S.F. Sponsors Embrace First Wave of Cuban Gays

by Chris Kerby

Star gay Cuban refugees have their arrival in the San Francisco bay area, as part of the two planeloads of refugees have thus shown how to receive these very first arrivals. The introductions took place in the upstairs gym of the MCC, where the sponsors and program volunteers had been continuously busied with the arrival of the MCC staff to perform the job.

When the refugees arrived in the San Francisco area, they were introduced to their sponsors, who each had been assigned to the sponsored.

Events are planned to assist the refugees in finding their way around San Francisco's gay community, which has a rich history and a vibrant culture. The refugees will be introduced to their sponsors by the San Francisco AIDS Project, which has served as a liaison between the sponsors and the refugees. The project is working on a comprehensive plan to assist the refugees in finding their way around the city.

We have a lot to lose on August 19th.

Four years ago, we won the right to elect Supervisors by district.

District elections gave us our first gay Supervisor—Harvey Milk—and more women Supervisors than in the entire previous history of the City. Finally, City Hall started to listen to the ideas and concerns of the people, and there weren't so many "us" around.

Fair was a prime example of what was wrong with the present way of electing Supervisors. A city-wide Board would never have been able to do the job. District elections give us representation."

We have a lot to lose on August 19th. To win, we all must vote... and vote NO on A!"

After the studio cut: "Just like Kael, I'm a hot critic. Sometimes I can be a bit tough, but I always have a good time with my films."

Who are you going to see in the next

DESCRIPTION TO KILL
Written and directed by Brian De Palma

A minor gangster is sent to a year in Sing Sing, from which he is released 3 years later to find his missus in the arms of his former "buddy," so he hires a private investigator to get him out of the picture. But, as De Palma's films do, this one evolves into something else.

The Special Edition takes us inside, as it is a re-encounter. The additional material (including a pillow fight and a scene with Jack Webb) is sufficient to make this one worth owning.

In his review of this film, Pauline Kael describes Brian De Palma as "the most American of auteurs." The idea of a transsexual is out of his depth in this one: not only is the role not well written, but it is not well played. John Cassavetes could have played it, or even (as in the film But De Palma is not that good a director, so the performance is not up to the standards he has set for himself.

De Palma is a "director's film," with all the skill of a director who wants to make a film that will have impact on the audience. But he allows the audience to feel that the film is not quite complete, and that it is not quite good enough. The audience is left to wonder why the film did not work as well as it could have.

In summary, this is a film that is worth owning because of its content, its performance, and its direction. It is a film that is worthy of the time and effort that it takes to watch it. And it is a film that is worth owning because of its ability to make us think and feel about the issues it raises.
