In another of its continuing attacks on the lesbian and gay community, Adolph Coors Company specifically excluded same-sex couples from entering the Coors Country Run on Valentine's Day in Portland, Oregon.

The race was held to benefit the American Heart Association.

Catherine Crooker, Special Events Coordinator for the American Heart Association explained that the event's entire design and promotion was prepared by the sponsoring firm, Coors.

"As the votes were tallied on election night, showing Pelosi with an early lead, Britt sounded a conciliatory note, saying, "It was a strong campaign, but at this point it's time for us all to get back together." Pelosi had avoided the use of hit pieces and the type of negative campaigning used by her opponents, four of whom were S.F. Supervisors.

But, according to the San Jose Mercury News, when the results were lagging behind her in the polls, she could not resist quipping, "Obviously, for voters, to know them is not to love them."

Pelosi Goes To Washington

San Francisco — Nancy Pelosi, former chair of the California Democratic Party, left openly gay Supervisor Harry Britt trailing by 4,045 votes in the closely fought race for a San Francisco Congressional seat vacant by the death of Rep. Sala Burton.

With 98% of the vote in, 36 percent, Pelosi came out almost four percentage points ahead of Britt, with 3,501 votes, or 32.2 percent.

Kevin Wadsworth, a gay Republican activist, took 1,710 votes, less than 1 percent, in the world-famous "Gay Mecca.""Kevin gathering that his opponent was "a perfectly nice woman who has no business running for Congress."

Britt supporters at the Mar. 29 fundraiser co-sponsored by BAYTEC and High Tech Donors donated $3500 to her campaign.

NGRA opposes anti-gay Insurance Discrimination in Texas

National Gay Rights Advocates has filed a discrimination complaint because the insurance companies are refusing to provide insurance coverage to a Texas gay couple. The insurer, National Home Life Assurance Company, is claiming that the gay couple are involved in a "same-gender" romance as their own life insurance policy. The insurer claims that this is a "reasonable" reason for refusing to issue the policy.

The National Gay Rights Advocates (NGRA) is a national public interest law firm, and the San Francisco chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union of California is involved in the case. The case is called "In re Doe," a major AIDS-related case, and is disposed of under the Texas Family Code rights as a gay couple.

The NGRA has filed the complaint against the National Home Life Assurance Company, represented by Ms. Bobbee H. Ewbank. The complaint is for the discrimination against a gay couple, the Doe's, who are attempting to purchase a $100,000 family life insurance policy for their lives. The NGRA contends that the insurer's refusal to issue the policy is based on the couple's sexual orientation and is a violation of their civil rights.

AIDS Education Public Program

Shanit Project moves to new facilities

AIDS Education Public Program

Shanit Project, a non-profit organization which provides education and training to the public about AIDS and their loved ones is moving to San Francisco. The new telephone number is 777-CARE.

"In the first days of the Shanit Project," states Kendall Reid, Finance Director for Shanit Project, "we had to expand with the existing facility, while at the same time keeping our overhead costs to a minimum." Shanit Project reports that after nine months of insurance coverage for a space and five months of renovation on this space, that Shanit Project ended up with 16 rooms built to their specifications, all included, for the above half the going market rate for the space.

"The mission of Shanit Project is to guarantee all persons living with AIDS access to information and resources they may need to think that they are immunologically normal, which can harm them," says Reid. "We want not only to have a facility where people can talk about issues, but to have a place with a lot of details on the past and present troubles they've had.

The current facility at Shanit Project is utilizing our young people as what work best with us, and we're consulting with other people that work best with the young people who come to us. We can do that, but Shanit Project has been funded under the National March on Washington contact number by the City of San Francisco's Department of Health and Human Services, which supports our youth programs. We are now open to children and youth programs in such a way to draw attention to the affects of AIDS and their loved ones, families and friends. We'll be able to provide games, shopping, cooking, etc. for our clients. Other programs operated by Shanit Project include a long-term care program for children, a day program for adults with AIDS, and a Community Resources Program for people with AIDS, as well as a Project for People with AIDS, Children's Project and the Educational Support Program which utilizes volunteers to assist in the needs of other projects.

Volunteers are needed by both programs to continue or to start new programs. Anyone interested in volunteering to perform other Educational or Practical Support should contact Shanit Project at 777-CARE.

Ma Rainey's Black Bottom at ACT

by Rick-body

August Wilson's 1982 award-winning drama opened in the repertory calendar of the theater this week. It is an absorbing comedy/drama about the Black struggle for masculinity in the 1930's. It is the story of a Black woman who becomes a recording artist at the peak of her career, but the contract with Paramount Records is rescinded. The play is set in the recording studio, and the recording artist, holding down a job in the bandroom while recording her songs, is an uplifting celebration of the Black woman's spirit.

Gay Actor Saluted on KQED

Church Scolamie, Coming of Age: A Freshman's Guide to the Coming of Age, with photograph by LeRoy Rusk. This rich, atmospheric film is an absorbing and provocative portrayal of the lives of literary lioness Gertrude Stein (Linda Basses) and her lifelong companion, the socialite Alice B. Toklas (Linda Hunt). The movie is an insightful and honest look at the life of a gay man and his career in the theater."

Golden Gate Bridge
It's weird, just realized. A Tenderloin afternoon with nothing confirmed. May 26th has disappeared.

In 1937, 200,000 people walked across the Golden Gate Bridge to celebrate its completion. Besides being a masterful engineering achievement, the Golden Gate was an artistic achievement.

A bay area resident for over 10 years, I have always been fascinated with the bridge, and only see it by the bay. With that said, was going to be my day. I was going to be a part of history, in 20 years. I could even do it again and tell my brothers grandchildren about the bridge, which of course would make me the "Majestic Bridge Man from Arizona."

Oh what a day it would have been! Walking across one of the most beautiful bridges into one of the most beautiful cities in the world, then as the fog rises in the morning, I would see. Our very own, Huey Lewis and the News would rock the city down. The Grateful Dead would remind us how San Francisco was a place where the music and the magic worked. And, then night would fall and spectacular fireworks display, the bridge would be lit for all to see.
