S. I. R. PRODUCTIONS DOMINATE GOLDEN AWARD NOMINEES

Last Tuesday evening at the P. S. The San Francisco Academy For Performing Arts held its first nominations dinner. The primary purpose of the evening was to announce the nominees for technical awards and for the voting academy to nominate the general categories.

After all was said and done, S. I. R. productions had amassed 48 nominations in 17 of the 29 categories. So, it would appear that S. I. R. might once again carry home the top award for "Best Show" of the year, whether it be "Once Upon A Mattress," "Madness '71" or "Michelle For Christmas At S. I. R." Hopefully this year will bring in new competition with the formation of The City Players and the return of The San Francisco Independent Theatre. For example: Best Actress 1972- Lori Shannon for Wonderful Town, Faye as Mame or Michelle for Hello Dolly. Now that's what I call good clean competition.

In any event, the nominations dinner was indeed a success. The individual efforts put forth by the executive board in their hours of planning and organization were very apparent. The academy should be very proud and honored to have such a group of dedicated people at the helm.

On March 25th the 1971 Golden Awards will become history. What the outcome will be may or may not be predictable.

The following is a partial list of the nominations, noting that all nominations in Group A will be voted on by the academy and Groups B and C by the public the night of the awards.

S. I. R. PRODUCTION, "ONCE UPON A MATTRESS"
MEMOIRS OF A LADY IN WAITING

By Billie

Mack has been writing about the following complaints: I was called to look into the matter personally. While there was no evidence, the situation was more than adequately covered. The specific circumstances were as follows: I was working at the theater when I received a call from Ed Smith, the stage manager. He informed me that there were some concerns regarding the performance earlier that evening. I was then contacted by the director, who requested that I look into the matter further. I met with the director and the stage manager to discuss the concerns and to determine the best course of action. It was decided that I should investigate the situation and report back to the director. I immediately began my investigation and found that there was no evidence of any wrongdoing. I presented the findings to the director, who thanked me for my diligence. It was decided to continue with the performance and to address any concerns in a subsequent meeting. I was satisfied with the outcome and believe that the situation was handled appropriately.
