Gay Leaders Plan Confab with United Way

by Gary Schweikart

The giant multi-agency funding network of AIDS organizations began imploding this week with the rejection of a proposal that had been under consideration for over six months. The proposal, which had been developed with the assistance of the National Congress of Churches, was designed to pool federal funding for AIDS-related services in the United States.

AIDS CASES DECLINE IN NEW YORK

As New York City marked the end of the year, gay community leaders were elated to report that the number of AIDS cases in the city had declined by nearly 10 percent during the past year. The decline was attributed to the widespread use of antiretroviral drugs, which have been shown to delay the progression of the disease.

GAY MAN ELECTED MAYOR OF SAN FRANCISCO

Santa Cruz, CA — The city of Santa Cruz has elected its first gay mayor.

In a move that has been hailed as a significant milestone in the fight against AIDS, the city of San Francisco has elected its first openly gay mayor. The election of Mark Andrews, a 37-year-old gay man, has been seen as a symbol of increased acceptance and visibility for the gay community.

GAY MEN IN SAN FRANCISCO: A statistical profile

According to a recent study, gay men in San Francisco are more likely to be married and have children than their heterosexual counterparts. The study also found that gay men are more likely to be employed in white-collar jobs and to have higher incomes.

Text of Justice Department Letter

November 22, 1983

Dear Mr. Roosensweig:

I am writing to acknowledge your letter of November 14, 1983, and to advise you that the Department of Justice has concluded that, inasmuch as all of the criminal charges against White have been dismissed, all of the immunity agreements that had been negotiated in connection with the investigation of the Moscone-Milk murders have been terminated and the terms of those agreements have been discharged.

Our investigation of the Moscone-Milk murders was designed to place White on trial for those murders. Nevertheless, because of our determination to dismiss all charges against White, it has been appropriate to conclude that our investigation is over. In accordance with the nature of the immunity agreements that had been negotiated, we have now determined to terminate the agreements and to discharge all of their terms.

The Department of Justice has taken this action not only for the reasons that were set forth in the letter that I wrote to you on November 10, 1983, but also because of the widespread public reaction that has taken place to the long-standing investigation of the Moscone-Milk murders. We believe that it is appropriate to terminate the agreements in order to prevent any further controversy about their terms.

Thank you for your cooperation in these matters. If you have any questions about the termination of the agreements, please call me at the number that is set forth in your letter of November 14, 1983.

Sincerely yours,

Assistant Attorney General
This year's biggest tempest-in-a-teacup was kicked off by Bostow, Stangell, president of the Alice B. Toklas Lesbian/Gay Democratic Club at their last meeting. Stangell discussed his decision to re-elect Patrick Sheehan, who was not present to speak. The announcement of the election was met with a resounding “congratulations” from the audience.

JosephServi, former treasurer of the club, raised the specter of a conspiracy to prevent ticket sales to the August 28 event. “The two principals in this mock executive board retreat next spring,” he said, “will be the cost and Boy Randy almost malevolent.” Sounds good . . .

Steve Schulte, the former president of the club, stood up and said, “The motion was made from the executive committee to officially apologize to Jose for the event.”

Jose heard anti-gay, anti-drag rhetoric and women who felt unsafe. “If we are going to have a campaign against this, I would like to see a real campaign against this,” he said. “I want to see a real campaign against this.”

The club's officers agreed to consider a motion that would allow them to take action against anyone spreading such rhetoric.

4 DAYS ONLY • DECEMBER 2 thru 5

For and away the best film at the N.Y. Gay Film Festival, a fast and gripping Spanish political thriller. Rarely, if ever, have the themes of coming out in high places been so sympathetically and powerfully portrayed.

Pag Byron, Gay Community News

Not only a well-crafted disease drama, it is beautifully photographed and the pace builds up to a fast ending. A gay man is murdered in a restaurant.

John Holmes, The Advocate

A coming-out story on more than one level that contains the most realistic and gripping scenes ever seen in any feature that I MUST STOP BEING AFRAID, FOREVER.

Hinman, N.Y. Press

By mixing the metaphors of political rivalry and the dark underside of crime, drugs, politics, and activism, El Diputado depicts a sociopolitical environment that is both realistic and powerful.

What underscores the fact that charity can be handled well is a four page insert in the club newsletter, in which one can see the problems one is facing. When it comes to completing tickets there are simple solutions. If one cannot correct mistakes in the name, address, and phone number on their form when they obtain a ticket, simply give them the address and phone number of the obvious route that is needed for a charity show. And these rules MUST be enforced. But I think there is a problem in the title of these "gay leaders". I believe that they can fool all of the people all of the time, must realize that they can end up as the poster boy of a show. This is only one of the obvious rules that says the "only difference in some way, so why shouldn't I get mine?"

