duties for the protection of the health and safety of the people from the dangers of radioactivity; provided that agency shall serve as a technical advisory group for the coordination of regulations of state agencies pertaining to the production and utilization of atomic energy and the ownership, transportation and operation of radioactive materials and radiation equipment so as to avoid conflict. Provided that no regulation of an agency could become effective without being submitted to the Radiological Safety Agency for its advice. Also provided for a radiation protection coordinating committee composed of representatives of various state agencies involved in the field, including Division of Industrial Safety of the Department of Industrial Relations. Contained no provision for labor representation on the technical council within the Radiological Safety Agency.

Amended in Senate to provide for labor representation on technical council and to give the agency authority to adopt rules and regulations necessary to carry out its functions and at the same time to prohibit a regulation of any other state agency on the subject of atomic energy and the use and handling of radioactive materials and radiation equipment from becoming effective unless approved by the State Radiological Safety Agency. As such, died in Senate committee.

SB 654 (Miller and others). As amended and passed by the Senate, established within the state a Radiation Safety Commission consisting of five members, without labor representation, with specified duties and powers and with general study and coordinating functions for the purpose of protecting the health and safety of individuals from the hazards of radioactive materials. Specifically prohibited regulation of any state agency pertaining to the production or utilization of atomic energy from becoming effective until approved by the Radiation Safety Commission and the legislature except on an interim basis in an emergency situation with the approval of the Governor for later submission to the legislature.

Amended several times in the Assembly, and as passed by that body, provided for labor representation on the Radiation Safety Commission, and eliminated the requirements that the legislature approve interim and emergency regulations by various state agencies on the subject of radiation, and carried a new chapter providing for air pollution research in accordance with a bill that had been killed on the Senate side.

Senate refused concurrence in Assembly amendments. A free conference committee was appointed and its report was adopted by the Senate, but rejected by the Assembly, thereby allowing the bill to die in conference committee. Conference committee report deleted the provisions for air pollution research and eliminated altogether the requirement that the legislature approve regulations of various state agencies; also restored absolute authority of Radiation Safety Commission to veto any state agency regulation.

SB 655 (Miller and others). As amended and passed by both houses, appropriated $25,000 from the general fund for the support of the Radiation Safety Commission proposed in SB 654, but defeated. Accordingly, vetoed by the Governor.
INSURANCE (Including Health and Welfare)

The major Federation accomplishment at the 1957 session in this area of legislation was the passage of AB 1773 (Rees), containing the provisions of a workable law regulating employee health and welfare programs. As was the case at the 1955 session, two years earlier, the Federation was faced with a large number of regulatory bills to correct alleged abuses, some of which, although not necessarily bad in purpose, contained a number of ill-advised provisions which would have seriously impaired the efficient and continued operation of many funds. The Federation, desirous of assuring the passage of a workable bill at the 1957 session, accordingly sponsored *AB 256 (Donald D. Doyle), a measure similar to one defeated the previous session, giving the Insurance Commissioner supervisory authority over health and welfare funds, and the necessary power to adopt reasonable regulations consistent with the needs found by the commissioner to exist.

The AFL measure immediately came under attack of the powerful banking and employer interests who had killed the Federation measure two years ago, and who secured an amendment to exempt their unilaterally administered programs from regulation. The battle at the 1957 session, therefore, centered around getting a bill through that would apply uniformly in workable form. A further complicating factor was the determination of leading Democratic legislators that the bill enacted be a measure authored by one of their members, namely, AB 1773 (Rees), a bill containing more detailed provisions for regulation than *AB 256, but nevertheless generally acceptable. In an extended series of conferences on these bills, agreement was finally reached on the support of AB 1773 as the Rees-Doyle Act, with amendments to provide detailed regulatory authority without sacrificing the flexibility necessary for a workable law. The opposition of the banking interests and employers with unilateral plans was finally circumvented by carefully drawn language, which, while exempting their funds and trustees from the provisions of the bills, nevertheless covers their "programs".

Good Bills

*AB 256 (Donald D. Doyle and others). As introduced, gave state Insurance Commissioner authority to supervise and investigate all health and welfare programs created by, or on account of contracts between, labor organizations and employers; required all records of such health and welfare programs to be open to investigation by the Insurance Commissioner in accordance with rules and regulations which he may adopt; made it the duty of the commissioner to determine whether such programs are being expended and used only for authorized purposes. Amended in Assembly committee, over the opposition of the Federation, to confine regulation to "trust funds" instead of "programs" and to exempt any trust fund of which all the trustees are subject to supervision and regulation by the state Superintendent of Banks, the Controller of Currency of the United States, or the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. Amended again by the Federation to apply to "programs" rather than "trust funds", under a revised exemption provision excluding from the regulatory authority of the Insurance Commissioner a corporate trustee and funds or insurance policies or both placed with such trustee, which is subject to the jurisdiction of the Superintendent of Banks of the state, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System or the Controller of Currency of the United States, thus providing for the regulation of all employee health and welfare "programs". As such, carrying a $414,600 appropriation, was passed by the Assembly as a trailer bill to AB 1773 (Rees), which was accepted by the Federation as the agreed health and welfare bill, should this latter bill fail to secure passage. Dropped on the Senate side upon passage of AB 1773.

AB 353 (O'Connell). Regulated advertising regarding disability insurance and prohibited false and misleading advertising. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 354 (O'Connell). Regulated advertising regarding accident and sickness insurance and prohibited false and misleading advertising. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 686 (Munnell and others). As introduced, was a Federation bill extending full unemployment insurance and unemployment disability insurance coverage to state and local government employees. Following defeat of original bill in Assembly committee, was used by author for reenactment of a measure vetoed by the Governor as being technically defective. As so used and enacted, exempts a labor organization or its incorporated entity for insurance purposes from all provisions of the Insurance Code relating to insurance protection against wage loss from any cause in respect to benefits promised, not exceeding $3,000 in the aggregate for any one loss and the transactions therewith. Chapter 1126.

AB 1732 (Masterson). As amended and enacted, prohibits the cancellation of an auto liability policy prior to the mailing or delivery to the named insured at the address shown in the policy of a written notice of the cancellation, stating that not less than 10 days after the date of such mailing or delivery, the cancellation shall become effective. Chapter 723.

AB 1773 (Rees). As amended six times and enacted, contains the agreed provisions of a workable law regulating employee health and welfare programs: subjects to supervision and investigation of state Insurance Commissioner all health and welfare “programs” created by, or on account of contracts between labor organizations and employers, while excepting from such investigation and supervision the corporate trustee and the funds and insurance policy placed with such corporate trustee which is subject to the jurisdiction of the state Superintendent of Banks, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System or the Controller of Currency in the United States; permits funds of health and welfare programs to be used and expended only for purposes authorized in the creating or governing instrument; requires registration with commissioner of covered health and welfare programs in accordance with rules and regulations which he may adopt, which rules may except from reporting and regulation any program which the commissioner finds (1) a program in which there is no potential detriment to the beneficiaries, or (2) the number of persons employed in this state covered by the plan is less than 25, or (3) the trustees of the program, whose principal place of business is not in the state, are subject to and comply with requirements of any law or any other state or of the United States with respect to registration, filing, examination, statements of reports, but at the same time permitting such exemptions only to the extent that the requirements are substantially complied with by the trustees of the programs complying with the other laws; permits commissioner to examine programs as often as deemed necessary, but not less than once every three years, with power to dispense with such examination wherever an employee health and welfare program is audited by a certified public accountant or a public accountant and the Insurance Commissioner is satisfied with the report; requires all covered programs to open books to commissioner, and gives commissioner authority to administer oaths and examine any person relative to the business of a program; requires commissioner to make a report of all examinations together with conclusions and recommendations, and requires such report to be on file for inspection of any bona fide beneficiary of the program or contributing employer or employee, but only after prior service of the report on the management of the program examined, which must be given opportunity to file with the commissioner additional information and objections with reference to the facts, conclusions or recommendations of the report; requires each program to file an annual report with the commissioner in accordance with his rules and regulations; gives commissioner additional power to address to any employee health and welfare program or its officer or agents any inquiry in relation to its transactions or condition, etc., under conditions of compulsory response; requires program management to make annual report to every contributing employer and covered employee who requests the report; contains stringent provisions against kick-backs in any form to participating employers or labor organizations or agents, officers, or employees thereof from insurance companies, insurance brokers, or suppliers of medical services in connection with the solicitation, sale, service, or administration of a contract providing employee benefits under the program; provides for enforcement and appointment by Governor of an advisory council to make recommendations to the Insurance Commissioner concerning supervision of programs; appropriates $326,000 from Insurance Fund for administration; contains terminal date of June 30, 1960. Chapter 2167.

AB 3468 (O'Connell). Defined and prohibited unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices of business of insurance. Amended to confine bill to advertising, and referred to interim committee for further study on Senate side.

SB 533 (John F. McCarthy). Companion bill to AB 256 (Donald D. Doyle and others). Died in Senate committee.

Bad Bills

AB 920 (Levering and Shell). Provided for stringent and punitive type regulation of negotiated health and welfare and pension trust funds, while exempting plans administered unilaterally by management. Died in Assembly committee.

SB 2400 (Burns). Provided for licensing and detailed regulation by Insurance Commissioner of voluntary health service plans which provide services for members rather than indemnification for hospital and medical care. Established rigid standards, procedures, and reserve requirements which would have forced many prepaid health plans to cease operation. Died in Senate committee.

Other Bills

Chapter 366.

AB 67 (Levering). Authorizes issuance of blanket life insurance policy to newspaper or other periodical publication insuring newsboys and others without requirement of individual enrollment, with premium to be paid by policyholder; permits individual to refuse coverage; authorizes non-liability or limited liability provision for war, military service or aviation; requires approval of form by Insurance Commissioner. Chapter 367.

AB 635 (Kelly). As amended and enacted, provides that no group life policy may be issued which provides term of insurance on any person which, together with any other term insurance under any group life insurance policy or policies issued to employers or any of them, or to the trustee or the fund, established in whole or in part by the employers or any of them, exceeds $50,000 instead of present $20,000. Chapter 354.

LABOR CODE CHANGES—GENERAL

In this important field of legislation, progress was going through the the reactionary Senate Labor Committee in securing the passage of two of its eight measures (Unruh) requires employers to pay the cost of medical examinations required by law of employees as a condition of continued employment, while AB 599 (Davis) secures wages of employees in logging operations. Another important Federation bill, AB 464 (Unruh), prohibiting discrimination in employment because of age, was passed through the Assembly for the first time, but was killed by Senate Labor Committee.

Also worthy of special note is the fate of AB 245 (Burton), the Federation’s $1.25 per hour minimum wage bill. Unfortunately, the Federation was placed in the awkward position of being forced to disown the bill because of the willingness of the author to accept amendments that were completely unacceptable to the Federation. Although the bill traveled all the way to the Senate floor before it was finally killed, this was only because of the manner in which it was literally riddled with exemption amendments. These amendments are detailed below.

In other areas, a noteworthy advancement was the passage of AB 3350 (Donahoe), strengthening the women’s equal pay law in accordance with Federation policy.
Defensively, the Federation was occupied in battling the proposals of the Business and Professional Women to emasculate the women's eight-hour law by removing so-called occupations of a "professional, technical or clerical" nature from its protections. These were embodied in Senate Bills 127 and 128, both by Abshire, which were introduced with two years of "interim study" backing by the Abshire Committee following the 1955 session. The pressure worked up in support of these bills made it impossible to stop them on the Senate side. On the Assembly side, the Federation was successful in securing their defeat by obtaining referral to an interim committee for two more years of study, this time, however, by the more impartial Assembly Committee on Industrial Relations, and within the context of the need for overall revision of related protective provisions of the Labor Code and possible enactment of a state fair labor standards act.

Good Bills

*AB 191 (Wilson). Required state and local public agencies to make contributions to pension funds for their employees engaged in construction, repair, or maintenance work in the same manner and on the same basis as private employers. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 245 (Burton and others). As introduced, established a statutory minimum wage of $1.25 per hour for all employees in all occupations, trades, or industries; provided that minimum wage fixed by order of Industrial Welfare Commission for women and minors shall not be less than the statutory minimum.

Amended in Assembly committee, over protest and objections of Federation, to reduce proposed statutory minimum to $1.10 and to exclude from coverage domestic service employees except those employed to do house cleaning, cooking or house repair and maintenance work, outside salesman, public employees, employees of religious and non-profit organizations, switchboard operators in exchanges with less than 750 stations, and motel managers of unspecified number of units.

As such, bill was disowned by Federation, but nevertheless was sent to the floor of the Assembly where it was further riddled by amendments to exempt minors covered by orders of the Industrial Welfare Commission, agricultural workers, including after harvest occupations involved in the canning and processing of agricultural products and dairy products, and motel managers of less than 31 units.

In this form, bill was passed by roll call vote of 41-33 and sent to Senate, where it was further amended three times in the Senate Committee on Labor and once on the Senate floor to reduce the proposed statutory minimum further to $1.00, exempt all motel managers, broaden exemption for minors to include all persons under 21 years of age regardless of whether covered by Industrial Welfare Commission order, broaden domestic service exemption to exclude all domestic servants, and further exclude from coverage any person being rehabilitated or trained under rehabilitation or training programs in charitable, educational or religious institutions, as well as any member of a religious order, and any individual employed by a motion picture exhibitor.

In this grossly inadequate form, bill was taken up for passage on the Senate floor, but was re-referred to the Senate Labor Committee, where it died, by roll call vote of 16-13, following rejection of an amendment by Abshire to insert the provisions of his defeated bill SB 127, exempting occupations of a professional, technical or clerical nature from the women's 8-hour law.

