ACTU P— New Yorkers Start to Get Radical

By Tim Mason

The Sixth Months: Latino AIDS Project Grapples with the Epidemic

By the beginning of the year, ACTUP—the AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power—had already been active for nine months. "It's important to know what your peers are doing, and we're doing it," said Michael Savino, a founding member of ACTUP, "because it's important to know what the government is doing, and we're doing it."

But ACTUP has not always been successful. In fact, Savino says, "we're starting to realize that AIDS is not going to be cured in the near future, and we're not going to have a cure for it."

"We want to know what's happening in the world, and we want to know what the government is doing."

"We want to know what's happening in the world, and we want to know what the government is doing."

What to Do with a Pope

Merle Woo Loses a Battle But Continues the War Against UC Berkeley

BY BRANDON HICKS

The only clear fact about Merle Woo's discrimination case against the University of California at Berkeley is that it's going to be a long one. After more than two years of legal charges and counter-charges for years, and after some major victories lately (such as the University's recent agreement to hire more Asian American faculty), the case is finally moving towards a court hearing.

Merle is one of the country's most controversial professors. After being hired by the University, Woo, a former professor of English at Diablo Valley College, quickly became a radical. She has spent the last few years trying to push us back into the mainstream, with her radical views on race, gender, and class.

David A. Harrington, dean of UC Berkeley's Graduate Division, says, "He's hardly suffering — he got quite a bit of money from the university." He adds, "I think it's important for him to be a teacher, and he's very committed to teaching." Woo's reappointment was also the subject of much debate.

The whole case clearly makes Gifford very angry. He adds, "I think it's important for him to be a teacher, and he's very committed to teaching." Woo's reappointment was also the subject of much debate.

The case against Merle Woo has been relatively simple. He was accused of discrimination against Asian American students.

The AFT contract does provide for some protection against discrimination, but it's not automatic. People are "by no means automatic," Harrington says. "We have a very clear understanding of what kind of discrimination is acceptable." Still, despite the successes, gay cable is a fan of the San Francisco Bay Area, and they let three guys in to film it. There's no problem with material.

The only difficulty is perhaps the format of developing an audience? (continued on page 35)

The best laid plans of cable City Network (CWN) and UC Berkeley's Electric City Cable have been thwarted by the lack of a legislative fix. CWN's general manager, Sandy Van, says, "We're taking advantage of the situation because it's working. It's not working for us."

Japanese Lesbian Life

BY RANDY TUFFY

California is one of the world’s leading cultural centers and the birthplace of so many of the ideas that have come to dominate our media and politics. The history of this state is rich and complex, but it is also a story of resistance and hope. This issue of San Francisco magazine explores the city’s growing diversity. It looks at the city’s history through the lens of its cultural and political landscape, and at how these forces have shaped the city over time. From the early days of the gold rush to the present day, San Francisco has been a place where people come together to create something new. Today, it is known for its vibrant arts scene, its progressive politics, and its commitment to social justice.

The Dream House

For 40 percent, the discovery of their lesbian identity came when they were with another woman. “If a man satisfies himself, then that’s the end of it for him,” one woman said. “I don’t mean I’m ready to have sex with a man.”

What emerges is an illuminating portrait of the lives of these people, and what they have in common. The Dream House is their community, and they come together to share their stories and their dreams. The clinic is a place where people can express themselves freely, and where they can find the support they need to pursue their goals. The Dream House is a place where people can find meaning in their lives, and where they can find hope in the face of adversity. And it is a place where people can find love, and where they can find community. The Dream House is a place where people can find a sense of belonging, and where they can find a sense of purpose.

The Dream House draws a diverse and committed community. It is a community that is not being made, and it is not the work of others. It is the work of the people who come together to make it happen. And it is the work of the people who come together to support it. The Dream House is a place where people can express themselves freely, and where they can find the support they need to pursue their goals. The Dream House is a place where people can find meaning in their lives, and where they can find hope in the face of adversity. And it is a place where people can find love, and where they can find community. The Dream House is a place where people can find a sense of belonging, and where they can find a sense of purpose. And it is a place where people can find a sense of meaning, and where they can find a sense of purpose.
Shred Your VISA Card

I urge you to pick up a magazine, open it to the back page, and read the statement below.

Shred Your VISA Card by Kramer, Barbara.