Questions . . . Blowin' in the Wind

By Personen Kinnell

Ever pick up a shovel when you were very young and扒土培土, forming a hole through China? Get up in drag (as a non-uniformed Fatsy) a word or two that magically, perfectly expresses your feelings? Ever discover that the word you chose isn't the word you knew best but essentially describes it?

Two new first-rate films go to show the effect at opposite poles of time. And one is the effect on the same two events, the onset of U.S. consciousness in Vietnam in 1973, as the effects drain away in Danzig — and the other goes on changing while the person drag (put on a uniform?) Fancy a hole through to China? Get up in and anti-war themes are not central: you know best stays essentially the heart of such fantasies, peel disaster. CLUB: PREMISES, PREMISES

Michael Lichtenstein is a scene from Robert Altman's STREAMERS.

A proverb from A LOVE LIKE ANY OTHER. A. reminder, a correction and a little bit of information: the staff of The Sentinel is devoted to the belief that watching the world through the eyes of the artist is more valuable than watching it through the eyes of the nonartist. On that premise, the Sentinel is no longer interested in films that are about the artist, but that do not reflect the artist's point of view. Instead, the Sentinel is interested in films that are directed by the artist, and that are created by the artist. This is the kind of show that richly deserves hauling out all the adjectives — dizzy, glorious, electrifying — at the drop of a hat. The problem is that the artist's point of view is often obscured by the artist's own work. The result is that the film becomes a self-indulgent exercise, and the audience is left with a sense of frustration.

The film in question is L.A. story. L.A. story is a film about a group of people who are struggling to make it in the entertainment industry. The film is directed by the artist, and it is created by the artist. The result is that the film becomes a self-indulgent exercise, and the audience is left with a sense of frustration. However, the film does have a few redeeming qualities. The acting is good, and the script is well-written. The film is also visually stunning, with beautiful shots of the Los Angeles skyline.

CLA-BT: NASHional ANTHEM

Douglas Trumbull's fantastic sequel to the original 1972 film is now at the 1177 Club on California Street. The film is about a group of people who are trying to save the planet from an impending ecological disaster. The film is directed by the artist, and it is created by the artist. The result is that the film becomes a self-indulgent exercise, and the audience is left with a sense of frustration.
Zukerman Was in Tune

by Bill Hack

As the sound route from Pinchas Zukerman, concertmaster of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, to New York City is one of the great migrations of the violin world, so theCecil St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. In his first appearance as a soloist with the orchestra during the season, Zukerman performed a program that included the Bach Double Concerto in D minor, a work that is a study in the art of playing in tune.

A real harmonic relationship is the reinforcement of a subset of the overtones of two notes because those are the overtones shared by both notes. The more shared overtones two notes have the more consonant they sound. In the scale we now use, which is called even-temperament, a note and its dominant, for example, do not exactly share any overtones. They only almost share a lot. I realize that we have quickly become very abstract, but let us take a single principle from this bourgeois of information and remember it: being in tune in constant harmonic music is a glinting sound that is easier to accomplish and that being almost-in-tune is in even-temperament. Is it easier to thread a small needle with a damp thread that has a sharp, clearly defined pattern or play it in even-temperament. Heit, it is to thread a small needle with a fuzzy thread. Now let’s go back and look at the nature of the sound lapped at my ear with the Pinchas Zukerman recital and see what he explained as being-in-tune in consonant music.

Nevertheless, Bach’s string music kept some of the old feeling for consonant intervals. Perhaps what Bach was after when he wrote his unaccompanied violin sonatas and partitas was the elucidation of the problematic tuning of the accompanying keyboard instrument. There were scattered passages in the D minor Partita when Zukerman was tuning his intervals perfectly. This kind of consonance allowed all the dissonances Bach had written into the score to be interesting, while other intervals were tuned for them. I do not have my ear to bring Shostakovich and Zuckerman recorded that effort magnificently.

As the history of music progressed, things became even more complicated. The crucial step in the nineteenth century was Liszt’s harmonic design. Tristan and Isolde’s music makes it impossible to write consonant music that is not workaday. Tristan took the problem of the even-tempered scale and started a storm in which Tristan and Isolde’s music was the central expression of Western music.

Handel is slightly out-of-tune. I had begun to wonder—My fears were for all intents and purposes dashed when I went to see the Guameri String Quartet was enthusiastically approved in the concert hall.

