NO on 6/Briggs, Campaign is Coming Alive....

DEMOCRATIC PARTY GAY CAUCUS & REPUBLICAN PARTY GAY TASK FORCE PULLING TO DEFEAT PROPOSITION 6/BRIGGS!

As the summer months wane, elements of the gay movement which have been at one another’s throats, so to speak, are falling by the wayside with their political rhetoric and Marxist philosophies, and while they are fading, the established gay Republican Clubs are getting it together to fight Proposition 6, the Briggs anti-gay teacher legislation on the November ballot. The Lincoln Republican Club of Los Angeles County and the Teddy Roosevelt Republican Clubs of San Francisco and San Diego have agreed to fight Prop 6 united.

On the Democratic Party side, the gay caucus of the Party met in Los Angeles recently, under the leadership of Gary Parker and Elmer Wilhelm and came up with a battle plan, using the Democratic Party to help fight the Prop 6 forces. And emerging statewide, as the only viable group to combat Prop 6 and Briggs, is the Concerned Voters of California, headed up by the Rev. Troy Perry of Los Angeles. CVC as it is called, has now been endorsed by the Teddy Roosevelt Republican Club of San Francisco and it’s president, the Rev. Ray Broshears who said, “This is the only viable group to combat on a statewide basis, Prop. 6. The hiring of Don Bradley was a smart move, and with Troy Perry and Don Bradley leading the battle against Prop 6, I know we shall defeat Prop. 6 in November. In the past I felt we had no chance, but the CVC has proven itself.”

On August 27th in San Francisco, there will be a “March 6, Against 6” to raise $10,000 headed up by Kimo and Empress Char, with the proceeds going to CVC, according to Kimo and Char. Unite behind CVC is right!

HARTFORD PASSES GAY LAW

The City of Hartford Connecticut on July 25th passed a gay rights law in the area of employment and housing. This is the first city outside of San Francisco to pass such a law, since the Anita Bryant anti-gay hysteria began over a year ago. This shows that there is hope to defeat Prop 6 and John Briggs.

TAINTED BUTTERFLIES

"Tainted Butterflies" at the San Francisco Rep, was reminiscent of the story of "The Little Foxes" with the same atmosphere of corruption and greed.

The lack of believable characters and the overdone acting by the cast made the play a disappointment.

The acting was weak and the dialogue was unconvincing.

The production design was lacking and the lighting was poor.

The play was a failure and I would not recommend it to anyone.

COMMENTARY: In the last issue we explored how they have affected the gay rights movement. Now, with this issue, we shall focus on the recent developments in the political climate regarding gay rights. The Supreme Court recently ruled in favor of a gay rights supporter, thus reinforcing the ongoing debate on gay rights. The movement continues to grow, with more states and cities passing anti-discrimination laws.

CONCLUSION

The Christian Right sees the same threats today as they did in the 1950s. However, today, they see the threat as coming from the gay community, instead of the communist community. The Christian Right believes that the gay community is a threat to traditional values and morals. They believe that the gay community is spreading values that are contrary to the Christian faith.

The Christian Right has been successful in passing anti-gay laws in many states and cities. They have been able to pass laws that ban gay marriage, gay adoption, and gay rights in the workplace. They have also been able to pass laws that ban gay students from attending certain schools and events.

The Christian Right is also successful in getting their message out. They use television, radio, and the internet to spread their message. They also use political action committees to influence laws and policies that affect gay rights.

The Christian Right is a powerful force in American politics. They are able to influence laws and policies that affect gay rights. They are also able to influence the direction of the Republican Party.

The Christian Right is a force to be reckoned with. They are determined to keep the gay community from changing the course of American society. They are willing to use any means necessary to achieve their goals. They are a threat to the gay community. They are a threat to American democracy.

The 1978 Tenderloin Streetwalkers and Hookers Ball was held at the Tenderloin Arts and Culture Center in San Francisco. It was one of those events where everyone came to an anonymous celebration. The atmosphere was electric. The music was provided by DJ Mark Adcock, who has to be the best DJ in all of California. The night was filled with dance and fun, but also some serious business. The organizers were working hard to raise money for their cause. They were trying to bring attention to the plight of the streetwalkers and to fight for their rights. The evening was a success, and the organizers were happy with the turnout. They wanted to make sure that everyone had a good time, and they did. The event was a great success, and the organizers were happy with the outcome.
ALICE FAYE -...belongs absolutely to the 1920s, the start of what we now call the "talkie" period of movie-making. In those days, one could put her in some of the grandest of settings and she would become part of the background, her voice and the music would blend into the scene and become part of the environment.

Shirley Temple was a bit younger, and although she had a wonderful singing voice, her head was on a bit more of a pedestal. She was a child star, a personification of innocence and purity.

Faye had a much more mature voice, one that could blend with the orchestra and the other actors on stage. She was a part of the music, not separate from it. She was also very much a part of the film's story, each scene and moment was a part of her character's journey.

When I have seen her perform live, I have been struck by her ability to control her voice so that it fits perfectly into the scene. She is a master at blending her singing voice with the orchestra and the other actors. Her voice is a part of the story, not separate from it. She is a true talent, a true performer.