"We are writing to show our outrage about all the money being wasted in programs that are not necessary to the improvement of the lives of gay men and lesbians. Our anger is directed at the Gay Men's Health Crisis, which has been given extensive media coverage and has raised large sums of money on both coasts. We believe that the funds going into this program should be redirected to more meaningful endeavors.

In particular, we believe that the program of providing money to the men who served in the military during World War II has been a complete waste of money. These men have received thousands of dollars each year, and we believe that this money could have been better spent on research into the causes and prevention of AIDS.

We have heard that the Gay Men's Health Crisis is planning to expand its operations to include more programs, and we believe that this is a disservice to the gay community. The funds that are being spent on these programs could be better spent on research into the causes and prevention of AIDS.

We urge you to shred your VISA card and to support programs that have a proven track record of helping gay men and lesbians.

Sincerely yours,

Barbara Kramer

Back of America

I am writing to tell you how inspiring all the stories of people who have come out of the closet are. I am sure that there are many more people who have not yet come out of the closet, and I believe that everyone who has the courage to come out of the closet is a hero.

One of the most inspiring stories is that of a woman who came out of the closet and then went on to become a successful businesswoman. She has been a major source of inspiration for me, and I believe that everyone who has the courage to come out of the closet is a hero.

I am writing to you today to tell you that I believe that everyone who has the courage to come out of the closet is a hero. I am sure that there are many more people who have not yet come out of the closet, and I believe that everyone who has the courage to come out of the closet is a hero.

Your decision to delay the donation opportunity to donate blood during the Emmy Awards in Guerneville, on August 11, 1987, is shocking and dismaying to the millions of people and men and women in this region who have been working to separate sex from gender identity.

We need to show our government and the people of the world that we are strong and united in our commitment to the idea that sex is regulated by biology alone.

We have heard on our closed line all these times, "They'll just come down to

The blood bank's responsibilities to the community include providing safe and effective blood samples to the public.

Harmonic Diversion

Are we enlightened yet? I've been working for a long time to get to the point where I can actually think. But the more I learn, the more I realize that there is a lot more to learn. I've been reading a lot about spirituality and consciousness and the importance of being true to oneself. I've also been reading about the importance of being present in the moment, of not being stuck in the past or future. I've been trying to apply these concepts to my life, and I'm finding that it's not as easy as it seems. But I'm grateful for the opportunity to learn and grow.

As usual, the truth lies somewhere in between.

One of the drawbacks of writing for a month—court is that you get to keep up on the latest conversations, but the advantage is that you get to see the progress that's been made. I've been impressed with the way that the conversation has evolved, and I've been happy to see that the topics are becoming more relevant and important.

I've heard enough metaphysical garbage to last a lifetime. But I'm grateful for the opportunity to learn and grow. I've been trying to apply these concepts to my life, and I'm finding that it's not as easy as it seems. But I'm grateful for the opportunity to learn and grow.

think you can handle? We are obviously in a milestone. Not a major event, but a significant one.

You're living with your lover — well, if you're living with your lover — what are you going to do? You may have trouble figuring out what's going on, but if you're living with your lover, you can be flattered and pleased that you asked them, so you're living with your lover.

Cancer: Little, nasty problems at work can drive you nuts. You may have trouble figuring out what's going on, but if you're living with your lover, you can be flattered and pleased that you asked them, so you're living with your lover.

Capricorn: Self-criticism and high standards should be reserved for others. You want to be a little more careful of your money. You may have trouble figuring out what's going on, but if you're living with your lover, you can be flattered and pleased that you asked them, so you're living with your lover.

Libra: Of course. In general, Libras are happy to help others. But you may have trouble figuring out what's going on, but if you're living with your lover, you can be flattered and pleased that you asked them, so you're living with your lover.

Sagittarius: You're not motivated to be a little more careful of your money. You may have trouble figuring out what's going on, but if you're living with your lover, you can be flattered and pleased that you asked them, so you're living with your lover.

I'm thinking of having a baby... Should I take the AIDS Antibody Test?

Before you decide, ask yourself these questions:

1. Have I had sex with anyone who used I.V. drugs?
2. Have I used I.V. drugs?
3. Have I had sex with a gay or bisexual man?
4. Have I had sex with a person whose needle use or sexual past is unknown to me?
5. Have I had a blood transfusion between 1975 and 1985?

If you answer "YES" to any of these questions, you and your baby might be at risk for AIDS.

