Zone Campaigns to Repeal S.F. Gay Rights Ordinance
Only 9,678 signatures required to place repeal measure on local ballot.

Dear Reader,

(San Francisco) Fundamentalist leader Richard Zone announced this week that the repeal of San Francisco's gay-rights ordinance will be on the ballot. The decision was made difficult by the lack of information regarding the exact nature of the plans for the city.

 what seemed evident as the week progressed was that the so-called Christian Right groups have been attempting to portray the gay rights movement as a threat to the family values that are shared by the majority of Christian Americans. Nonetheless, Zone seems anxious to participate in the local community debates on gay rights.

discuss ways to combat the Christian movement.

The city council voted to pass a resolution denouncing the Anti-Gay movement and calling for an end to violence against gay and lesbian people.

The resolution was passed with an overwhelming majority and was endorsed by all members of the city council.

The city council also announced plans to establish a task force to investigate the incidents of violence against gay and lesbian people.

The task force will be made up of representatives from the gay and lesbian community, law enforcement, and community leaders.

The task force will investigate the incidents and make recommendations for preventing similar incidents in the future.

The city council also announced plans to pass legislation that would make it a crime to discriminate against gay and lesbian people in employment, housing, and public accommodations.

The legislation was passed with an overwhelming majority and was
endorsed by all members of the city council.

The task force will report back to the city council in three months

The city council also announced

How Do You Solve a Problem Like Coppola?

By Rosemary Daniell

Edward Gottesman

NKen and his new wife, the former Frances Conca, have been married for two years. She is not a screen siren and he's not a director. He's a grammarian and she's a businesswoman. They live in the tranquil French Quarter, going home from the market in the morning. In the evening, they attend receptions and art exhibits. The couple are devoted to painting, not photography, but Ken is a photographer. He was asked by Zoetrope President Robert Wenders and starring Frederic Forrest to direct a feature film about the author's sexual adventure in the South, which he did, starring Frederic Forrest and the author. The film, "FATAL FLOWERS," was shown at the Sundance Film Festival, where it won the Best Feature Film Award.

The response from the studio was enormous. Ken was given the job of directing the picture, and he wrote the script. The script was accepted by the studio, and the film was produced. Ken and his wife are now married, and they live in the French Quarter. They still live in the French Quarter, going home from the market in the morning. The Free Time Orchestra

The second release from the same group who recorded "Career Killer," this is a reissue of 1970's release "Career Killer." Four 1970's albums, including "Career Killer," are also included in this collection. With a mix of energy and precision, the band delivers a powerful sound. Their powerful rhythm section, supported by a tight, disciplined sound, makes this a must-listen for fans of the 70's rock scene. The group's hard-hitting style and unique sound are sure to appeal to fans of the genre.
