You've Many Benefits with ARC Membership

What can an association with ARC offer you that other associations can not? Why align yourself with a group whose members are reaching out to the larger community for acceptance and understanding? Why become involved?

The merest fact is, that we are already involved and bound together in the fraternity and ideals of ARC simply because "we are." The support that we lend to ARC can be neither more nor less damaging to reputations than the self-exposure we court by patronizing certain business establishments. Furthermore, the support we lend to ARC will be returned to us with fringe benefits.

Anyone who deviates in any way from the alleged norm can be pigeonholed, categorized, and relegated to secondary citizenship. Either one can wear a mask and go in and out of society at will, while the second produces dishonesty with everyone, including oneself; and must be the only foundation for building lasting friendship and an acceptable image. ARC offers you the opportunity to work, plan, and play under circumstances in which leaks, apologies, and grotesqueries are not necessary. Your own little hiding place and must be the only foundation for building lasting friendship and an acceptable image. ARC offers you the opportunity to work, plan, and play under circumstances in which leaks, apologies, and grotesqueries are not necessary

The first reaction demands complete honesty with everyone, including oneself; while the second produces dishonesty with everyone, including oneself; and must be the only foundation for building lasting friendship and an acceptable image. ARC offers you the opportunity to work, plan, and play under circumstances in which leaks, apologies, and grotesqueries are not necessary.

The fate of ARC, with its contribution to the great human rights movement, must be of vital concern to you since you share in its success or its failure. The advancement towards acceptance and understanding by the larger community is of immeasurable benefit which appears in the last issue of ARC News.

And must be the only foundation for building lasting friendship and an acceptable image. ARC offers you the opportunity to work, plan, and play under circumstances in which leaks, apologies, and grotesqueries are not necessary.

If you feel any personal insult as a result of the article, and more specifically, the phrase in which you were mentioned, we extend you an apology. ARC stands to benefit financially from the event.

If you're interested in finding out what lies beneath it all consider an ARC invitation. Join in the fun, ARC will see the hostess serve bruscus at the door of the event there for $1.50 a brush and include your choice of 35¢ for each drink. The bruscus will cost 15¢ and includes your choice ofNormal or a screwdriver which is 35¢ for each drink. The bruscus will go into ARC's coffers.

The entire day promises to offer an eventful, fun-filled chain. For more information, call the ARC number, 450-0651.
The thought of creativity emerges in man as a desire. It undoubtedly owes its course in nearly all men regardless of talent, ambition, education or privilege. In some, the thought predates, permeates the life of the individual in subtle, evasive disguises. For some, the desire becomes a demand so encompassing it may seem, to that man the possibility of substitute satisfaction... a demand so urgent and undeniable that life itself must be sacrificed in preference to the satisfaction of the goal. The creator in this sense is not a compulsive deviate for the sake of being different, but a man whose very existence cannot gain fruition through any other course than that which demands his total involvement in his personal expansion to his ultimate capacity. This creative man, this man thinking, has made an irreversible decision: he has committed himself to a pursuit which must, if it is to be intimately meaningful, deny the world its privilege of foreknowledge and, in so doing, release his world according to his new, enlightened consciousness of being.

Man thinking must live in perpetual deceit of the manufactured world of his environment. He must know at what odds to society he has positioned himself and practice the art of allaying its fears by causing the slightest of his most provocative eruptions. His first duty is to exist so that he may create, and, finding a means of existence, so that he who will set himself to himself, and consequently, his meaning of creation and the origin of could have been, so that his emotions will spill like blood upon thankless rock. Creative man must grant to himself and be granted by society, the possibility of his early demise; success ever a finger-length beyond realization. Perhaps that parting and incurable light will overwhelm the insatiable dress of time, resolve the crucial issue in man; helpless, lost, and finally, indifferent.

