WELL, IF SAN FRANCISCO DOESNT GET CAYER BY THE NIGHTS!!!!!

Happy Virgo Birthdays to: Patsy, you at 'The City' soon? Huh, Tom?

What's this I hear about "Tequila San Francisco" publican on the Avila entertaining (if you will) a Mexican surgeon who specializes in tiles. If this event extremely entertaining even if you're not into the healing arts.

"THE CROSSATTACHMENTS is now up in 6050 country and something put up to be going good on Ellis Street. The "Voodoo" for the kids' attendance at the "LEFT CHEESE" is expected to bring in a new fleet from Cali Studios called "Donny" a new one from the "Guitar" and some from this one called "Hector" doesn't make you feel so bad!"

Sorry to see Ken Rice and Harry (our new office manager) didn't make it. And as for the new office manager, Chuck L., well, you can surmise to yourself!

IF YOUHAVEN'T BEEN A GUEST at the "Cheese", you've missed. And as for the new office manager, Chuck L., well, you can surmise to yourself!

Hector Navarro's "Thanks for the Ride" is expected to be a straight discotheque, with lots of regular hot shots (and maybe a few regular "Candies"). Check it out, will ya?

by Allen Paley

The San Francisco Symphony has not presented its own Miss America Pageant in 20 years. This year, the orchestra will celebrate the occasion with a concert featuring Miss America contestants. The event, called "Miss America Salute," will take place on June 29 at the War Memorial Opera House. The program will include music associated with the pageant, as well as works by composers such as Richard Strauss and Tchaikovsky. The concert will be conducted by Maestro Michael Morgan, who is well known for his energetic and engaging performances. The orchestra will be joined by Miss America contestant Maria O'Brien, who will perform a aria from a past pageant. The concert is part of the Symphony's ongoing series of "Musical America" concerts, which showcase the talents of artists from around the world. Tickets are available online or at the Symphony's box office. For more information, visit www.sfsymphony.org.

Last week he told me that someone he knew told him April was the best month to have sex. When I asked him why, he said that he had listened to a radio show where they discussed the reasons for choosing a particular month. They said that April is the best month because the weather is warm and it's easy to outdoor activities like picnics and walking, which can enhance intimacy.

I mentioned that I was concerned about the idea of choosing a specific month for sex, but he assured me that it's just a fun idea and doesn't actually mean anything. He also said that he prefers to focus on the present moment and not worry about the future.

Should I consider this idea, or should I stick to our usual pattern of having sex whenever we feel like it? I've had mixed feelings about the idea of choosing a specific month for sex, but I'm not sure what to do.

Dear Pat,

Last April, I impulsively broke up with my boyfriend after two years of a relationship. I was feeling unfulfilled, and I thought we weren't as compatible as we once were. The breakup was difficult for both of us, and we didn't see each other for a while.

Since then, we have reconnected and are now dating again. I feel much better in this relationship, and I think it's going well. However, I'm still not entirely sure if we're meant to be together.

I want to know if there's a way to tell if a relationship is doomed from the start. I don't want to waste any more time on someone who isn't right for me. What should I do?

I'm also confused about the idea of short affairs and liaisons with various men who are great in bed. I don't know if this is a good idea or not.

Should I give our relationship a chance, or should I end it? I'm not sure what to do.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Is one of the authors of the chest, we have gone into those exercises that enhance the size of the chest box and make them bigger. It is essential to do exercises that specifically target the chest muscles. The pectorals are the main muscles that make up the chest. They are responsible for movements like pushing and pulling. The chest is a large muscle group, and it is essential to train them effectively. One effective way to train the chest is by doing bench presses. This exercise helps to work the chest muscles and the triceps. In our discussions of the chest, we have some incline benches. These are great for targeting the upper chest. Another effective exercise for the chest is the incline bench press.

On the other hand, the lats are a large muscle group that are responsible for pulling movements. They are located along the sides of the back. The lats are a key muscle for movement like pulling. One effective way to train the lats is by doing pull-ups. This exercise helps to work the lats and the biceps. In our discussions of the lats, we have some pull-up bars. These are great for targeting the lats.
