Julie Harris & Julius Caesar.
Superstars, gullible Wonders

M.T. Schmitz

We have in California here to describe the way to make our country the battle for Equal Rights, for many, many, many years. Now, we've had to go through a number of terrible events and trials. In each case, we've had to let go, let go, let go, and let go, until we get to the point where we can do something. It's been a long road to be sure, but we have made progress.

The battle for Equal Rights, for many, many, many years, has been a difficult one. It has been fought by many brave and dedicated people, who have fought for what is right. We have seen many victories along the way, and we have also seen many setbacks. But we have never given up.

The battle for Equal Rights is not over yet. There is still much work to be done. But we are determined to see it through to the end. We will not give up, until we have achieved our goal.

Thank you for your support. Together, we can make a difference.
with Dan Turner

Julius Caesar

ACT I

[Scene: Rome. A street. A day.]

[Enter Brutus and Cassius.]

Brutus: [To Cassius] We are at the crossroads. We must choose between Caesar and Brutus. Caesar has been the leader of Rome and he is beloved by the people. But Brutus is the champion of the common man. Which side will you take?

Cassius: [Shakes his head] I do not know. I cannot decide. Both are powerful and both have their followers. I am afraid to make a choice.

Brutus: [Takes Cassius by the arm] Come, let us talk this over. We must decide soon. The people are waiting for us.

Cassius: [Nods] I agree. I will try to make up my mind.

[Exeunt.]

ACT II

[Scene: The Senate. A day.]

[Enter Cassius and Brutus.]

Cassius: [To Brutus] I have decided. I will join the conspiracy against Caesar. I believe that he is a tyrant and that he must be stopped.

Brutus: [Shakes his head] I do not agree. I still think that Caesar has done many good things for Rome.

Cassius: [Sighs] I know, but our duty is to the people. We must do what is right, even if it is difficult.

Brutus: [Nods] I understand. I will join the conspiracy.

[Exeunt.]

---

Cowboy Mouth

[Scene: A cowboy shop. A day.]

[Enter Cowboy Mouth.]

Cowboy Mouth: [Singing] I'm a cowboy mouth, I sing the blues. I ride the range and sing the night away. I'm the cowboy mouth, I sing the blues.

[End of conversation.]

DARHLINGS

By itself, one might think that the Haight-Ashbury District of San Francisco is over, that the era of the counterculture has ended, that the spirit of the Sixties is gone forever. But if one were to take a look at the Haight today, one would see that the spirit of the Sixties is still alive and well.

The Haight is a place where people from all walks of life can come together and express themselves freely. It is a place where people can be who they want to be, without fear of judgment or discrimination.

The Haight is also a place of great beauty. The mountains, the ocean, the gardens, the parks, all contribute to the overall atmosphere of the Haight.

In short, the Haight is a special place, and it deserves to be preserved.

JUMPING AROUND TOWN

What with the SEATTLE ARTS FESTIVAL and the first CAT WALK show, it's been a great week for the fashionista. And I'm not just talking about the clothes. I'm talking about the people who Design and create them.

The catwalk show was put on by the Seattle Art Museum and featured some of the city's top designers. The models were dressed in everything from jeans and T-shirts to flowing gowns and elegant suits.

The audience was amazed by the creativity and talent on display. It was a great event, and I'm sure it will be remembered for years to come.

The mystery & the man.

MIKE KRAWCZUK

The Lakers were the mystery bar of San Francisco. While only in the infancy stage, it became the talk of the town. It was a happening place and itskommen was here to stay. The management did an outstanding job of keeping the place open late at night, and its social acceptance was a positive feature.

Like most gay bars, it was located in the Tenderloin area. The management had purchased the building and its purpose was to serve as a social center for the gay community. With opening pressures focused initially on the financial aspect, the management had the foresight to put together a tenant list that would be beneficial to the gay community.

In February, the bar's management decided to close. The liquor license was purchased by someone who was interested in opening a restaurant at the location. The management was concerned that the tenant list would be closed and that the building would be used for a different purpose. The management was determined to keep the business open and to keep the bar in the gay community.

The building was ready to be sold and the management was considering the possibility of selling it to a new owner. However, the management was determined to keep the bar open and to keep the building as a social center for the gay community.

Actually, the building was the site of the first bar in San Francisco. It was a small bar, but it was always popular and had a good reputation. The management was determined to keep the bar open and to keep the building as a social center for the gay community.

night at the Opera

DAS RHEINGOLD

Wagner's opera, Das Rheingold is beautifully reimagined in the San Francisco Opera production directed by Ghita Hager. The cast is led by Brian Asawa as Alberich, the god of the Nibelung, bringing depth and nuance to the role. Leontyne Price is a standout as Siegfried, his appearance dramatic and mesmerizing. The total effect of this opera is remarkable, performed without an interval. The music, the staging, and the lighting complement each other. This time - with laughing voices. They appear, glamorous and regal before the eyes - like the gods, they are various and sometimes as though real. They are with singing voices. They appear, glamorous and regal before the eyes - like the gods, they are various and sometimes as though real. They are with singing voices.

ARIADNE AUF NAXOS

Leontyne Price is humorous in this sophisticated opera by Richard Strauss. She questions. Dressed in an outrageous black wig and dark, tight-fitting dress, she makes a show of singing. The Prima Donna transforms herself into a toad and is teased and ridiculed by them. This is done with evocative lighting and sounds. As the classic Ariadne, Leontyne Price becomes passionate - down on the floor with interesting deep earth, air, and water elements. This opera makes for interesting contrast between the light and dark, the serious and the comic, the rich and the simple. Price gives us the sparkling, it is an evening of worship.

Weinberg backs Gay teachers.

New York City, NY— As the nation's highest court in the matter of gay rights announced its decision, Dr. Jack Weinberg, New York City's Medical Examiner, came out in support of Gay teachers. Weinberg's support follows the decision of the court to allow for the first time a Gay teacher to teach in the public schools.

Weinberg, who is also a member of the New York City Gay Community Center, said: "The court's decision is a major victory for Gay teachers and for all those who believe in equal rights for all people."