*AB 369 (Don A. Allen). Required restaurants to secure wages of every employee by depositing in a bank necessary cash or saleable securities. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 460 (Unruh and others). Required payroll stubs or deduction statement to show, in addition to deductions, the period of time covered by each payment of wages, the number of hours worked in such period, the name of the employee, the wage rate or premium pay, if any, and the name and mailing address of each employer. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 463 (Unruh and others). As introduced, prohibited requiring an employee to pay for medical or physical examination required as a condition of continued employment.

As amended, adds to existing law that an employee who is required, as a condition of continued employment, to submit to a medical examination, in accordance with a federal, state or local requirement, shall not be required to pay for or have a deduction from his wages for the cost of such medical examination. Chapter 1113.

*AB 464 (Unruh and others). Prohibited refusing to employ a qualified person solely because such person is older than the limit prescribed by such employer by agreement, employment policy or otherwise. Passed Assembly by roll call vote of 43-22, and killed by Senate Committee on Labor.

*AB 493 (Gaffney and others). Authorized Labor Commissioner to take assignments of, and enforce claims of health and welfare plan payments in the civil as well as criminal court. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 849 (Donahoe and Davis). Contains numerous revisions of Industrial Home Work Act, designed to clarify language without altering the scope of the law, and to improve the enforceability of the law. Chapter 420.

AB 955 (O'Connell). Required a written contract specifying the terms and conditions of employment when a person is hired to do door-to-door selling. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1806 (Henderson). As introduced, was a bad bill, amending the Labor Code relating to prohibitory orders against industrial home work to permit the Industrial Welfare Division to allow a limited exemption from such ban in hardship cases to any person, instead of only those engaged in the industry as a homeworker on or prior to the effective date of the order, who satisfied the requirement of existing law.

As amended and enacted, the possibility for abuse is removed by allowing limited extension of the homework prohibition to persons who were not employed as homeworkers prior to the effective date of the prohibitory order, so long as rigid and desirable conditions and controls exist to allow bona fide home work in connection with rehabilitation programs. Chapter 1246.

AB 2822 (O'Connell and others). As introduced, contained the essentials of a state fair labor standards act with a $1.25 statutory minimum, but also contained broad exemptions for agricultural labor, fishing, retail trade within certain limits, and other workers.

Amended by Assembly Committee on Industrial Relations to provide for $1.00 statutory minimum and received favorable recommendation. Died in Assembly Committee on Ways and Means after being amended again to simply extend the jurisdiction of the Industrial Welfare Commission regarding wage orders, etc. to men as well as women and minors.

AB 2841 (Unruh). Provided that all employees shall be allowed time off for service on juries without loss of pay. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3100 (Burton). Made employer of seamen who fails, within 10 days after demand, to pay for maintenance and care of seaman employee who sustains injury or illness in course of employment, guilty of misdemeanor and liable in civil action brought by seaman. Referred to Rules Committee for further study.

AB 3350 (Donahoe and others). As amended and enacted, materially strengthens the equal pay law for women by (1) removing provision allowing rate differentials based on interruptions of work for rest periods and variations based on collective agreements, while continuing provisions for differences based on seniority, length of service, ability, skill, difference in duties or services performed, whether generally or occasionally, differences in the shift or time of day worked, hours of work, restrictions or prohibitions on lifting or moving objects in excess of specified weight, or other reasonable differentiation, factor or factors other than sex, when exercised in good faith; (2) making employer who violates equal pay provisions liable to the employee affected in the amount of wages deprived by reason of such violation; (3) permitting any affected employee to register with the Division of Industrial Welfare a complaint that wages paid to her are less than the wages to which she is entitled under the equal pay provisions; (4) requiring Division of Industrial Welfare to take all proceedings necessary to enforce the payment of sums found to be due and unpaid to such female employee; (5) permitting females receiving less than equal pay to take civil action to recover the balance of wages due them together with the cost of the suit, notwithstanding any agreement to work for a lesser wage. Continues burden of proof on person bringing claim to establish pay differentiation based on the factor of sex, although this provision had been removed in the original bill. Chapter 2384.

*SB 459 (Richards). Senate companion to *AB 245 (Burton and others), establishing statutory minimum wage of $1.25. Died in Senate committee.

SB 1755 (Miller). Established a state fair labor standards act with a statutory minimum wage of $1.25, essentially the same as AB 2822 (O'Connell and others), but did not contain the broad exemptions of that bill in its original form. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2333 (Regan). As amended and enacted, permits the legislative body of a political subdivision in the state which has received or is going to receive a federal loan or grant for public works within the subdivision to provide in its call for bids that all bid specifications and contracts and other procedures in connection with such bids or contracts shall be subject to modification to comply with revisions in the federal minimum wage schedules without the necessity of republication or reduplication of other formal statutory requirements. Chapter 1992.

Bad Bills

SB 127 (Abshire and others). Exempted women 18 years of age or over in office occupations defined as "professional, technical or clerical" from the women's 8-hour law where such occupations are governed by order of the Industrial Welfare Commission. Passed by Senate over strenuous objections of the Federation by roll call vote of 33-2.

On Assembly side, sent to interim committee for further study by Committee on Industrial Relations after holding of full scale hearing.

A series of bills on the Assembly side providing for a similar modification of the women's 8-hour law but establishing a statutory time and a half provision for all overtime work, died in Assembly committee.

SB 128 (Abshire and others). Permitted women in occupations rendering public service to be employed beyond 8 hours a day in a loosely defined concept of an emergency. Passed by Senate over strenuous objections of Federation by roll call vote of 33-2. Referred to interim committee for further study along with SB 127 by Assembly Committee on Industrial Relations.

SB 1002 (Sutton). As amended and sent to the floor of the Senate with a favorable recommendation, exempted from the women's 8-hour law an employee-manager of a motel of 40 units or less who is provided with living quarters and utilities and receives, in addition, a salary of not less than $6.50 per unit per month. Refused passage by roll call vote of 13-17.

SB 1020 (Murdy). Exempted women and minors employed in agricultural labor from provisions of Labor Code relating to wages, hours and working conditions of women and minors, including the jurisdiction of the Industrial Welfare Commission. Died in Senate committee.

SB 1084 (Hollister). Originally a "watch" bill, amended into a "bad" bill amending the sanitary provisions of the Labor Code governing labor camps to allow use of materials, appliances, installations, devices and methods of construction not specifically prescribed, if the enforcement agency determines that they are at least the equivalent of those prescribed by the law, and to allow two-tier bunks with 8-foot ceilings instead of 12-foot ceilings. As so amended, passed by the Senate by roll call vote of 29-2.

Amended at the request of the Federation in Assembly committee to require adequate standards of heating and ventilation, and as so amended, was recommended favorably to Assembly floor.

Amended on the Assembly floor to include the original provisions of SB 1955, which was tabled on the Senate floor after FEPC amendments had been added on the Assembly side (see CIVIL RIGHTS). As passed by the Assembly, the bill contained the original provisions of SB 1955 exempting from the 8-hour law for minors the employment of any minor by engineers engaged in survey work as part of a survey crew.

Inasmuch as this last amendment did not limit the exemption for minors in survey crews to those over 16 as had been amended into the original bill, the Federation requested a Governor's veto. Chapter 1903.

SB 1569 (Abshire). As amended and passed by the Senate, permitted county boards of supervisors to specify prevailing rates in call for bids for public works by reference to previously published and posted resolution setting forth the prevailing rates in the area. Killed on the Assembly floor.

Other Bills

Extends for two more years the Defense Production Act of 1950, which authorizes the Governor, upon the application of an employer, to issue a defense production permit to employ women for longer hours than permitted by the Labor Code, and also in types of work prohibited by law. Accepted by Federation upon showing of proof of need for extension. Chapter 1117.

As amended and enacted, establishes special provisions for the payment of screen extras in order to satisfy the requirements of immediate payment under the Labor Code upon discharge; requires that wages must be paid within such reasonable time as may be necessary for computation of payment, but not to exceed 24 hours after discharge, excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays; provides that such payment may be mailed and that the date of mailing is the date of payment. Chapter 1118.

rian other than a chief librarian employed for not more than one year. Also contains the provisions of AB 2614 (Cunningham). Chapter 1631.

SR 198 (Murdy). Directs the Senate Interim Committee on Social Welfare to study the subject of restrictions of employment of minors, and authorizes and directs the committee to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relative to this subject and to the desirability of or necessity for legislation in the field. Approved by roll call vote of 21-3.

LABOR UNIONS

For the second straight general session, the Federation was spared the necessity of battling so-called "right to work" and "hot cargo" legislation. The absence of the introduction of any such hostile bills can be traced directly to Governor Knight's firm pledge, repeated again in his message to the 1957 legislature, that he would veto such legislation, or any other legislation that tipped the scales in favor of either labor or management.

The Governor's pledge, however, did not prevent the introduction of "skeleton" bills obviously designed for anti-labor amendments should the occasion have arisen to permit such amendment. Nor did the Governor's blunt warnings prevent the introduction of a new type of anti-labor bill purportedly designed to prevent "organizing from the top." This was SB 2229 (Abshire), which consumed a good portion of the Federation's time and energies to assure its defeat.

The bill, like "right to work" legislation, employed the language of "democracy" to give employers a club to break the back of the organized labor movement. Simply stated, it made it unlawful for any employer to enter into any agreement which would "deny to a majority of employees" the right to choose their bargaining agent at the time an agreement is being negotiated or is executed. But it created no positive machinery for conducting the representation elections, which would have been required for every contract negotiated, including renewal of contracts in established bargaining units. This was the indication of the sponsors' purpose, namely, to create a legal "no man's land" to disrupt and destroy collective bargaining under the guise of majority representation, and to prohibit peaceful organizational activities of labor organizations.

The measure received favorable recommendation by the Senate Labor Committee following prolonged hearings, during which the Federation exposed in full detail the destructive purposes of the bill. On the floor of the Senate, the Federation continued this work, undertaking a time-consuming project of educating the Senators to the real purpose.

Bad Bills

AB 988 (Weinberger and others). As introduced, was a bad bill, including labor disputes and the arbitration thereof under a proposed uniform commercial arbitration act. Senate companion to the original bill, SB 820 (Regan and others), died in Senate committee.

AJR 16 (Weinberger and Caldecott). As originally introduced, was a very bad bill, combining in a resolution relating to water laws a request to Congress that it enact legislation giving states the power to regulate labor management relations affecting interstate commerce in accordance with the aims of reactionary employer groups, such as the NAM, for the purpose of extending the "right to work" principle to outlaw strikes and picketing by state action. These bad labor provisions were defeated by being amended out of the resolution before adoption.

SB 2229 (Abshire and Murdy). Made it unlawful for any employer to enter into any agreement which would "deny to a majority of employees" the right to choose their bargaining agent at the time an agreement is being negotiated or is executed. SCHOOLS

The central and overriding issue in school legislation was the proposal of the California Teachers Association, embodied in AB 3045 (Ernest R. Geddes), to secure some $70-plus million in added state school aid by tying the proposed boost to increases in regressive consumer taxes on already overburdened workers. These consumer tax measures consisted of proposals to impose a 3-cent per pack cigarette tax (AB 3046, E. R. Geddes), and to increase the beer excise from 3 to 10 cents per barrel (AB 3047, E. R. Geddes), both of which were conclusively dumped by the legislature. (See TAXES.)

The Federation, ably assisted by the AFL Teachers’ Union, maintained from the outset that school needs should be handled on their merits and that revenues needed to finance our schools should be met on their merits, separately and apart from each other. Because of the pressing needs of the schools, the Federation and the AFL teachers accordingly urged that increased aid be granted as justified by using surplus funds at the outset to make up any deficit in the general fund resulting thereby until a comprehensive review of California’s tax structure could be made to determine the most justifiable means of providing additional revenues to meet the state’s overall, growing fiscal needs. As pointed out in the summary of AB 3045 below, the labor viewpoint prevailed in the aid bill finally enacted.

Not only was the CTA soundly defeated on the “tie-in” question, but its views on the apportionment of the increased aid were also dumped. Instead of giving rich districts a good portion of the increased aid, as proposed by the CTA to the bitter end, the bill finally enacted restricts the amount of increased aid to rich and poor districts alike to $5 per average daily attendance, while giving the bulk of the increase to poor districts on an “equalization basis.”

In a very real sense the victory won in this field of legislation was a victory for the schools over an organization which professes to have the best interests of the schools at heart. Throughout the fight on the school aid-tax issue, the CTA made it abundantly clear that it was willing to sacrifice an increase in aid altogether by its insistence upon the consumer tax “tie-in.”

Geddes). As introduced, was a bad CTA bill tying some $70 million in added state school aid to the imposition of a cigarette tax and an increase in beer tax as proposed in AB 3056 and AB 3057 (see TAXES, CONSUMER). Bill also carried increase in teachers' minimum salary from $3400 to $4200.

Tie-in provision was deleted by Assembly Committee on Education and reinserted by Ways and Means Committee over objections of State Federation of Labor. On Assembly floor, bill was passed without any major alteration with tie-in provision after vigorous political skirmishes and numerous roll calls on reduction of amount of state aid and deletion of tie-in provisions.

On Senate side, it was thoroughly overhauled to contain essential provisions of bill as finally enacted without tax tie-in provisions: provided for increase in state aid of $37 million for school year 1957-58, increased in subsequent years in proportion to increases in school enrollments, such aid to be primarily in equalization aid rather than basic aid as originally proposed by the CTA; also increased minimum salary for teachers from $3400 to $4200 a year.

