Dear Readers:

Merry Christmas, everyone and I hope you all have a wonderful New Year. Remember, although limited to physical gatherings, due to the ongoing pandemic, the spirit of celebration and joy has not diminished. The local holiday festivities, much like the global pandemic, continue to adapt and evolve, and there will be various ways to celebrate and support the community.

In San Francisco, the Christmas Eve Dinner at the Unity Center continues to be a beloved tradition. Organisations and individuals who have helped to make this year's People's Fund Christmas possible have been acknowledged and thanked for their efforts. The unity of the community is evident in such events, and it is heartening to see how the spirit of giving and receiving persists even in challenging times.

The use of Poinsettias in the Christmas decorations this year was a notable choice, adding a touch of warmth and cheer to the celebration. The decorations, combined with the wonderful creations of the city's talented backstage crew, contribute to the festive atmosphere.

Events like the Headdress Show are a testament to the creativity and resourcefulness of the community. The sets, costumes, and orchestra are elaborate and popular, providing entertainment and a trip to another world.

As we move towards the New Year, I encourage you to continue to support local businesses and organisations. The holiday season can be a time of giving, and we should remember to thank those who help make these events possible. My best wishes for a happy and healthy 2022.

Mon 26
He sprang to the door (who was really a dear).

And what to my wondering eyes

He said not a word but used gently to work

To fill all the stockings with presents nice.

He put a Joint and a lavender rose.

His work he finished in the twinkling

Of an eye.

I knew our pusher was a real kind of

Gentleman.

His eyes so glistening, his smile so merry

Into each stocking and panty hose

He filled all the stockings

But went gaily to work

To get ready for his trip

The young men were hung.

And all wine there

If they weren't hung, God knows

We thought someone was busy rolling

He said not a word

He Jumped in his car but leaned out

We knew the boys.

Then I heard his exclaim as he swished

The fairies.

I knew our pusher was a real kind of

Gentleman.

His eyes so glistening, his smile so merry

Into each stocking and panty hose

He filled all the stockings

But went gaily to work

To get ready for his trip

The young men were hung.

Then I heard his exclaim as he swished

He was gone out the door before I

Tore down his whiskers, sharpened his razor

To get down to the clinic by the dawn's

Dawning light.

To watch the boys, and, as we used to say,

Having survived Thanksgiving at Grandma's, and after only two weeks of daily visits to your mother, you are limply facing the most deadly of all holidays, Christmas. 'Tis the season daring which people who have openly snubbed your Christmast cards from relatives you arrived at work on time for the past eleven months suddenly not only remember but mention your name and address and "how won't you have made out your Christmas list yet?" Being the diligent soul that you are, you have bought the cards, nor addressed them, soothed fruitcake (the smell of which was buy the cards, nor addressed them, soothed fruitcake (the smell of which hate him too.