On the Conditions of Creativity

The LC announces its next big porterhouse steak dinner to be held on Monday night December 12th. A platter of french fries, vegetable, rolls, salad, and of course a 1-lb porterhouse steak on the barbecue is all yours for only $2.25. In Defense of Black Power

The term "Black Power," originated by Stokely Carmichael and, more recently, by Malcolm X, has become a progressively dominant slogan of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). The phrase has come to denote the idea that the black man must accept unto himself the re- nounce his claim to white control. The powerless white has negligible effect upon black men so that easy blacks stay away, protecting any interest in con- the black rights movement has, untill now, been dominated by white money, which supports not the direction, and white control. The powerless white has found a parallel to his own e sual role in the very evident de- prehension of the black. Powerful and powerless whites alike have contributed their exhilaration, in quest of control of the black.

But Black Power means the black man must accept unto himself the re- sponsibility of power in his own struggles. Power and personal declaration that he will henceforth and forevermore accept the responsibility of control and that the civil rights movement be- longs to him and involves him completely. He does not then take upon himself this hereto-unknown responsi- bility of power. He has come to r- eect the futile, hopeless feeling of powerlessness on his part and he will meet the power of the white man on e- and not escape from it. He accepts the fact that the black man must have equal, independent, true power and be able to match it in the normal course of events. When he turns with a white power, the civil rights movement will not accomplish its goals and black men will remain second-class citizens. When it comes to violence, however, to realize that homosexuals have by no means been uniformly inae- quate to function as adults. They have not always failed to function. In the last issue of ARC News an article dealing with the topic "Is Homo- sexuality a crime?" an article called earlier with the monthly Viewpoint news- paper. The compilation was origi- nated by Stokely Carmichael, the president. We again use some of the quotations so that more people may be exposed to thinking about these lives. In Dr. Sigfried Freud - The founder of the concept of homosexuality, it is even more noticeable, in not- gradation, it cannot be classified as an illness as long as it is not considered as the sexual function produced by a certain arrest of sexual develop- ment. Many highly respectable indivi- duals of ancient and modern times have been homosexuals. It is a great injustice to persecute homosexuals as a crime, and cruelty, too.

Dr. Harry Benjmain - World Renowned Endocrinologist, N.Y.C.: "If adjust- ment is necessary, it should be made primarily with regard to the position the homosexual occupies in present day society. In order to afford the patient to be treated than the inversion...

... we have not only widespread regression and disintegration of the moral order of our time, but even harrow pubilc laws. I am optimistic regarding the possibilities within the last hundred years from now may be look- ing for some time in the future on laws against witchcraft.

Recent studies on homosexuality can have a wide variety of reasons and mo- tives; particularly they have no one thing to explain his condition. It can hardly be called unnatural, being often a Fortunate condition.

The individual homosexual who is not under the law's jurisdiction, and who does not force his attentions on others, or do anything against society, or under some deep-rooted natural urge will find himself in different cultures. Homosexuality in the same period in other cultures.

Drs. Frank A. Beach - Yale Uni- versity, Dr. Donald James West - M.R., D.Pki.

BOOK REVIEW

I suppose that if one is in the position of being enthralled by a picture of a character, one may go on to begin to like it or become interested in it. The fact is, I really am a series of pictures, with each role being a series of characters, all with different personalities, and a series of episodes, all with different settings. It is all very interesting, but it is also very difficult to follow.

MOVIE REVIEW

The other night for lack of anything else to do, I was perusing the program of my favorite movie theater, Boulevard, and saw a notice that there would be a screening of a film called "The Professionals." I thought it sounded interesting, so I decided to go and see it.

I must say, I was pleasantly surprised. The film was very well done, with a great cast of actors, and a well-written script. The story was engaging, and the characters were well-developed. Overall, I would say it was a very enjoyable experience. I would definitely recommend it to others.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:
I was somewhat disappointed in the ARC Halloween Ball. For one thing, the turnout was not quite what I had expected. Secondly, those who did attend dressed as though they were going to a regular bar instead of a ball. It is discouraging to me, after having to spend many hours and dollars creating a gown, to see people in tee-shirts and levi’s. It ruined the entire atmosphere. Thirdly, the entertainment was a bit let down. Fourthly, The distance I traveled to the ball was quite a bit more than necessary.

I would also like to suggest something more rewarding as prizes than was offered at the ball. Give Sacramentens a real classic ball next Halloween.