Senate amendments were rejected by Assembly and bill was sent to conference committee. As amended in conference and approved by both houses, contains same provisions as Senate version, plus two-year terminal date on increased aid, to be financed from the general fund and reserves as follows, in place of consumer taxes proposed by CTA: $16 million from funds set aside for school bond retirement, $37 million from funds set aside for school teachers' retirement permanent fund, and the balance ($24 million) of estimated $77 million cost over the two-year life from the state's general fund. AB 4085 (Donald D. Doyle and others). Revises and clarifies procedure for adoption, readoption, printing, distribution and ordering of state textbooks. In process of enactment, a bad provision contrary to the concept of uniform textbooks for each level of achievement was amended out of the bill, thus preserving the basic state textbook law, including printing provisions. AB 4087 (Donald D. Doyle and others). Requires school boards, county superintendents of schools and county librarians to report to Superintendent of Public Instruction each fiscal year, commencing with 1957-58 fiscal year, the amount expended for supplemental text books; requires computation of total amount expended for such books and makes reports available for public inspection. This censorship bill was made less objectionable by amendment to retain only the provisions requiring the establishment of procedures for selection and review of books. Pocket-vetoed by Governor.

SOCIAL WELFARE

The large number of “good” bills listed below as having been enacted into law are indicative of the excellent progress made during the 1957 session of the legislature in the field of social welfare legislation.

Although some of the more liberal measures were refused signature into law by the Governor on grounds of revenue deficiencies, almost all recipients of assistance will nevertheless realize substantial improvements. Particularly noteworthy are the measures increasing the level of assistance payments for the various categories of aid, and the enactment of a new category of aid for the totally and permanently disabled in accordance with the assistance provisions of the federal Social Security Act. These are embodied in SB 1509 (Sutton), AB 2883 (Gaffney), and SB 566 (Murdy). Also of major importance is AB 679 (Coolidge), establishing a new program of health insurance for recipients of public assistance.

Of the bills pocket-vetoed, the most significant are AB 1738 (Masterson), extending old age assistance to aliens with 25 years’ residence, and AB 1391 (Richards), liberalizing the relatives’ responsibility provisions of the aged and blind assistance programs, as well as AB 3124 (Elliott), which provided a more liberal formula than SB 1509 for increasing aid to the aged.

Good Bills

AB 29 (Kilpatrick). Prohibits consideration of OAS benefits as income to dependents of recipients who are applicants for general relief. Chapter 260.

AB 679 (Coolidge and others). Provides for medical services for recipients of public assistance through payments to suppliers of such service; makes eligibility for public assistance under one of the state assistance categories the basic eligibility requirement; requires need for medical services to be determined and provision of such service when recipient does not have income to buy it as a special need within the limits of funds appropriated for administration of program; prohibits flat allowance for medical service for any recipient of aid; payments for medical services must be made directly to vendor for services rendered to recipients; provides for administration by same county agency that determines eligibility for public assistance. Chapter 1068.

AB 1148 (MacBride and others). Increases from $3,500 to $5,000 assessed valuation, less encumbrances of record, the amount of real property a recipient of old age security and aid to the needy blind may retain and qualify; increases from $3,000 to $5,000 assessed valuation, less encumbrances of record, amount a child and/or his family may retain. Chapter 31.

AB 1684 (Rumford). Provides that recipient of old age security shall be permitted to receive special need allowances for at least 24 months to repay a debt incurred for physician's services, medical needs and hospitalization. Chapter 895.

AB 1738 (Masterson). Provided that non-citizens who are otherwise qualified shall receive old age security if they have resided in the U. S. since January 1, 1932; required such non-citizens to declare under oath desire to become citizens and annually thereafter submit evidence of proceeding diligently within limits of ability to qualify for citizenship. Pocket-vetoed by Governor.

AB 1913 (Hawkins). Established state machinery for distribution of federal surplus foods to needy persons and charitable institutions, including hospitals, to the extent needy persons are served in such institutions; prohibited distribution of such food from resulting in reduction of assistance grants. AB 1917 (Hawkins). Eliminated relatives' responsibility provisions in public assistance programs. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1918 (Hawkins). Provides that cost of hospitalization furnished by a county to a recipient of old age assistance or blind aid shall not constitute a lien against the personal property, personal effects or interment plot owned by such recipient. Chapter 828.

AB 2452 (Bruce F. Allen). Among other things, increases maximum amount of real and/or personal property for recipient of aid to partially self-supporting blind from $3,500 to $5,000 assessed valuation, less encumbrances of record. Chapter 1960.

AB 2883 (Gaffney and others). Provides for increase from $1.00 to $11.00 per month for recipients of aid to the blind, payable when the recipient has a monthly income from the sum of his grant and income of less than $110.00 per month; requires Social Welfare Board to revise the standard of assistance by increasing the amounts for the existing basic allowances.

AB 3124 (Elliott and others). Provided for increase from $1.00 to $11.00 per month for recipients of old age security payable when the recipient has a monthly income from the sum of his grants and income of less than $100 per month; required Social Welfare Board to revise standard of assistance by increasing the amounts for the existing basic allowances. This bill would have given all OAS recipients $100 per month, but was pocket-vetoed by Governor in favor of SB 1509 (Sutton), which provides a higher maximum benefit per month but on a need concept which would provide substantially less in total benefits than AB 3124. Estimates are that AB 3124... would have extended the $100 benefit to about 165,000 pensioners as against 115,000 in the Sutton bill.

SB 329 (Collier). Exempts as personal property a motor vehicle needed for transportation by recipient of old age security. Chapter 1009.

SB 566 (Murdy). Eliminates county residence as a basis of determining which county is responsible for paying aid to needy children; increases maximum aid payable on one child families by $30 per month; increases from $67.50 to $75.00 maximum amount for which the state will reimburse a county for children in boarding homes and institutions; increases state's share of assistance from 66% to 67.5 percent to compensate for loss of revenue to county for children with no county residence where state now pays 100 percent; eliminates sub-ceilings on household operations, incidentals, etc. Chapter 2293.

SB 1388 (Richards). Requires counties to "properly and promptly" comply with laws and standards of the state Social Welfare Board; requires Department of Social Welfare to withhold funds if county does not so promptly comply; directs board of supervisors in counties to take action to dismiss, suspend or demote any employee whose conduct is inimical to the purposes and proper administration of the old age security program. Chapter 246.

SB 1389 (Richards). Provides that whenever old age security aid or blind aid is obtained illegally, restitution shall be sought by request, civil action or other suitable means prior to bringing of criminal action. Chapter 570.

SB 1390 (Richards). Limits actions of county to recover from responsible relatives payments for old age security and aid to the blind made subsequent to the date the board of supervisors made a finding of the relatives' ability to so support; also provides that whenever board of supervisors or court frees a relative from liability because parent deserted such relative during childhood, the freeing action shall be retroactive to include all unpaid demands. Chapter 571.

SB 1391 (Richards). Liberalized relatives' responsibility contribution scale to begin at $301 instead of $201, and increased all other income items by $100; maximum liability set in scale for old items remained the same for the new items. Pocket-vetoed by Governor.

SB 1509 (Sutton). Provides up to $16.00 a month increase to maximum of $105.00 in grant to recipients of old age security who have special needs requiring this amount and do not have outside income to meet such special needs; establishes a new public assistance program for aid to the totally and permanently disabled as follows: definition of disabled person limits program to persons so disabled as to require "constant and continuous care," strictly construed; amount of grant to be based on need budget up to maximum of $105.00, prohibiting income from being added to this maximum; establishes eligibility standards in addition to disability to require applicants to be 18 years of age or over, citizen or resident of the United States since 1932, resident of state five out of last nine years, $600 personal property less encumbrances of record, and $5,000 real property less encumbrances of record; provides final administration of eligibility to be made by Department of Social Welfare based on reports filed by counties. Chapter 2411.

Estimates are that benefits will be increased by some $27.5 million: $16 million for recipients of old age security, and $5.5 million for the new disability program from the state, plus an additional $6 million from the federal government.

SB 1698 (Murdy). Eliminates county residence as a basis of determining which county is responsible for making payments of aid under old age security and blind assistance programs. Chapter 2330.

SB 1792 (Arnold). Requires recipients of old age security to be granted an allowance for a telephone as a "special need" when a telephone is not readily available on the premises in which he resides. Chapter 1776.

SB 1891 (Cunningham). Provides for payment of retroactive aid under all categories of assistance where underpayments occur because of administrative error or inadvertence on the part of the county. Chapter 388.

SB 2336 (Sutton). Provides that recipient shall be given itemized statement of the computation of his grant within ten days of a request for it or after each change in grant, provided, however, state Social Welfare Board may waive requirement of itemized statement to recipient for statutory changes in grant. Also provides that budgetary allowances for goods and services provided by a responsible relative shall not be reduced on the basis that such are provided by such relative, except that allowances to the recipient shall not exceed the cost to the relative of such goods and services. Chapter 2095.

Bad Bills

AB 1232 (Collier). Provided for payment to qualified recipients of old age security in amount sufficient to increase maximum monthly grant to such recipients to $100 and gave the state a claim against the estate of such recipient of supplemental aid upon death. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3658 (Hansen). Required county to proceed against relatives of recipients of indigent aid at any time they have sufficient ability to reimburse county for all or part of aid given, rather than only if financial ability exists when aid is given and when matter comes before board of supervisors. Died in Assembly committee.

STATE, COUNTY AND MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES

Generally speaking, the most significant advancements in this area of legislation have been covered in the preface to CONSTRUCTION, inasmuch as the bills relate primarily to construction workers in public employment. These are AB 257 (Donald D. Doyle), permitting state contributions into trust funds for group life and disability insurance, and AB 1267 (Nielsen), allowing the State Personnel Board to permit state health and welfare contributions into private funds on behalf of non-permanent per diem employees hired as mechanics, workmen and laborers.

In other areas of legislation in this field, progress was made in the direction of facilitating federal OASI coverage for public employees at the local level. AB 1396 (MacBride), the major piece of legislation on the subject, provides for a division of a retirement system coverage group for referendum purposes into those who desire coverage and those who do not, in anticipation of authorizing federal legislation. On the same subject, AB 1238 (Donald D. Doyle), establishes a permissive formula for integration with OASI for local retirement systems, should counties desire integration in lieu of supplementation. During the course of passage of this measure, the Federation was able to secure satisfactory amendments protecting the right to “supplementation” as desired by organized public employees.

Of significance also was the passage of two important “check-off” bills for public employee organizations, making former authorizing provisions compatible with the practical needs of bona fide labor organizations in the public employment field.

Federation-sponsored bills relating to the right of public employees to organize and bargain collectively are reported under LABOR UNIONS. See also FIRE FIGHTERS and TEACHERS.
Amends county retirement law of 1937 to establish formula for integration of local retirement system with OASI upon adoption of election resolution by governing board of county or district in which the members are employed. Contains Federation amendment requiring approval of majority of employees before provisions can be adopted, and to clarify that nothing in the bill shall negate a referendum whereby county employees voted for supplementation. Chapter 663.

A more liberal integration formula embodied in AB 1131 (Luckel), favored by the Federation, died in Assembly Committee.

AB 1267 (Nielsen). As amended, permits State Personnel Board to authorize payments to private health and welfare funds on behalf of non-permanent state employees on a per diem basis where State Personnel Board finds such payments are the prevailing practice by employers in the particular locality. Chapter 1187.

AB 1395 (MacBride). Authorizes petition to governing body signed by majority of eligible employees as a condition for application for OASI coverage of employees of state agencies in lieu of an affirmative vote by majority of eligible employees in a coverage group. Makes other minor changes. Chapter 465.

AB 1396 (MacBride). As introduced, applied to all retirement systems, redefining such systems for purposes of OASI coverage so as to provide for the division of each retirement system into two groups, one of which is composed of members of said system desiring OASI coverage and the other composed of members who do not desire such coverage, in anticipation of permissive federal amendments to Social Security Act. As amended several times and finally enacted, permits a division of only local retirement systems for purposes of OASI coverage. Statewide systems such as teachers' retirement system and state employees' retirement system are excluded. Chapter 1993.

AB 1486 (MacBride and Nielsen). Permits State Personnel Board by rule to provide for compensation to state employees for call-back time in accordance with prevailing practices in private industry and other public employment. Chapter 1214.

AB 1488 (MacBride and Nielsen). As introduced, provided for overtime compensation for state employees at time and a half, with an upper limit of six dollars; if employee requested compensative time off, required that such time off be granted at rate of time and a half of each hour of compensable overtime work. Amended to give authority to Personnel Board to set overtime rate of compensation on the basis of practices in private industry and public employment not to exceed time and a half. Died in Assembly Committee.

AB 1489 (MacBride and Nielsen). Provided for a normal work week of 40 hours for state employees, and deleted provisions for establishment of work weeks of different hours to meet needs of different state agencies and for classes and positions. Died in Assembly Committee.

AB 1490 (MacBride and Nielsen). Provided that ban on political activities for state employees did not apply to ballot measures. Passed Assembly but died in Senate Committee.

AB 1510 (Nielsen and MacBride). As amended and enacted, permits sick leave, subject to rules of State Personnel Board, to be granted to employees for purposes of physical examinations. Chapter 1218.

AB 1569 (Henderson and others). As amended and enacted, permits dues check-off for state employees for any bona fide association, if such association or unit thereof is comprised principally of employees or former employees of the State of California, at the expense of the organization. Chapter 1683.

AB 1570 (Henderson and others). Authorizes payment above minimum salary limit for any crafts in order to meet state recruiting problems in obtaining a person who has extraordinary qualifications. Chapter 2279.

AB 1576 (Nielsen and MacBride). Permits state employees to use accumulated compensable overtime as well as sick leave or vacation to make up difference between workmen's compensation benefits and full salary or wage. Chapter 400.