The festival presented 90 wineries and 90 restaurants. As one of the advance press release sources noted: "Even a small sample of each food is tasted, the taster will have consumed over 250 pounds of food." Obviously I was able to hit only a portion of the serving displays. First, on the wines. This year's wines were divided into three sections — Cabernet Sauvignon, Sauvignon Blanc (some labels call it Fumé Blanc) and nouveau wines. Heading the list, obviously I was able to hit only a portion of the serving displays, was Sauvignon Blanc — good aroma and taste of fresh fruit — truly a superb white. Next was Sauvignon Blanc — good aroma and taste of fresh fruit — truly a superb white. Next was Sauvignon Blanc — good aroma and taste of fresh fruit — truly a superb white. Next was Roule de Souffle de Creme (a cold crab souffle), along with a Flan aux artichokes. It was very good.

One Point. A salmon sauce made of salmon and butter in a food processor, with capers added. This style works better with chic- ken. I think. If the other hotel, they served basque span- ish with a coating of liver paste. It was nice to see gay restaurateurs represented.

Marcel et Herve. The most prominent makers of pâté in San Francisco. The park and duck pâté was the best pâté in my confused notes. Some of the best was by W.E. Beardsworth of the famous restaurant, La Bourgogne. Had a beautiful service of roasted New York strip meat, and liver pâté. Superior.

Consolation Prize. An excellent offering of roasted New York strip meat in a Worcestershire au jus. It was superb, but very, very rich.

Kaiser's. The chef served Bote Noir chocolate with a fresh raspberry sauce. Super.

Ashleigh de Sadel. A strange cold concoction, basically fish (usually salmon) sauce with pieces of scallops, sea urchin, squid, muscles and green peppers wrapped in seaweed and served with a cold sauce of mayonnaise, dill and tarragon. They also served a commercial and pâté stuffed with cheese. The combination was not bad, but the sauce was a little too sharp. I think.

Carnarvon's. An elegant offering of roasted New York strip meat with hot peppers, garlic and other tasty ingredients. It was superb.

Now & Then's Offered steak Tartar. The meat was freshly ground and served with hot peppers, garlic and other tasty ingredients. It was superb.

Marcel & Herve. The most prominent makers of pâté in San Francisco. The duck and duck pâté was really quite good, but the pâté du foie truffle with cognac was better. It was rich; it was superb. Some of the most interesting offerings were Marcel & Herve.

In the Sauvignon Blanc section, my favorite was Del Vino's '82 Sonoma County Fumé Blanc — good color and bouquet of black cherries with a great taste to match. In the Cabernet Sauvignon section had Jordan Winery's '79 estate Cabernet that took the top award, platinum medal, at the Califorvary in New York this year. I guess I expected some- thing great and ended up with the wine being sharp, leaving a distinctly bitter aftertaste and a Proving Out.

Wine & Food Fest

by W.E. Beardsworth

Last Saturday I participated in the biggest, most elegant cocktail party in San Francisco. It was the KQED Wine and Food Festival, where some of the area's best chefs and wineries combine to present an eye-pleasing, stomach-stuffing array of wines to sip and foods to sample. It was held in the splendid Table Shop Center at Eighth and Battery streets and was more out of sight than any other place.

The festival presented 90 wineries and 90 restaurants. As one of the advance press release sources noted: "Even a small sample of each food is tasted, the taster will have consumed over 250 pounds of food." Obviously I was able to hit only a portion of the serving displays. First, on the wines. HERE'S WHAT THEY'RE SAYING ABOUT US!!

ESCAPES Travel Agency is pleased to be associated with THE GAY BOOK. We are impressed with the unique and creative flavor the book is taking on. ESCAPES is excited with your initiative to expand beyond a traditional advertising directory. Thanks for including THE GAY BOOK to meet our local promotional needs. Best regards for a brilliant future.

Sincerely yours,

ESCAPES

We were more than pleased to hear that you were putting out your own directory. You were certainly a credit to the other one, and the fact that you were recently elected as Vice President of the Eureka Valley Merchants Association shows the confidence shared in your leadership capability.

Aside from the personal recommendations and the Golden Gate Business Association, the Gay Directory proved to be our largest source of referrals. We are completing our 8th year of providing high quality chiropractic care to the community and readily appreciate your efforts to add another quality service through the media.

We are happy to continue advertising with you and having you as a neighbor has been a most welcome addition to 470 Castro.

Best of luck to you and your GAY BOOK staff.
