U.S. Census to Ignore Gay Households

Officials fear “embarrassing” and “controversial” results

Larry Busch

(Washington, D.C.) The U.S. Census Bureau decided Sunday to ignore homosexuals in the upcoming 1990 census.

The bureau said it decided to ignore gay households in an effort to avoid “embarrassing” and “controversial” results.

Incidence among gay men raises alarming possibilities

(San Francisco) A task force of doctors at the University of California among gay males.

San Francisco area have died from the rare cancer, for which there is no effective treatment, in the last few months. One source believes the actual figure may be considerably higher since most victims die of infection before diagnosis.

Michael J. Raines, managing director of San Francisco’s AIDS Project, was fired in May.

City Attorney Challenges SF Gay Rights Ordinance

Shawn P. Kelly

(San Francisco) San Francisco’s gay community reacted with surprise and anger this week after it was revealed that City Attorney George Agues is questioning its right to govern.

Agues is the author of the city’s gay rights ordinance.

make sure it is related to consensual sex. This is not the first time the disease has been reported. In 1978, a group of gay men in San Francisco reported an outbreak of a rare cancer called Kaposi's sarcoma. The disease is characterized by bluish-purple bumps that appear on the skin. These bumps are caused by a virus called the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV).

The disease is spread through blood, semen, and oral sex. It is most common among gay men and men who have sex with men. The disease can also be transmitted through other forms of sexual contact, such as vaginal sex and anal sex.

Doctors and researchers are working to develop new treatments for the disease. However, there is no cure for Kaposi's sarcoma. The disease can be deadly, and there is a high risk of contracting AIDS.