AB 1603 (MacBride and others). Authorizes all state departments to pay cost of repairing or replacing damaged eyeglasses, hearing aids and other articles of state employees when damaged in line of duty without fault of the employee, rather than when damage results from an act of persons in specified institutions and facilities. Chapter 2144.

AB 1812 (Caldecott). As amended and enacted, permits the state appointing power, in actual emergencies when necessary to prevent a stoppage of public business or when work to be completed is less than 30 working days, to make emergency appointments for a period not to exceed 30 days without utilizing employment lists; defines emergency employee and emergency appointment. Chapter 1078.

AB 1813 (Caldecott). Originally a bad bill, giving appointing power authority to require state employee to submit to mental or physical examination and to demote or transfer such employee who, as a result of examination, is deemed by the appointing power to be unable to perform work required in position held, but capable of performing the work of another position, including one of less than full time.

Amended at insistence of Federation to give employee right to designate a consulting physician to consult with appointing power physician as to need for and advisability of medical examination, and the right, should such an examination be required, to submit other medical evidence to the examining physician or to the appointing power; Federation amendment also makes right to a hearing mandatory before demotion is permitted. Chapter 1247.

AB 1922 (Hawkins). Permits appointive power to grant leave of absence without pay to pregnant permanent or probationary state civil servants for a period not exceeding one year, instead of a period of at least six month. Chapter 404.

AB 2421 (Nielsen). Rescinded June 1956 order of Personnel Board transferring certain positions in hourly or per diem rate classifications for laborers, workmen and mechanics to monthly range positions; required such transfers to be reinstated to former classifications. Passed by the Assembly and favorable recommendation secured from the Senate Committee on Governmental Efficiency, but killed by Senate Finance Committee.

AB 2742 (Donald D. Doyle). As amended, rewrites provisions providing for health and welfare benefits for public employees of local agencies; enlarges the classification of service type organizations in the health and welfare field eligible for payroll deductions and employer contributions; liberalizes restrictions on extent of employer contributions permitted for health and welfare benefits; broadens the classes of employees eligible for benefits thereunder. Chapter 944.

AB 2857 (Bruce F. Allen). As amended, provides for state payment of travel expenses for interview and moving expenses in connection with the recruitment of professional and technically trained persons, for which there is a shortage of qualified applicants; spells out limitations. Chapter 2321.

AB 3695 (Rumford). Broadens bona fide association for which employees of local public agencies may authorize salary deductions for membership dues to include associations whose members are comprised exclusively of public employees but not necessarily from one public agency. Chapter 2396.

AB 3819 (Meyers and others). As introduced, provided that minimum and maximum salary limits for workmen and mechanics employed by the state on a monthly basis, as well as an hourly and per diem basis, need not be uniform throughout the state, and required State Personnel Board, in fixing such minimum and maximum salary limits, to take into account the kind and nature of the work and skills required. The bill, like AB 2421, was aimed at undoing a Personnel Board decision transferring construction workers employed on a permanent basis to monthly ranges.

Following indications that AB 2421 would have difficulty in passing, this bill was amended to delete the provision for payment of so-called "red circle" rates to transferred classifications, and to specify that prevailing rates in localities shall be in accordance with private business practices. The amended bill was accompanied by an Assembly concurrent resolution referring specifically to the bad State Personnel Board decision and calling for its review in light of the proposed amendments in AB 3819.

This resolution, ACR 197, passed the Assembly and died in Senate Labor Committee. AB 3819, on the other hand, died in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee after being approved by the Committee on Civil Service and State Personnel.

See also House Resolution 321 on the subject finally adopted by the Assembly.

HR 321 (Nielsen). Calls upon State Personnel Board to review decision of June 2, 1956, whereby certain laborers, workmen and mechanics employed in the state service on a permanent basis were transferred from prevailing rate positions to monthly range positions; specifies that, in making such review, the State Personnel Board shall place primary emphasis on the nature of the work performed and the skills required in comparison with similar positions and work in private industry. Adopted without opposition.

SB 1307 (Desmond). As amended, permits legislative body of local agencies to pay up to 50 percent of the premium for group accident and health insurance and hospital and medical service on the spouse and dependent children under 21 of such officers and employees subject to the jurisdiction of the agency and for whom group health and welfare insurance has been procured. Chapter 1030.

SB 1640 (Miller). Prohibited OASI coverage for employees of public agencies other than the state except on a purely supplemental basis without diminution of benefits of existing retirement systems. Died in Senate committee.

SB 1641 (Miller). Imposed same restrictions for state employees as in SB 1640. Died in Assembly Committee.

SB 1679 (Desmond). As passed by both houses, provides that a state employee who has been served with a notice of punitive action may file, in addition to his answer to the notice, his own written notice in which he may object to the notice of punitive action or its form, or set up a special defense; provided that such written notice shall entitle the state employee to hearing by board before a hearing on the merits of the notice of punitive action. Pocket-vetoed by Governor.

Bad Bills

AB 1270 (Nielsen). Provided for payment of unspecified amount to state employees for purchase of health and welfare benefits from plans approved by Department of Employment. Contained “bad” provisions which would have prohibited Department of Employment from approving any group plan of an organization which is not made up exclusively of state employees, thereby restricting benefits of the bill to “company union” type of associations. Referred to Rules Committee for further study.

AB 2583 (Donald D. Doyle and others). Imposed harsh restrictions on right of state employees to attempt to influence legislation. Died in Assembly Committee.

SCR 102 (Short). Instructs Department of Mental Hygiene and Department of Finance to make a study of long term training needs of psychiatric technician personnel, in cooperation with the California State Employees Association, and make recommendations regarding legislation to meet the immediate and future needs of this state for training of employees and the improvement of mental hygiene care and treatment; prohibits other organizations from cooperating in study. Resolutions, Chapter 251.

Chapter 1354.

AB 2672 (Porter). Permits establishment of one-year probationary period for classes designated as executive or administrative in classified service for non-certificated school district employees. Chapter 1355.

As amended, permits ordering of state employee on mandatory leave of absence for not exceeding 15 days pending investigation of accusations against the employee involving mistreatment of persons in a state institution or immorality; provides that leave shall be with retroactive pay if punitive action is not taken on or before date such leave is terminated; if punitive action is taken, such action may be made retroactive to date leave was ordered. Refused adoption on Assembly floor by roll call vote of 10-23.

Requested legislators of various states to create a committee to meet with a California appointed committee for purposes of discussing formation of nationwide organization to represent states in Washington in matters in which states, including legislatures, have a mutual interest. A watered down version was adopted by the Assembly, but was referred to interim committee for further study on the Senate side.

SB 1600 (Abshire and others). TAXES

The major threat of adverse tax legislation at the 1957 session was contained in the consumer tax proposals "wired" into the California Teachers Association's school aid bill, AB 3045 (E. R. Geddes). These consisted of a 3-cent per pack cigarette tax and a 2- to 10-cent boost in the beer tax, embodied in Assembly Bills 3046 and 3047, respectively (also by E. R. Geddes), both of which were dumped on the Assembly side following the defeat of the CTA "wiring" provision in AB 3045. See SCHOOLS.

As a precaution in coping with the eventualty that the legislature might possibly impose new taxes, the Federation caused the introduction of "AB 4159 (Bee), proposing a progressive increase in the state's personal income tax law as a means of raising an estimated $65 million in added revenues. This was offered as labor's "ability to pay" alternative to "soaking the workingman" in the CTA bills, but the position maintained throughout the session was that the more logical approach would be to forego all tax increases temporarily by dipping into reserves as necessary pending completion of a comprehensive review of the California tax structure.

Although it was anticipated from the outset that this would be the position adopted, as indeed it was, the CTA nevertheless attempted to move its consumer tax bills. The Federation set its income tax bill for hearing the same night as the CTA bills, and all three were held in committee. Following this defeat, the CTA unsuccessfully attempted withdrawal from committee, and this ended the consumer tax threat. A like effort to withdraw the Federation's income tax bill also failed at that time, although it secured a larger vote than the cigarette tax bills.

Also defeated was a concerted effort to give corporations a tax reduction bonanza by writing into California law the provisions of the Eisenhower tax revision bill of 1954 permitting the rapid write-off for depreciation of plant and equipment expenditures by business. Of some dozen bills on the subject, SB 2410 (Breed) became the chosen vehicle. It sailed through the Senate and the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation, but was dumped in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

For the fifth year in a row, a resolution in support of a "millionaires' amendment" to the federal constitution was introduced, and for the first time was adopted by the Senate. It was stopped, however, in Assembly committee.

On the positive side, a repeal of the sales tax on candy was passed by the legislature, only to be pocket-vetoed by the Governor on grounds that the substantial loss in revenue could not be withstood at this time.

AB 47 was enacted in the eleventh hour of the 1957 session, over oil lobby-supported bills sponsored by Assemblyman Shell and Senator Cunningham which would have yielded substantially less in revenue from tideland oil royalties, after prolonged legislative skirmishes which produced wide divisions in the ranks of legislators. Chapter 2166.

*AB 4159 (Bee and others). Introduced late in the session at request of Federation to place before legislature an "ability to pay" tax bill countering the regressive consumer tax measures (AB 3046 and 3047, Ernest R. Geddes) sponsored by the CTA company union as an expedient means of financing school aid: proposed a $65 million increase in the yield of the state personal income tax by increasing and extending on a progressive basis the tax rate on taxable incomes above $7,500. Died in Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation along with above mentioned consumer tax bills, all of which are understood to fall within the scope of the tax study provided by ACR 206.

SB 194 (Robert I. McCarthy). As passed by the Senate, allowed deductions from state personal income tax law for medical and adoption expenses in excess of 3 per cent of adjusted gross income, instead of 5 per cent under present law. SB 2468 (Miller). As amended and enacted, beginning with January 1, 1957, reduces from 3 to 1½ per cent motor vehicle transportation license tax as based on gross receipts from operations; in turn repeals various credit provisions against payment of tax. Chapter 1067.

As introduced, was a modified millionaires' amendment in that it memorialized Congress to make numerous cuts in upper income tax brackets, coupled with a minor increase in the personal income tax exemption. As amended and adopted by Assembly, was substantially less objectionable. In general terms, called for reduced income tax rates and an increase in the exemptions, plus other afforded relief from existing “oppressive taxation of income.” Died in Senate committee.

SB 2410 (Breed). As passed by Senate by roll call vote of 27-9, offered tax bonanza to corporations by writing into California income tax and corporation tax laws, federal provisions for rapid write-off for depreciation of plant and equipment expenditures or other properties used in the production of income.

Bill allocates revenues to high seas and practically wipes out corporation tax revenue from shipping industry. Chapter 2097.

TEACHERS

An increase in the minimum salary from $3,400 to $4,200 was the major advancement won by teachers at the 1957 general session of the legislature. Originally passed in SB 555 (Miller), a bill sponsored by the AFL Teachers' Union, the increase was also contained in AB 3045, the CTA school aid bill. In signing the aid bill, therefore, SB 555 was pocket-vetoed by the Governor as unnecessary. The major purpose of the AFL measure was accomplished, however, in assuring a minimum salary increase against the risky procedures of the CTA in tying the salary increase to the aid bill and consumer taxes. Fortunately, the aid bill was passed in spite of the CTA. (See SCHOOLS.)
Union, were opposed by this so-called teachers’ organization, and as a result, were sent to interim committee along with the weak, compromising proposals of the CTA designed to confuse the issues.

On the question of OASI coverage for teachers, the CTA likewise sought to keep every avenue closed that might possibly bring OASI coverage to even a single teacher desiring coverage. The CTA went so far as to secure an amendment exempting teachers from the provisions of AB 1396 (MacBride), reported under STATE, COUNTY and MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES, which merely provided that retirement system coverage groups in the state may be divided for purposes of coverage referenda into two groups: those who wish coverage and those who do not. This exclusion of teachers was sought by the CTA even though such a division could not be accomplished for teachers without specific authorizing legislation. But the real irony of the CTA’s antics was that two years earlier the CTA struggled to come under the very omnibus bill being amended by AB 1396. But that was when the CTA was maneuvering to kill an AFL teachers’ bill to give teachers the right to vote for OASI coverage by school district referenda.

On all measures of fundamental importance to teachers, apart from administrators, the Sacramento story of 1957 was one of consistent opposition by the CTA. Despite this opposition, the AFL teachers, with Federation assistance, were able to secure the enactment of several beneficial measures, including bills declaring state policy against discrimination in hiring of teachers because of age or marital status, and requiring school board minutes to be kept open for public inspection.

Another AFL teachers’ bill secured into law, aimed at alleviating racial discrimination in the employment of teachers, is reported under CIVIL RIGHTS.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

In a very real sense, the achievements in unemployment insurance at the 1957 session of the legislature reflect the extent to which it was possible to utilize developments in related areas of legislation as leverage to secure advancements in this major field of legislation. Such was the case in maximizing the advantages gained from the unemployment disability insurance settlement and the early tests in the Assembly on workmen's compensation (see UNEMPLOYMENT DISABILITY INSURANCE and WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION), to win the unemployment insurance settlement embodied in *AB 687 (Munnell and others).

As detailed below, *AB 687, among other things, increases the maximum weekly benefit amount for eligible claimants from $33 to $40, without in any way giving ground to the employers in their demands for increasing the eligibility requirements. The concessions granted employers, on the other hand, will not adversely affect workers' rights. The concession modifying the so-called "high" contribution schedule for employers, given the existence of a "merit rating" system of financing, cannot in the long run possibly relieve employers of their legal obligations to finance unemployment insurance benefits. With regard to the other concession, namely, the statutory assessment of a uniform disqualification against claimants who leave their employment voluntarily, this does nothing more than write into law what has been standard administrative practice for some time.

