THOMAS MARSHALL OF OPINION POLLS
recently did a survey for London's Gav News. The survey was done with a random sample of 1,930 adults throughout England, Scotland and Wales. Here are some of the results.

Forty-five percent of the respondents felt that homosexuals should be prohibited from practicing certain professions, e.g. teaching or medicine. Only 30% disagreed.

Forty percent of the respondents agreed that gay people should be able to live together openly; 31% disagreed.

Fifty percent of the respondents disapproved of gay marriages with only 16% accepting them.

WHAT DOES AMERICA THINK?

The 90 minute NBC Special "What America Thinks", aired January 4, broadcast the results of a nation-wide opinion sample of 2,800 people.

One of the questions asked if the respondent would object if their child were assigned to a homosexual teacher.
Forty percent said they would not object. Forty-eight percent said they would.

In 1970, a similar poll, conducted by the Institute for Sex Research, asked whether homosexual men should be allowed to be school teachers. At that time 77% responded no, while only 23% responded yes.

FIND YOUR WAY HOME (no pun intended). In San Francisco, HOME (Showcase Theatre, Geary and Mason, S. F.,) comes to us by way of Los Angeles. The show is directed and written by Tom Rust and produced by Margery and David Moriaty, who also have been working to bring the play to audiences in other cities. The play, a piece about the gay community, is a sequel to a previous Off-Broadway production, "The Rocky Horror Show," which was praised for its controversial and political content.

In San Francisco, the production is being presented at the Montgomery Playhouse, and the cast includes a number of well-known actors and actresses from the original Off-Broadway production. The show features a variety of performances, including a drag act and a number of musical numbers. The play is presented in a vaudeville-style format, with different acts separated by commercial breaks.

According to the reviews, the show is a hit with the local audience, with many people expressing their support for the show and its message. The Montgomery Playhouse was also praised for its production, with some reviewers saying that it was the best production of the show they had seen.

The show is scheduled to run for a limited time in San Francisco, and tickets can be purchased at the Montgomery Playhouse box office. For more information, visit the Montgomery Playhouse website or call the box office directly.

The Rocky Horror Show

The Rocky Horror Show is a musical, originally presented in London as an English adaptation of the Czech film "Ochrida," which was released in 1974. The show was written and directed by Richard O'Brien and stars Tim Curry as Dr. Frank-N-Furter, a mad scientist who creates a young man named Brad and his friend Janet (played by Susan Sarandon and Barry Bostwick, respectively).

The show is set in a small town in the 1920s and follows Brad and Janet, who are on their way to a prom, as they are interrupted by Dr. Frank-N-Furter and his strange crew of Creatures of Frank-N-Furter's Laboratory. The show features a number of songs and dance numbers, including "Sweet Transvestite," "Time Warp," and "Heaven Can Wait."

The show has been a cult classic since its premiere and has been performed all over the world in various productions. The show's music and themes have become synonymous with the counterculture movement and have inspired a number of spin-offs, including a film adaptation and a stage musical.

The Rocky Horror Show is a hit with audiences, and the show's clever use of music and humor have made it a beloved production. The Montgomery Playhouse production is expected to be a hit with the local audience, and tickets are available for purchase at the Montgomery Playhouse box office.
WORDS ON MUSIC

by Alen Peirce

The San Francisco Symphony, under the direction of Seiji Ozawa, are performing at the War Memorial Opera House on Saturday, January 24 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, January 25 at 4 p.m. The program will feature Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, which is known as the "Eroica" Symphony. The program will also include a performance of Copland's "Fanfare for the Common Man" and a new arrangement of "Le Chasseur Maudit" by Frédéric Chopin.

The program is scheduled to begin with Copland's "Fanfare for the Common Man," composed in 1942. This piece features a powerful brass fanfare that sets the stage for the rest of the program. The orchestration is quite complex, with a variety of percussion instruments added to the traditional symphonic orchestra.

The second movement of Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, known as the "Eroica," is a powerful and emotional piece. The orchestra will be led by Seiji Ozawa, who is known for his dynamic and powerful conducting style.

The program concludes with a new arrangement of "Le Chasseur Maudit" by Frédéric Chopin. This piece was originally composed for piano, but has been arranged for symphony orchestra. The music is quite challenging, with rapid passages and intricate counterpoint.

Overall, the program is sure to be a highlight of the San Francisco Symphony season, with a mix of classic and modern compositions. The performance will be sure to impress audiences with its technical proficiency and emotional depth.

San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, War Memorial Opera House, Van Ness Avenue at Grove Street, San Francisco. Friday, January 23 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, January 25 at 4 p.m. Tickets are available at the box office or through the San Francisco Symphony's website.