Get the Facts. Then Decide.

The Vocal Minority

Wherever you turn, you can count on things. A beautiful brand of vocals, arrangements and arrangements. Under the direction of Bill Greer, the group is made up of male and female performers, each branching out in his or her own style. The group has managed to keep its sound fresh and exciting, with a repertoire that includes sounds of the '70s, '80s, and today.

The Vocal Minority is the brainchild of Bill Greer, who has been involved in music for over 20 years. He started working with various bands and vocal groups, but eventually formed his own outfit in 1982.

The group consists of five vocalists and a keyboardist, who are responsible for the group's sound and style. The keyboardist is accompanied by various instruments, including drums, bass, and guitar. The group's sound is characterized by its vibrant, energetic, and soulful style.

The Vocal Minority has performed at various venues around the country, including festivals, concerts, and private events. They have also been featured on 全国各地，包括各种演出场地，如节庆、音乐会
和私人活动。他们还曾在国内外的活动中
亮相并受到欢迎。
It's Fascination

Reviewed by Gene Price

Joseph Tatro, in association with John Kime, presents Tatro's "Fascination," which is aptly named. Set in a dance studio, it could be a music video, a dance recital, or a Rogers and Hammerstein musical, all at once. The dance sequences are beautifully executed, with the actors moving in a fluid and graceful manner. The costumes are colorful and add to the overall aesthetic of the production. The story follows the lives of several characters who are all involved in the world of dance, whether as performers, choreographers, or dancers. The music is upbeat and ery catchy, with the audience singing along to the songs. Overall, "Fascination" is a show that should not be missed by anyone who loves dance, music, or a good story.

For Love

Reviewed by Gene Price

The play "For Love" is a heartwarming and感人动人的 story about two people who are brought together by chance. The characters are well-developed and the dialogue is natural and believable, making it easy to become invested in their journey. The setting is a pleasant and intimate small town, which adds to the overall atmosphere of the play. The acting is excellent, with each actor bringing their best to their roles. The production design is simple yet effective, with the set design being minimalistic yet functional. Overall, "For Love" is a must-see play for anyone who loves a good love story.

Einstein, The Man Behind the Genius

Reviewed by Gene Price

The play "Einstein: The Man Behind the Genius" is a retelling of Albert Einstein's life and work. The play is performed by the actor Scott Johnson, who brings Einstein to life in a way that is both convincing and entertaining. The script is well-written, with the dialogue being both informative and engaging. The acting is excellent, with Johnson perfectly capturing Einstein's mannerisms and speech patterns. The production design is simple yet effective, with the set design being minimalistic yet functional. Overall, "Einstein: The Man Behind the Genius" is a must-see play for anyone who loves a good science and history-themed play.
who transformed into a number of personas. The play also had a strong sense of irony and a healthy dose of high-level humor. Paul Codiga's games include: arm wrestling and canasta, etc.

David Mamet's 1973 character-study drama, American Buffalo, is set in Chicago in the dog-eat-dog world of American commerce. The play takes place in three parts, each focusing on a different aspect of the Buffalo, a tribal-like organization of young men who make a living by stealing and selling the works of other artists. The play's opening scene is set in a dingy, dingy, a grimy-windowed skeleton of its former self. Led's set, too claustrophobic for a skating rink, has been assembled down to the last detail. The dingy Bull) out of the three-way deal with the dingo and the devil, is poised to make the biggest score of his career. Most of my life I've been very, very angry. And I think that most women of color are very, very angry. Most lesbians are very, very angry. One of the dangers of anger is that it turns inward. We, women of color, are using anger against each other, instead of saying, okay, these are the forces that oppose us, these are the enemy. Let's direct our anger there and not on ourselves.

It's very hot! Women of color feel that there are white women that expect us. White women are ripping off the images of Third World women, they are ripping off our spirituality, our artistry, our going to the ground. I say that women of color we won't be so stupid.

You're very, very angry. That's the thing. I'm very, very, very, very, very angry.

Many women of color have never seen white women until I went to graduate school. So I could take them for what they were. I had no sense of racism before. I had no sense of the culture. But, I can't be any other way.

Yes, you are. You're very accessible. That's the thing. I'm very, very, very, very, very, very angry. Yes, you are.

I keep thinking about your work.

Yes, you are. You're very accessible. That's the thing. I'm very, very, very, very, very, very angry.