In terms of dollar benefits, the Department of Employment conservatively estimates that, in a high employment year like 1957, eligible claimants will receive total added benefits equal to about $11,096,000, and many times this amount should a major recession develop causing substantial increases in unemployment among the more stable and employable members of the labor force; i.e., primarily organized workers.

In regard to other unemployment insurance bills, apart from non-controversial bills introduced at the request of the Department of Employment and enacted into law, attention is called to the two minor extensions of exemptions from coverage in AB 1985 and AB 746 (both by Pattee). Although listed under “bad,” the bills are so minor as to hardly deserve any comment at all.

The real significance of the advancement won at the 1957 legislature in unemployment insurance benefits can only be appreciated and understood when measured against all the other “bad” bills listed below which embodied the employer’s program, but did not pass. At point specifically is SB 268 (Desmond). This bargaining bill, introduced by the employers, which tied a $2 increase in benefits to the imposition of a $350, two-quarter eligibility test, would have actually reduced total benefits in a year like 1957 by about $11.4 million.

*AB 687, embodying the settlement negotiated, as pointed out above, increases benefits by just about that amount.

*AB 687 (Munnell and others). As introduced, increased the maximum weekly benefit amount from $33 to $55 in accordance with a completely liberalized benefit schedule providing for a $1.00 benefit increment for each $15 high quarter earnings interval over $150 starting with a minimum benefit of $10.

As amended to incorporate the 1957 settlement of unemployment insurance issues and enacted into law, accomplishes the following:

1. Increases the maximum benefit amount payable from $33 to $40 per week by adding to the present benefits schedule seven steps, each providing a $1.00 benefit increment for each added $40 in high quarter earnings;

2. Revises the employer’s so-called high contribution schedule (presently not in effect) to provide flexible contribution rates of 2.7 percent to 0.3 percent in accordance with individual employer reserve balances in a sixteen-step schedule, instead of the present flexible rates of 2.7 percent to 1 percent in accordance with a five-step schedule;
(3) Writes into law the present administrative practice of assessing a uniform five-week disqualification against claimants who leave their employment voluntarily without good cause or who are discharged for misconduct;

(4) Provides that the increased benefits shall be applicable to new claims filed on and after September 10, 1957; and

(5) Makes certain technical amendments permitting the allocation of wages in various quarters to insure the possibility of receiving the new maximum benefit of $40 per week, since only the first $3,000 in wages paid are taxable under the law.

Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 724 (Rumford and others). Provided that a disqualification for fraud or refusal of suitable employment shall commence with the week subsequent to the occurrence of the cause of disqualification in which the person first registered for work or in which he obtained suitable employment, whichever was the earlier, instead of present disqualification that commences with the week subsequent to the occurrence of the cause of disqualification in which the person first registered for work. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 801 (Thomas). Prohibited a pattern of seasonal employment from giving rise to any presumption of unavailability for work in the case of any individual who has earned 50 percent or more of his base period wages in the employment of employers with a negative balance in their unemployment insurance account. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 802 (Thomas). SB 1043 (Desmond). As introduced, required testimony in appeals board and referees' proceedings involving disputed claim to be taken in shorthand by phonographic reporter rather than recorded. As amended in Assembly and enacted, requires testimony at hearings held within state upon a disputed claim to be recorded, and when feasible, by a reporter in shorthand or by machine writing. Chapter 1668.

Bad Bills

AB 477 (Levering). Disqualified worker “suspended” for misconduct; denied benefits to person who leaves his work for good reasons not connected with his employment; removed presumption that a claimant had not been discharged for misconduct and has not voluntarily left his work where employer does not give written notice to contrary within five days of termination. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 478 (Levering). Extended disqualification period for voluntary quits or discharges for misconduct from the variable two to five weeks to a mandatory ten weeks; required disqualification on such grounds to begin in the week in which the claimant registers for work rather than the following week; provided for reduction of claimant's total benefit award by an amount equal to the total number of weeks of disqualification times his weekly benefit amount upon disqualification for voluntarily quitting, discharge for misconduct, and misstatement. Deleted assessment of disqualification for refusal to accept suitable work because of anticipated tie-in with AB 479 (Levering). Together with AB 475, as intended, would have reduced benefits in a year like 1957 by about $4 million. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 479 (Levering). Rendered claimant who refuses suitable work ineligible for benefits for the duration of the ensuing period of unemployment and until he has earned $150 in wages for bona fide employment by a covered employer. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 652 (Ernest R. Geddes). Required department notice of filing of an additional claim to be given to all employers whose reserve accounts could be affected by such filing. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 746 (Pattee). As introduced, removed golf caddies employed by players' clubs from coverage and relieved all employers of caddies, whether individual golf players or clubs, from present and past liability to contribute into unemployment insurance fund. As amended in Assembly and enacted, contains exemptions, but does not relieve employer of past liabilities to the fund. Chapter 595.

AB 1092 (Ernest R. Geddes). Reduced from twelve complete consecutive calendar quarters to twelve consecutive calendar months, the period an employer must be subject to the benefit charges to qualify for a reduced unemployment insurance contribution rate under “merit rating.” Would have reduced employer contributions in 1957 by about $12 million. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1093 (Ernest R. Geddes). Permitted employers to make voluntary contributions within the first 120 days of each year to obtain an immediate reduction in tax rate for that year. Would have permitted employers to secure widespread reductions of an incalculable amount in their unemployment insurance contributions. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1271 (Levering). Cancelled all wage credits earned by persons employed during the “active processing season” in the handling or processing of perishable fruits and vegetables. Would have disqualified about 25,000 or 50 percent of such workers, and would have reduced benefits in a high employment year like 1957 by about $7 million at a minimum. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1985 (Pattee). Exempts from both unemployment insurance and unemployment disability insurance coverage, services performed by freelance jockey or exercise boy who is regularly licensed by the California Horse Racing Board. Chapter 620.

AB 2607 (Levering). Repealed present eligibility provisions and established a “weeks of work” test of $15 during at least twenty weeks of the 52 consecutive weeks in the claimant's base period. Would have rendered ineligible about 66,300 seasonal and intermittent workers who are presently eligible, and would have cut benefits by approximately $11 million in a high employment year like 1957. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 2642 (Chapel). Exempted from both unemployment insurance and unemployment disability insurance coverage, services performed pursuant to a contract or agreement under which an industrial catering driver agrees to perform for the profits made on merchandise sold by him rather than a fixed salary. Refused favorable recommendation by Assembly committee; amended to more precisely define terms, and referred to interim committee for study.

AB 3621 (Lantermen). Prohibited the establishment of a valid claim or a benefit year during which any benefits are payable by an individual who the department determines has left his work because of a trade dispute. Died in Assembly committee.
AB 3186 (Munnell and others). As introduced made five years of active legal experience a prerequisite for appointment of referees of appeals board; required compensation of referees set by Personnel Board to be comparable to that of other referees or hearing officers in state service whose duties include the hearing of as well as the rendering of decisions in controversies before them; contained "grandfather clause" preventing retroactive application to present referees. Defeated in committee as such; later amended to require that appeals board referees be attorneys, but deleting five years' experience requirement. As amended, referred favorably to floor, where it was sent to interim committee for study by roll call vote of 49-6.

AB 3398 (Levering). Upon reopening of a claim, required department notification of all employers whose reserve account would be affected thereby. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 4068 (Lanterman). Permitted employer to submit information to department regarding whether or not claimant left work for domestic or marital reasons or because of trade dispute. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 4069 (Lanterman). Died in Assembly committee.

AB 4070 (Lanterman). Among other things, prohibited any department regulations on the number of joint employer-contribution accounts or the classification of employers who may become members of such accounts. Died in Assembly committee.

SB 267 (Desmond). Repealed present eligibility requirements and established a two-quarter eligibility test of §350 in each of two calendar quarters in the claimant's base period. Would have had rendered ineligible at least 81,500 seasonal workers and reduced benefits by about $15.3 million in a high quarter year like 1957. Died in Senate committee.

SB 268 (Desmond). Contained the §350 two-quarter eligibility test in SB 267 (Desmond), and in addition: permitted employers to make contributions under either the "high" or "low" schedules so as to obtain the lowest possible contribution rate, and increased the minimum weekly benefit from $10 to $17 and the maximum benefit from $33 to $35 under a completely new uniform $30-step schedule which would have actually saved employers money. Apart from incecalculable savings to employers resulting from reduced contribution rates, this package offer of the employers would have rendered ineligible 81,500 seasonal and intermittent workers, while actually cutting benefits by about $11.4 million in a high employment year like 1957. Died in Senate committee.

Other Bills

AB 446 (Weinberger). Originally a bad bill, giving employers an unlimited period of time in which to submit additional information for purpose of obtaining a department ruling that would prohibit a chargeback on the grounds of voluntarily quitting without good cause or discharge for misconduct. As amended in Assembly and enacted, merely gives employer 15 days instead of 10 days after notice of computation to submit to the department information regarding voluntary quits and discharges for misconduct. Chapter 1109.

AB 727 (Bradley). As amended and enacted, provides that in the case of failure without good cause on the part of employer to file a contributions return, all notices of assessment shall be made within eight years after the last day of the month following the close of the calendar quarter during which the contribution liability accrued; permits employing unit to waive this limitation period or consent to its extension. No statute of limitations existed prior to this bill in cases of failure without good cause to file a return. Chapter 293.

AB 1251 (Ernest R. Geddes). Department of Employment bill clarifying that elective coverage applies to both unemployment insurance and disability insurance, applying essentially the same standards for elective coverage to the state or other governmental agencies as those now applicable to other entities electing coverage with exception of the requirement of being normally and continuously engaged in regular trade, and clarifying posting requirements regarding election of coverage and termination of elective coverage. Chapter 1183.

AB 1252 (Ernest R. Geddes). Department of Employment bill amending numerous sections of Unemployment Insurance Code, generally deleting obsolete language having no current application, and correcting references to federal law which had been reorganized and renumbered, with a savings clause to protect rights of the prior law. Chapter 1184.

AB 1268 (Nielsen). Department of Finance bill which would have extended coverage under both unemployment insurance and unemployment disability insurance to state employees, but on a cost basis with regard to state contributions. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1269 (Nielsen). Department of Finance bill extending unemployment insurance and unemployment disability insurance coverage to laborers, workmen and mechanics in the state service employed on an hourly or per diem basis whose term of continuous employment does not exceed six months, but provided for such coverage on a cost basis with regard to state contributions. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 1272 (Munnell and Coolidge). Department of Employment bill which, as amended and enacted, makes a number of agreed changes relating to the collection of delinquent contributions from employers. Chapter 1188.

AB 1826 (Rumford and others). As amended and enacted, provides for cooperation of the Department of Employment with other agencies in providing, developing, distributing information regarding youth employment programs. Chapter 1490.

AB 2657 (Lowrey). As amended, exempts from unemployment disability insurance coverage election campaign workers employed by candidate for office or his committee. Chapter 1352.

AB 3932 (Burton). Originally a skeleton bill relating to coverage. Following the unemployment insurance settlement between labor and management, this bill was amended, contrary to the settlement, to extend unemployment insurance and unemployment disability insurance coverage to employees of non-profit organizations. In accordance with labor's agreement in regard to this settlement, the bill was opposed in committee and defeated.

SB 1165 (Collier). Provides that judgment lien against employer for non-payment of contributions shall continue for five years after the last entry of a judgment unless sooner released or otherwise discharged; provides that lien made within such five years and within five years from the date of the last extension of the lien be extended by recording a new abstract in the office of the county recorder of any county, and from the time of such recording the lien shall be extended to the personal property of such property for five years, unless sooner released or otherwise discharged. Chapter 1632.

UNEMPLOYMENT DISABILITY INSURANCE

Contrary to experience in previous legislative sessions, the Federation was able to move swiftly upon the reconvening of the legislature in March in the direction of obtaining a far-reaching program of improvements in the state's pace-setting unemployment disability insurance law.

The entire Federation program of improvement embraced in the series of Federation-sponsored bills listed below was set for early hearing on the Assembly side in the Committee on Finance and Insurance, while the Federation, on the Senate side, struggled with the workmen's compensation program in the Committee on Labor (See WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION). The chairman of the Assembly committee immediately set the private carrier disability insurance bills, and over the opposition of the Federation, precluded individual hearing of the bills embodying labor's disability insurance program by committee action referring all the bills to a disability insurance subcommittee, thereby forcing an immediate bargaining situation with the private carriers without the Federation having the leverage desired by first securing a liberalizing bill out of committee. The Federation, nevertheless, overcame this adverse bargaining position and negotiated the most far-reaching liberalization since the disability program was enacted.

The two major bills embodying the settlement are AB 233 (Beaver) and AB 3194 (Ernest R. Geddes), as detailed below, which, among other things, increase the weekly benefit from $40 to $50; boost the daily hospital benefit from $10 for 12 days to $12 for 20 days; repeal the so-called 75 percent rule that disqualifies many seasonal workers; and restrict DI liens against workmen's compensation benefits to liens against temporary disability benefit payments. To meet the cost of financing these substantial improvements, the Federation agreed to an increase in the ceiling on taxable wages for purposes of workers' contributions from $3,000 to $3,600 a year—an increase of $6 per year for the worker who earns the maximum taxable wage.

The original settlement extracted from the private carriers actually provided for an increase in the weekly benefit to $55, instead of $50, in accordance with the Federation optimal program request. Along with this higher benefit was a provision in the settlement that gave private carriers relief in the payment of the state insurance tax on private carrier disability insurance plan premiums by permitting the carriers to pay only 10 percent of such tax as long as the competitive "state plan" receipts are not taxed.

Powerful forces, however, immediately set to work to block this agreement. The united employers, on the one hand, recognizing that for the first time in a long while the “combined” lobby against labor that included the insurance carriers had been broken, and feeling also the pressure that this disability insurance settlement was having on the unemployment insurance program, began to exert every pressure it could to stop, or at least to slow-down and water-down the settlement. Not only did the employers fear the $55 benefit, but also, as anticipated by the Federation, the $3,600 taxable ceiling as possibly setting precedent for a new similar ceiling for employer unemployment insurance contributions. (As noted in the section on unemployment insurance, this actually gave leverage to the Federation in securing the favorable unemployment insurance settlement. See UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.)

On the other hand, the state Department of Finance took strong exception to the above agreed cut in the insurance tax on private carrier disability insurance premiums, because of its minor adverse revenue effect on the state’s general fund (a revenue loss of approximately $1 million). Although the strong employer opposition failed to stop the settlement as it went through the Assembly Committee on Finance and Insurance, the Department of Finance was successful when the bill was referred to the Ways and Means Committee in deleting the cut in the private carrier premium tax, thereby, in turn, requiring a corresponding monetary cut-back in the maximum weekly benefit from $55 to the $50 in the enacted measure.

Employers continued their opposition and delaying tactics after adoption of this amendment, but the Federation kept steady pressure behind the bill and eased it through the Assembly and over to the Senate Labor Committee. The bill was held up in this form in the reactionary Senate Labor Committee until it was possible to work out the unemployment insurance program, and then finally pushed through the Senate in the closing weeks of the session. Fortunately, in the struggle on the Senate side, the Federation was able to prevent the employer-controlled Labor Committee from watering the bill further contrary to the agreement of the Federation and the private carriers, while at the same time using the measure to win the greatest concessions possible on unemployment insurance from the very employer group that possessed effective control of the Senate Labor Committee. Obviously, it was possible to proceed only by agreement.

Your Federation believes that the disability insurance settlement speaks for itself. In a high employment year like 1957, the Department of Employment conservatively estimates that the bill involved in the settlement will bring an added $11 million in benefits to workers covered by the disability law under the state plan, plus at least a like amount from private carriers for workers covered by voluntary plans.

Bills marked * were sponsored by the Federation

Good Bills

*AB 232 (Beaver). Repealed 30 times weekly benefit amount eligibility requirement with regard to claimants who earn more than 75 percent of their base period wages in a single calendar quarter. AB 1249 (Ernest R. Geddes). Department of Employment bill: eliminates provisions for hearing prior to withdrawal of approval of a voluntary plan, and provides instead for an appeal to the appeals board from the Director of Employment's notice of withdrawal of approval of a voluntary plan. Also permits the director to change or stay the effective date of his withdrawal of approval. Included in the disability insurance settlement. Chapter 1181.

AB 1250 (Ernest R. Geddes). Department of Employment bill: extends personal liability of officer of a corporation for wilful failure to pay contributions under a final return of a corporation to include liability for worker contributions due to the disability fund. Included in disability insurance settlement in *AB 233. Chapter 1182.

AB 1468 (Henderson). As originally introduced, provided for certification of disability by foreign physician. The provisions of the original bill were amended into the unemployment disability insurance settlement in *AB 233. The bill was amended in the Senate, and as enacted merely provides that the provisions of AB 3194 (Ernest R. Geddes) shall not require any changes in existing voluntary plan policies prior to January 1, 1958, even though that bill takes effect on September 11, 1957. Chapter 2276.

AB 3194 (Ernest R. Geddes). As introduced, authorized and empowered Director of Employment to release and compromise any unemployment disability benefits lien against a workmen’s compensation award. As amended and enacted into one of the basic bills in the unemployment disability insurance settlement, it corrects previously existing inequities with relation to workmen’s compensation: restricts liens under workmen’s compensation to payments made for temporary disability, rather than for both permanent and temporary disability; prohibits the Department of Employment setting up any claim of overpayment where its lien has been adjudicated or denied by the Industrial Accident Commission, while further providing that there shall not be any double payment for the same disability for which temporary disability benefits have been received. Chapter 1977.

SB 1776 (Harold T. Johnson). Extended disability insurance coverage to public employees upon written request of a majority of the employees to the appropriate governmental agency and upon finding by Department of Employment that majority of said employees voted in favor of coverage. Died in Senate committee.

Bad Bills

AB 654 (Ernest R. Geddes). Removed requirements that voluntary plans take in all employees, part-time as well as full-time, at any distinct separate establishment maintained by an employer, and instead permitted coverage to be limited to any class or classes determined by conditions pertaining to employment; made related changes in other qualifying provisions, and accordingly made permanent the temporary suspension of the provision prohibiting approval of voluntary plans which result in a substantial reduction of risks adverse to the state disability fund. (Only an additional two-year suspension of the adverse risk clause was included in the disability insurance settlement in *AB 233, pending further study of the effect of such suspension.) Died in Assembly committee.

Senate companion, SB 448 (Desmond), died in Senate committee.

AB 658 (Ernest R. Geddes). Provided that benefits paid to claimants under the extended liability provisions for disabilities commencing when unemployed shall be paid under the lower unemployment insurance benefits schedule, instead of the disability insurance schedule. Would have reduced benefits in a year like 1957 by about $1.7 million. Died in Assembly committee.

Senate companion, SB 441 (Desmond), died in Senate committee.

AB 664 (Ernest R. Geddes). Permitted voluntary plan insurers to offset up to $750,000 in disability insurance premium taxes against extended liability assessment.

Senate companion, SB 453 (Desmond), died in Senate committee.

AB 1946 (Ernest R. Geddes). Deleted requirement that employers post printed statement concerning the filing of disability benefit claims; provided that claimants, except when unemployed, shall file claims with employer to fill out and forward to the department or to the voluntary plan carrier; required filing of extended liability claims with the department for notification of the filing to the claimant’s last employer regarding filing out a form and returning it to the department. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 2235 (Ernest R. Geddes). Provided for charging extended liability account with all benefits paid for disability periods commencing two or more weeks after layoff, leave without pay or termination of employment; gave voluntary plan employees right to benefits under such plan during the interim two weeks. For above purposes, provided that no disability benefit period shall be deemed to have commenced prior to date the claimant was first treated by a physician. Deleted the concept of “simultaneous coverage”, and substituted the concept of “concurrent employment”, for the showing of benefits by voluntary plans and the disability fund in accordance with authorized regulations. Also, as condition of approval of voluntary plans, required such plans to provide for continuation of coverage for a period of two weeks following termination of employment, unless individual becomes employed by another employer within the two-week period. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3069 (Levering). Denied benefits to individual committed by court order or certification of an institution or other place, pursuant to state Welfare and Institutions Code, for mental illness or because of dipsomania, drug addiction, etc. Would have cut benefits by about $250,000 annually in a year like 1957. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3070 (Levering). Prohibited payment of benefits for any period during which a person is receiving or has applied or has filed for either old age benefits or disability insurance benefits under the federal Social Security Act, except that the difference was to be payable in cases where the social security benefit was less than the state unemployment disability insurance benefit. Died in Assembly committee.

SB 1313 (Desmond). Amended numerous sections of the unemployment disability insurance law to establish the program on a “premium for risk” basis, in an obvious attempt to destroy the state program. Created a state non-occupational disability insurance fund on a competitive basis with private carriers, and placed all regulatory authority of program under the Insurance Commissioner. Died in Senate committee.
SB 2557 (Desmond). Prohibited payment of unemployment disability insurance benefits for any period in which the Industrial Accident Commission, in a workmen's compensation proceedings, finds that no disability was suffered. Died in Senate committee.

Other Bills

AB 665 (Ernest R. Geddes). Continues for two more years unemployment disability insurance "trainee" benefits for veterans. Chapter 1124.

AB 1464 (Beaver). Provided for continuance of a voluntary plan when a business or part thereof changes hands, unless a specific request for termination or cancellation is made. Bill was incorporated into AB 233 as part of disability insurance settlement, and was dropped in committee.

WATER AND POWER

The failure of the representatives of the north and south to reach agreement on a "water rights" constitutional amendment for the settlement of outstanding differences of the respective areas in connection with projects that contemplate the transportation of water from an area of origin or excess supply to an area of deficiency precluded the enactment of any major legislation on water and power development.

Southern legislators assumed the position that until they are given firm rights by constitutional amendment, they are not going to vote on any major expenditures or project authorizations which would run contrary to southern desires for northern water on a "firm" water rights basis. The northern legislators, on the other hand, generally refused to concede that the south's rights should be paramount to the rights of the areas of origin in regard to future needs.

The issue itself was essentially a false issue raised by the apparently blind acceptance of the state Feather River Project, which contemplates the transportation of northern waters over the Tehachapis all the way down to the Mexican border. Fortunately for the interests supporting maximum and integrated development of our water power resources, the failure to reach agreement on this "false issue" also blocked all appropriations for construction of the Feather River Project itself, which on its face is economically unsound in proposing the transportation of water to the south that can be put to greater economic use in its natural basin, and in the process, destroying enough electric power in the transportation of the water to sustain half a million workers in employment in our growing state. The project would actually consume five times the power it would produce. Unfortunately, however, the failure to reach agreement on a constitutional amendment also blocked any workable compromise for immediate construction of the San Luis Project by the federal government, with provision for possible future integration with the state's Feather River Project, should the people of the state ever be duped into the position of accepting the construction of this economic nightmare.

The position assumed by the Federation was opposition to the Feather River Project until its financial and economic feasibility had been proven. Not only has this not been done to date, but the state does not even have a criteria for determining economic and financial feasibility, nor does it have a policy on the distribution of benefits to prevent monopolization of our resources, the absence of which is the primary reason for proposal of the state Feather River Project in the first place. The Federation, therefore, also assumed the position that in any constitutional amendment that was to be a major policy measure, policy on distribution of benefits should also be included. Accordingly, we urged preference distribution of public power generated at state projects and acreage restrictions on the amount of water which any one individual may receive for irrigation purposes. These proposals likewise went down the drain.

While the accomplishments of the legislature in the field of water and power was zero, a ray of hope that the legislature might eventually extricate itself from the political mess of its own creation is contained ACH 198, which notes the lack of policies for determining economic and financial feasibility of state-proposed projects and calls for study and recommendations on this crucial issue.

Good Bills

AB 2827 (O'Connell and others). Wrote into California law provisions patterned after federal reclamation law prohibiting the delivery of irrigation water to excess land holders in the amount greater than sufficient to irrigate 160 acres (320 for man and wife), unless the excess land holder agrees to sell his excess lands within a specified period of time in accordance with specified principles of appraisal. Presented by the Federation; refused favorable consideration in Assembly committee.

AB 3930 (Burton). Prohibited the Public Utilities Commission, in establishing rates for gas and electric corporations, from allowing any expenditures for advertising purposes, i.e., PG&E propaganda in support of its "partnership" swindle on the Trinity River Project. Referred to interim committee for further study.

AB 4075 (MacBride and others). Established provisions in California law requiring preference distribution to public agencies of power generated at publicly developed water and power projects. Died in Assembly committee.

Senate companion, SB 2588 (Harold T. Johnson), died in Senate committee. Neither bill was taken up.

ACR 93 (McAllister). Noted lack of proven feasibility of the Feather River Project and called for hiring of independent consultants for reports on economic and financial feasibility. Killed in Assembly committee.

ACR 198 (Miller and others). Notes "superficial" treatment of economic and financial feasibility questions in Feather River Project reports and the expenditure of 25 million dollars for a project of unproven feasibility; directs joint interim committee to hold hearings and study problems involved in establishing policies to be used in the state in evaluating economic and financial feasibility of the Feather River Project and other units of the proposed overall California water plan, and to recommend appropriate policies to the legislature for adoption; directs the study to encompass the essentials of multiple-purpose project planning, including determination of reimbursable and non-reimbursable costs, the method of cost allocation to be used, the basis of establishing rates for project services, etc. Resolutions, Chapter 326.

AJR 22 (Lowrey and others). Called on Congress to reject the PG&E proposal for construction of the power facilities at the federal Trinity River Project in "partnership" with the federal government. Died in Assembly committee.

Bad Bills

AB 1 (Bruce F. Allen and others). Established California water fund consisting of "rainy day fund," tideland oil revenues in investment fund, two and a half million dollars monthly from general fund, revenues over fifteen million dollars from current tideland revenues, bond issue funds and all receipts and revenues from state projects except those necessary for operation, maintenance and replacement and debt service in connection with the project, thus destroying all known criteria for determining financial feasibility of a project, and imposing, instead, by indirection, a new "political feasibility" concept which is the only basis upon which the Feather River Project could ever be justified as a state undertaking. Refused passage on floor of Assembly because of lack of agreement on a water rights constitutional amendment.

AB 100 (Lindsay and others). On an urgency basis, appropriated $25,190,000 to Department of Water Resources for construction and relocation of Western Pacific Railroad tracks and State Highway Route 21 in vicinity of Oroville Dam and Reservoir site. Passed during first part of session upon request of Governor. On Assembly floor, amendment to insert excess lands provision in distribution of irrigation benefits was tabled by roll call vote of 46-25, and amendment to require preference distribution of public power was tabled by roll call vote of 47-25.

AB 104 (Lindsay). As an extension of the thinking in AB 1, proposed a flat two dollar per acre charge for all state project water, plus the cost of operating and maintenance of any facility used in carrying water to the service area. Proposal contemplated unlimited subsidies by the taxpayers in general for water users in the service areas of "politically feasible" projects. Died in Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

AB 2995 (Belotti). Also tying in with the concepts of AB 1, established rate setting criteria for state-generated hydro-electric power to assure its delivery to the private utilities, i.e., in the case of the Feather River Project, the PG&E. Referred to interim committee for further study.

AB 4127 (Sedgwick and others). Appropriated 37-plus million dollars in tideland revenues in investment fund to Department of Water Resources for expenditures in connection with preparations for construction of state Feather River Project. Died in Assembly Ways and Means Committee because of failure of agreement on water rights constitutional amendment.

The Senate Feather River bill, SB 1925 (Ed. C. Johnson), died in conference committee in the closing minutes of the 1967 session. As passed by the Senate, SB 1925 appropriated 34-plus million dollars in tideland revenues for construction of Oroville dam in the Feather River Project specifically as a 500,000 acre-foot flood control dam in a manner to permit future integration with the state Feather River Project should it be completed. After numerous amendments and entanglements on the Assembly floor, because of lack of agreement on a water rights constitutional amendment, was sent back to the Senate as carrying a mere 3.3 million dollar appropriation to keep the staff of the Department of Water Resources together and busy on surveys, explorations, laboratory studies, designs, preparation of construction plans and specifications, property surveys, etc. in connection with the Feather River Project. Refusal of concurrence by Senate in Assembly amendments and failure of conference to reach agreement left the issue unresolved.

SB 306 (Arnold and others). Established water development fund for state subsidization of water projects of local agencies restricted to "obtaining, storing, furnishing, or distributing water for domestic, municipal, agricultural or industrial uses." By omission, prohibited generation of public power by such projects, and contained no anti-monopoly protections in regard to the distribution of irrigation benefits. Although good in concept, was premature without policy on distribution of benefits. Pocket-vetoed by the Governor because of failure of legislature to act on major water issues.

SB 1329 (Williams). Adopted the so-called “California Water Plan” in its present uncompleted, inflexible form for the guidance of the development of California water and power resources. In essence, this master plan is built around the state Feather River Project and the so-called California Aqueduct System. Refused passage on floor of Senate.

Assembly companion, AB 93 (Lindsay), passed Assembly and was also refused passage on the Senate floor.

Assembly Constitutional Amendments 4, 38, 55, 68, 75-78 inclusive, 81, and 83 (by various authors). All these constitutional amendments contained various conflicting proposals for a constitutional settlement of the water rights issue between the north and the south, and all failed to gain approval for submission to the voters. Senate Constitutional Amendments 1, 27, 44 and 47 (also by various authors) met with the same fate on the Senate side.

SCR 88 (Hollister). Proposed biased study of 160-acre limitation by Joint Committee on Water Problems to end application of the federal law in California. Opposed by the Federation and defeated in Rules Committee.

SJR 12 (Hollister). Essentially same as SCR 88, but called upon congressional committees to make the biased study of the application of the so-called 160-acre limitation of reclamation law. Opposed by Federation and defeated in Senate Rules Committee.

Other Bills

AB 2222 (Hansen). Provided for the joint construction and use by federal and state governments of the San Luis Project. As a compromise measure, contained bad feature that would end application of excess lands law when the federal unit is turned over to the state for integration with the state Feather River Project. Refused passage on floor of Assembly because of failure of agreement on water rights constitutional amendment.

Senate version of the Assembly joint construction bill, SB 1995 (Cobey), passed the Senate but died in the Assembly for the same reason.

ACR 211 (Lincoln and others). Creates Joint Interim Committee on Water Resources Development Problems with broad study powers, including the water rights issue. Resolutions, Chapter 329.

SB 759 (Abshire). Authorizes construction of North Bay aqueduct as set forth in the Department of Water Resources Bulletin on salinity control barrier investigations; appropriates 1.34 million dollars for completion of engineering studies and preparation of construction plans and specifications for the North Bay aqueduct. Chapter 2252.

SCR 105 (Williams). Creates Joint Committee on Water Problems with full study authority, overlapping with ACR 211 (Lincoln and others). Resolutions, Chapter 337.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

The successes achieved by the Federation in liberalizing workmen's compensation benefits are embodied in *AB 3662 (Bee), which increases the maximum weekly indemnity benefit from $40 to $50 for temporary disabilities and from $35 to $40 for permanent disabilities, plus substantial increases in the death benefit as follows: from $12,500 to $15,000 for total dependencies where a dependent child is also involved; $10,000 to $12,000 for all other total dependencies, and a like increase in the maximum death benefit for partial dependen-cies. The cash value of this package is conservatively estimated at $8.3 million a year for injured workers and their dependents.

The significance of these advancements, however, cannot be accurately appraised apart from the months of negotiations and maneuvering that finally led to the enactment of *AB 3662. As a matter of fact, nothing perhaps better demonstrates the hectic nature of the 1957 session of the legislature than the sequence of events expanding the breadth of the entire session that finally produced the workmen's compensation advancements.

History of Passage

Faced with the “fact of existence” of the employer-controlled Senate Labor Committee (see FOREWORD BY THE SECRETARY), the Federation moved quickly upon the reconvening of the session in March to test its precarious position. Inasmuch as all social insurance and labor bills had to move through this committee, it was determined that the "worst" of the situation should be known at the outset. To lead off, the Federation set for almost immediate hearing its entire, fully planned and fully developed workmen's compensation program, embodied in a series of bills by Senator Regan. One by one, with the overwhelming weight of supporting data, the bills were presented to committee, and one by one the bills were rejected by the employer-controlled majority on the committee. Negotiations carried on concurrently with employer representatives also fell short of agreement.

It soon became apparent that the employers had programmed with their controlled majority on the Senate Labor Committee so that no benefit bill was to get out of committee unless it was dictated by them. Accordingly, the employers amended SB 1767 (John F. McCarthy) to include the benefits which they had unwillingly conceded in negotiations and sent it out of committee to the floor of the Senate with the obvious intent that no other benefits bill was going to get out of the Senate Labor Committee.

The bill itself, reflecting the heavy pressure being applied by the Federation, proposed substantial advancements in benefits, containing all the provisions of program finally approved in *AB 3662 with the exception of the $50 maximum weekly benefit for temporary disabilities. The employers, with the weight of the Senate Labor Committee behind them, stated flatly that $47.50 was the absolute limit. Carrying this "ultimatum of the employers," SB 1767 glided past the Senate and landed in the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee.

On the Assembly side, while negotiations were continued with the employers, SB 1767, together with all Assembly workmen's compensation bills, was referred to a subcommittee of the Assembly Committee on Finance and Insurance.

As hearings on the bills and negotiations advanced without any real progress being made, and the threat of a serious deadlock imminent, the Federation moved into action quickly. A minor bill, SB 68 (Abshire), continuing for two more years some amendments to the subsequent injuries fund that the Federation had agreed to in 1955, was moving steadily through the legislature without being tied up with other workmen's compensation legislation, and at the time was moving to the floor of the Assembly, completing its last leg of the legislative process. The Federation had been watching the bill carefully and contemplating its possible use if needed. The need having arisen, SB 68 was amended on the floor of the Assembly in a surprise move that caught the opposition completely off guard. A $55 maximum which the employers refused to concede was written into the bill for temporary disabilities along with the $40 maximum for permanent disabilities already in SB 1767.

The employers recovered sufficiently to sidetrack the bill to the Ways and Means Committee for financial clearance, but the support for the amended bill which the Federation had already been able to work up in the Assembly by that time was sufficient at least to break the deadlock in the Assembly subcommittee that was reviewing all workmen's compensation legislation, which was the primary purpose of the amendment of SB 68 in the first place. Accordingly, the subcommittee amended the $50 maximum for temporary disabilities over employer opposition into SB 1767. *AB 451 (Hawkins), the Federation's benefit bill on the Assembly side, was also amended to match the weekly indemnity maximums in SB 1767 and those likewise in SB 68 in the Ways and Means Committee, namely, the $50 for temporary disabilities and the $40 for permanent disabilities. In addition, of the remainder of the Federation program listed under "good bills" below, the subcommittee also recommended favorably *AB 225 (O'Connell), *AB 240 (Henderson), *AB 268 (Bonelli), *AB 244 (Burton), *AB 338 (McCollister), AB 397 (Crown), as summarized below.

All of these bills, together with the major bills, SB 1767 and *AB 451, both as amended by the Federation, received favorable recommendation by the parent Committee on Finance and Insurance, and were passed almost without opposition through the Assembly by the lopsided roll calls listed below under the appropriate bill number. All of the bills went to the Senate Committee on Labor, with the exception of SB 1767, which merely had to go back to the Senate floor for concurrence in Assembly amendments added by the Federation. The bill's author, however, urged refusal of concurrence, which by Senate custom, automatically threw the bill in free conference committee between the two houses to iron out the differences.

In view of the lopsided majority by which the Federation's version of SB 1767 had passed the Assembly (60-0), the Federation had good reason to believe the workmen's compensation battle had all but been won, and that the conference committee would finally approve the Assembly version. The conference, however, produced shocking revelations. The Senate conferees refused to budge, the reason being, as it finally appeared, that Standard Oil and allied interests would not concede and that the Senate conferees, or at least the key ones, had committed themselves to this position. The mighty Standard Oil Company apparently just could not afford to pay injured workers the additional $2.50 a week that was the difference between the two versions of SB 1767.

With the conference in deadlock on SB 1767, and all other Federation bills in the employer-controlled Senate Labor Committee, the Federation again was forced to take drastic action. The Senate Labor Committee, as expected, killed all the bills listed above that had passed the Assembly almost unanimously, but, inadvertently or otherwise, it let out *AB 3662, destined to become the vehicle for the Federation's workmen's compensation program, but which at that time merely provided for the burial expense to be paid to the proper person by order of the IAC where there is no surviving dependent or heir. By vigorous action, following meticulous planning and spadework, *AB 3662 was amended to include the Assembly version of SB 1767 on the floor of the Senate by a vote of 23-7, following Federation defeat by 24-10 of the combined employer lobby's all-out effort to send the bill back to the Senate Labor Committee as a means of killing it. Following this action, the bill went back to the Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments, and then to Governor Knight for his signature.

Other Bills

With the success obtained in *AB 3662, SB 1767 died in conference, and SB 68, which was resting in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee all this time, after Federation amendment on the floor of the Assembly, was amended back into its original form, and passed as extending for two more years the agreed-to 1955 amendments to the subsequent injuries fund.

Among still other bills, although the Federation's bill to require employers to pay the attorney's fee for the injured workingman was killed in Senate committee (*AB 268), another bill providing for such payment in third party suits, was enacted in AB 1663 (Bruce F. Allen). Also, as part of the unemployment disability insurance settlement (see that section), disability insurance liens against workmen's compensation benefits have been confined to liens against temporary disability benefits in AB 3194 (Ernest R. Geddes).

Also worthy of noting is AB 1783 (Hanna), which, as passed, prohibits liens against workmen's compensation from affecting the commencement of immediate payment of any balance of the award where an installment payment method of payment of the award has been determined.

Bills marked * were sponsored by the Federation

Good Bills

*AB 224 (O'Connell). Authorized the Industrial Accident Commission to award a reasonable attorney's fee, to be paid by the employer as additional compensation, where an employer's petition to decrease a permanent disability rating which has become final is denied. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 225 (O'Connell). Deleted provision for workmen's compensation coverage of persons employed in this state and injured elsewhere, and provision establishing reciprocity in exempting employee and employer where employee is temporarily in this state and is covered under law of another state. Passed unanimously and without opposition in the Assembly and killed in Senate Committee on Labor.

*AB 240 (Henderson and Gaffney). Required employer to furnish his employee, upon request, with copies of medical reports in employer's possession, and made failure to do so a refusal to furnish medical treatment, thereby making the employer liable for expenses of medical treatment of the employee. Passed Assembly by large majority in roll call vote of 68-2, but was killed in Senate Committee on Labor.

Senate companion, *SB 474 (Cobey), died in Senate committee.

*AB 241 (Henderson and others). Increased minimum weekly benefit for both permanent and temporary disabilities from $15 to $20; repealed maximum on weekly benefits for both permanent and temporary disabilities to allow full application of wage loss principle computed by the 61.75 percent standard in the law. Died in Assembly committee. See AB 3662 (Bee).

*AB 242 (Henderson and Gaffney). Made it a misdemeanor for employer to fail or refuse to furnish compensation within 30 days after notice in writing of liability. Died in Assembly committee.

Senate companion, *SB 475 (Cobey), died in Senate committee.

*AB 243 (Burton and others). Placed burden on the employer to prove that employee's injury was caused by his intoxication or was intentionally self-inflicted so as to preclude liability. Died in Assembly committee.

*AB 244 (Burton and others). Repealed the dollar limit of $3,750 by which an award may be increased by one-half where employer is guilty of serious and wilful misconduct. Passed Assembly with little opposition by a roll call vote of 64-7, but was killed in Senate Committee on Labor.

*AB 268 (Bonelli). Provided for payment of attorney's fee of injured employee or dependent of deceased employee by the employer without deduction from the award where claim is successful, in amount determined by the IAC. Passed the Assembly with virtually no opposition by roll call vote of 64-4, but was killed in Senate committee.

Senate companion, *SB 137 (Regan), was also killed in Senate Labor Committee.

*AB 269 (Bonelli). Reduced from 49 to 7 days the required duration of a temporary disability for retroactive payment of waiting period. Died in Assembly committee.

Senate companion, *SB 124 (Regan), was killed in Senate committee.

*AB 270 (Bonelli). Provided for rehabilitation training, in addition to all other benefits, in cases where industrial injury causes permanent disability which prevents return to work performed prior to injury. Also provided for weekly benefit payments equal to those for temporary disability during training period. Died in Assembly committee.

Senate companion, *SB 132 (Regan), was killed in Senate Committee on Labor.

*AB 337 (McCollister). Confined unemployment disability insurance indemnity lien against benefits granted under workmen's compensation to compensation for temporary disability, instead of both permanent and temporary disability. Died in Assembly committee. The provisions of the bill were amended to include, in addition, a system for compromising of liens affecting both programs, and incorporated into AB 3194, which was part of the unemployment disability insurance settlement. See UNEMPLOYMENT DISABILITY INSURANCE.

Senate companion, *SB 216 (Short), died in Senate committee.

*AB 338 (McCollister). As introduced, increased the burial benefit from $400 to $800. As amended and passed by the Assembly without opposition, increased the burial benefit from $400 to $600. Killed in Senate Committee on Labor which wanted to amend the bill down below the present $400.

Senate companion, *SB 219 (Short), also killed by Senate Labor Committee.

*AB 339 (McCollister). Provided that injured worker required to submit to medical examination upon request of employer or the IAC shall be reimbursed for all expenses, including reimbursement of wage loss as a result of compliance. Died in Assembly committee.

Senate companion, *SB 473 (Cobey), killed in Senate committee.

*AB 397 (Crown and others). As passed by the Assembly without opposition by roll call vote of 71-0, made presumptions of hernia, heart trouble and pneumonia contracted by fire fighters and hernia contracted by law enforcement employees in the course of employment conclusive if the employee has served ten years or more. Amended in the Senate to apply same conclusive presumption to police officers in the case of heart trouble and pneumonia. As such, was refused approval by Senate Committee on Labor. The bill was then redrafted to take care of technical problems and to restrict measure to full-time fire fighters and law enforcement officers, but was again refused passage by Senate Labor Committee. Amended still again to restrict to heart trouble for full-time fire fighters and law enforcement officers. As such, was also rejected by Senate Labor Committee. After this rejection, the bill was amended to clarify the coverage of disaster service workers by restricting the special disaster service provisions of the workmen's compensation law to disaster service workers registered with a disaster council that is not receiving a fee or other compensation for the performance of activities or functions by the disaster service worker involved, and by providing that other disaster workers with councils operating for a fee fall within the standard provisions of workmen's compensation. As thus finally amended and no longer a Federation-sponsored bill, it was enacted into law. Chapter 1103.

*AB 451 (Hawkins and others). As introduced, increased the minimum weekly benefit for both temporary and permanent disability from $15 to $20 and the maximum weekly benefit from $35 for permanent disability and $40 for temporary disability to $55 for both. As amended and passed by the Assembly by a roll call vote of 60-1, increased the weekly benefit for temporary disabilities from $40 to $50 and the weekly benefit for permanent disabilities from $35 to $40.

As such, the measure was held in Senate committee without requesting a hearing pending the outcome of conference committee between the two houses on SB 1767, which in the Assembly version, contained the same weekly benefit provisions as *AB 451, but $2.50 less per week for temporary disabilities than in the Senate version. Upon successful amendment of *AB 3662 on the floor of the Senate, *AB 451 was dropped, as its weekly benefits provisions were included in *AB 3662, which was finally enacted.
*AB 451 therefore died in Senate Committee on Labor.

Senate companion to the original bill, *SB 131 (Regan), was killed by the Senate Committee on Labor in an early test of strength.

Senate companion, *SB 136 (Regan), was killed in Senate committee.

AB 1663 (Bruce F. Allen). As amended and enacted, requires the Industrial Accident Commission to fix an amount to be deducted from the employer’s recovery in a subrogation case for the services rendered to the employer by the employee’s attorney in effecting recovery, if the employer has not prosecuted any claim or action in his own behalf, or has failed to join and participate in the prosecution of any action presented by the employee, or has not made arrangements with the employee’s attorney to represent him in the prosecution of such action or claim. Chapter 615.

*AB 3662 (Bee). Amended on the floor of the Senate by vote of 23-7, following rejection of tabling motion by 24-10, to include the State Federation of Labor’s program for workmen’s compensation, which at the time was hung up in free conference committee on SB 1767. As so amended, the bill was passed by the Senate by roll call vote of 34-2 following the defeat of the combined employer lobby attempt to send the bill back to the Labor Committee by a vote of 22-15. As so passed by the Senate and concurred in by the Assembly and enacted, accomplishes the following:

1. Increases the maximum weekly benefit amount payable for a temporary disability from $40 to $50;

2. Increases the maximum weekly benefit amount payable for a permanent disability from $35 to $40; and

3. Increases death benefits from $12,500 to $15,000 in a case of a totally dependent surviving widow with a dependent child, from $10,000 to $12,000 for all other cases of total dependency, and from $10,000 to $12,000 in the maximum benefit for partial dependencies.

Increased benefits apply to disabilities commencing September 11, 1957. Chapter 1996.

AB 3699 (Johnson). As introduced, increased the burial benefit from $300 to $500 for disaster service worker, from $400 to $500 for members of the State Employees’ Retirement System and for other employees. State Employees' Retirement System. Killed in Senate Committee on Labor.

AB 3703 (Johnson). As enacted, provides that where tuberculosis of member of police department of city or county or member of sheriff's office, who is employed on regular salary, and whose principal duties are active law enforcement, develops or manifests itself during employment, it is presumed to arise out and in the course of employment. Chapter 295.

SB 1779 (Regan). As amended, extended to full-time members of the fire fighting department or unit of a state institution the provisions establishing as compensable injuries, hernia, pneumonia and heart trouble, which develops or manifests itself while in service. Passed by Senate and died in Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Bad Bills

AB 1694 (Francis). Modified prohibition against the IAC rescinding, altering or amending an award after five years from the date of injury. Provided that within such five-year period, if an injured employee instituted proceedings for the collection of compensation on grounds that additional injury has caused new and further disability, or if an employer instituted proceedings for a reduction of permanent disability, the Commission would be permitted to consider and act upon such proceedings within the period of one year following the date when the proceeding had been instituted. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 2980 (Thelin). Made sweeping revisions in workmen's compensation law to encompass proposals of employers to emasculate the workmen's compensation law by creating a legal maze for the denial of benefits to workers. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3050 (Levering). Similar in purpose and content to AB 2980 (Thelin). Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3089 (Hansen). Reduced compensation by one-half where employee's intoxication contributed to but was not the sole cause of the injury; relieved employer altogether of liability for compensation where injury resulted from a physical assault initiated by the injured person, where injury was incident to an act or course of conduct involving moral turpitude or an illegal activity on the part of the injured employee, and where injury was proximately caused by an idiopathic fall. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3396 (Levering). Permitted Insurance Commissioner, upon petition of carrier seeking higher workmen's compensation rate, to fix a rate in excess of that provided by a filing otherwise applicable for any specific risk. Died in Assembly committee.

AB 3403 (Levering). Prohibited commutation of compensation in cases involving permanent disability ratings, if objected to by any interested party, until expiration of the year from the date the permanent disability rating was made. Died in Assembly committee.

SB 1585 (Abshire). Gave employer period of five years after date of injury to institute proceedings for reduction of a permanent rating. Died in Senate committee.

SB 1767 (John F. McCarthy). As introduced, was a very bad bill, containing numerous proposals of employers to apparently destroy the purpose of workmen's compensation by establishing precise and narrow definitions of terms and otherwise creating a legalistic jungle for the application of courtroom procedures to deny workers benefits. Amended in Senate Committee on Labor to include the employer's declared optimal increase in workmen's compensation benefits as follows: increased weekly benefit for temporary disabilities from $40 to $47.50 a week, and for permanent disabilities from $35 to $40 a week; increased death benefit for totally dependent wife with dependent child from $12,500 to $15,000, while increasing the death benefit in all other cases of total dependencies from $10,000 to $12,000, and boosting the maximum in partial death benefits by the same amount. Amended in Assembly committee, over opposition of the employers in accordance with the Federation's request, to increase the weekly benefit for temporary disabilities from $40 to $50 instead of the $40 to $47.50 as in the Senate version. As so amended, passed Assembly with only one dissenting vote by roll call of 60-1. Concurrence in Assembly amendments was rejected. by the Senate, which threw the bill into free conference between the Assembly and the Senate. SB 1767 died in conference committee as result of a prolonged deadlock between conferees, but only after the favorable Assembly version of SB 1767 was successfully amended by the Federation into *AB 3662 and enacted into law.

SB 1914 (Brown). Provided that filing of release or compromise agreement shall stay all other proceedings and suspend the passage of all periods of time within which an act may or must be done under the workmen's compensation law, pending the approval of the release or compromise agreement by the IAC. Died in Senate committee.

SB 1916 (Brown). Provided that where employee with a permanent disability sustains another such disability, the IAC must find and determine (a) extent and nature of previous injury and the factors of the combined disability attributable to it, (b) factors of combined disability directly attributable to compensable injury considered alone and not in connection with previous disability, and (c) percentage of combined disability attributable to (a) and (b) above. Died in Senate committee.

SB 1973 (Berry). Entitled any party, including the Attorney General on behalf of the subsequent injuries fund, to special findings of fact, upon demand in a proceeding for benefits before the Industrial Accident Commission, in which either causation or aggravation of disease is claimed. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2216 (Abshire). Provided that a person aggrieved by a final order, decision or award of the IAC may petition for reconsideration, if the liberal construction required to be given to the provisions of the workmen's compensation law was substituted for evidence or record; extended the scope of judicial review to cover the same question with regard to the liberal construction provision. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2217 (Abshire). Created conclusive presumption that an employee suffered no temporary disability resulting from an injury where injury causes permanent disability and impairment of his health or his physical condition is the same when disability is determined to have become permanent as at time of injury. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2218 (Abshire). Provided that where permanent disability is due in whole or in part to disease or any disease aggravation, the IAC must in its findings determine the extent and portion of the disease existing prior to injury, the extent and portion attributable to injury, and the extent and portion developed since injury, but independent of it. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2219 (Abshire). As amended in Senate, permitted advance payments for a permanent disability indemnity to be chargeable under an agreement against an award. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2269 (Desmond). Deleted requirement that hospitals supplied by employers or associations of employers make reports of receipts, disbursements and services to Industrial Accident Commission. Died in Senate committee.

SB 2555 (Desmond). Established presumption, for purposes of computing disability payments, that average annual earnings of an employee engaged in transient or seasonal employment equals the actual total earnings for 12 months preceding the injury. Died in Senate committee.

Other Bills

AB 1275 (Unruh). Department of Insurance bill: as enacted, expands scope of purpose of workmen's compensation rating organization from making of test audits of insured's pay rolls and insured's audits, to examining all records and premises of insured employer to assure proper premium rates are charged and employers properly classified; limits period of examination to one year after expiration of policy and authorizes commissioner to take proper action in the event of employer's refusal to allow examination. Chapter 377.

AB 1492 (MacBride and Nielsen). As passed by the Assembly, extended to state employees classified as institutional fireman, fire fighter or fire marshall, and employed either part-time or full-time, the provisions making pneumonia, heart trouble and hernia presumed compensable injuries. Killed in Senate committee.

AB 1493 (MacBride and Nielsen). Extended to all state employees provisions now applicable only to law enforcement members of California Highway Patrol relating to leave of absence without loss of salary for not more than one year in lieu of workmen's compensation disability payments, in event of temporary disability. Subject matter referred to interim committee for further study.

AB 1783 (Hanna). As amended and enacted, provides that the payment of liens against workmen's compensation benefits in the amount approved by the commission, whether ordered to be paid directly to the person entitled either in lump sum or installments, shall in no way affect the commencement of immediate payments of any balance of the award to the injured claimant where an installment payment for his disability has been determined. Chapter 1241.

SB 68 (Abshire and others). As introduced and passed by the Senate, continued for two more years the 1955 restricting amendments to the subsequent injuries fund. Following rejection in the Senate Labor Committee of the entire Federation program on workmen's compensation, this bill was amended on the Assembly floor to increase the weekly benefit for temporary disabilities from $40 to $55 and for permanent disabilities from $35 to $40, in a surprise move that caught employers off guard. As so amended, the bill was then sent to the Ways and Means Committee where it eventually was amended again to delete the increases amended on the floor, but only after it had served its purpose of securing Assembly amendment of SB 1767, leading in turn, when stalled in conference committee, to the final amendment and passage of *AB 3662. After being used for this purpose, SB 68, as originally introduced, was enacted into law. Chapter 2061.

SB 1723 (Burns). As amended and enacted, provides that no classification of risks or premium rates or system of merit rating shall permit a determination or modification of the premium or premium rate of a particular insured by reason of a combination of his California workmen's compensation insurance premium or experience with his premiums, or experience (1) arising out of any other class of insurance, whether or not such other class of insurance is written under the laws of this state, (2) arising out of workmen's compensation insurance written under the laws of any other state; also prohibits any classification of risks and rates or system of merit rating from permitting a discount of basic premium rates or premium resulting from the application of such rates, unless the discount results from the application of experience rating or scheduled rating, but in no event permitting a discount by reasons of any reduction in the expense provision included in the classification of risk and premium rates approved or issued by the insurance commissioner. Chapter 2317.

SB 2205 (Montgomery). As enacted, permits the Industrial Accident Commission to publish its office manual and sell it to the public on a subscription basis; increases the IAC charges for transcripts from twenty cents to forty cents a folio of 100 words. Chapter 1825.

SB 2300 (Miller and Dilworth). As introduced, was a skeleton bill relating to loyalty oaths of civil defense workers. As amended in the Senate and enacted, broadens the definition of disaster service workers for purposes of workmen's compensation to include public employees and an unregistered person impressed into service during a state of disaster or a state of extreme emergency by a person having authority to command the aid of citizens in the execution of his duties. Chapter 2056.
