THE PARTY'S OVER

The largest lesbian and gay caucus in history assembled at the Democratic National Convention, but the increased numbers were not reflected in the accomplishments of the convention. Presidential nominee Michael Dukakis continued to maintain an arms-length relationship with gay delegates, and in the wake of bitter in-fighting among gay caucus members, a decision by them to endorse Dukakis was deferred. Lisa Keen reports from Atlanta.

Jackson and Dukakis
Delegates Bicker
Democratic Party
Unity Eludes Lesbian and Gay Caucus
by Lila M. Keen 7/22/92
ATLANTA — The largest lesbian and gay caucus ever to attend a Democratic National Convention adjourned its business yesterday after depth deeply divided over whether actively to support the Democratic presidential ticket of Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis and and Texas Senator Lloyd Bentsen.

From its first meeting on Sunday to 6 pm and final meeting Thursday afternoon, the more than 40 members of the unofficial gay caucus — a slightly larger portion of them supporters of native son Jackson — engaged in sometimes bitter, frequently intense debate over what the gay community should expect from Dukakis in return for their support.

The divisiveness between the two candidates did not end with the official gay caucus's closing. Last night, a group of Dukakis supporters in attendance at the convention, the women members of the Dukakis female activists met with members of the Massachusetts Women's Political Caucus to discuss the possibility of forming a women's slate in support of Dukakis. But Bentsen's secretary was given the job of arranging the meeting and the two candidates and their supporters to come to grips with the most difficult of the issues facing gay caucus members.

"We need to talk about the art of compromise. If Dukakis goes public on gay issues, we're going to lose a lot of supporters," said Pat Norman, the co-chair of the gay caucus. "But if Dukakis stays silent, more gay people are going to vote for Bentsen. If it's transparency, we'll lose the gay vote. If it's compromise, we'll lose the gay vote.

We need to talk about the art of compromise."

A group of Dukakis delegates also exchanged views over the lack of gay visibility at the convention. "If you had to look hard for someone who was gay, the gay community would, at this point, be non-existent. We need to talk about the art of compromise."

But Jackson supporters said that the party needed a full and open debate on gay issues. "To get more visibility to get answers to the gay community's questions, we need to talk about the art of compromise," said Butner. "If Dukakis goes public, we're going to lose a lot of conservatives."

The divisiveness of the gay caucus, however, did not prevent the two candidates from reaching out to gay caucus members in the convention hall.

Jackson and Dukakis were unable to win a consensus endorsement for their candidates, so they had hoped for, they did win agreements from several key Jackson supporters in the gay caucus to work for the Democratic ticket.

Senator Massi Francisco, Senator Clark, a Louisiana Democrat and caucus member, told the gay caucus members that a united effort to benefit the Democratic ticket in the November election was crucial. "We need to talk about the art of compromise," said Pat Norman, the co-chair of the gay caucus. "But if Dukakis stays silent, more gay people are going to vote for Bentsen. If it's transparency, we'll lose the gay vote. If it's compromise, we'll lose the gay vote.

We need to talk about the art of compromise.

"We would like some reason to vote for Dukakis, rather than a reason to vote against Bush."

Two Groups Awarded AmFAR Seed Grants

by Alex MacDowell

Controversial community-based treatment studies received a shot in the arm this week with the announcement of seed grants for clinical trials by the American Foundation for AIDS Research (AmFAR). The grants may help push several studies of promising new approaches to treatment forward.

The two groups are the San Francisco AIDS Foundation and the New York City AIDS Foundation. The San Francisco group is chaired by Martin Delaney, of San Francisco's Sloan-Kettering Research Institute, and the New York group, chaired by Martin Delaney, is made up of community-based researchers.

The grants, brought by the Dallas community-based AIDS clinics, are intended to help them establish research programs that may lead to new treatments or better ways of delivering existing therapies.

The San Francisco group has established two databases, one documenting patients' medical records and the other assessing their psychological status.

The New York group, under the leadership of Martin Delaney, is collection medical and psychological data on AIDS patients who are interested in participating in clinical trials of promising new treatments.

The grants, ranging from $1,000 to $2,000, will be awarded to community-based AIDS clinics in San Francisco and New York, respectively.

The San Francisco Women’s Building, a community-owned property long bequested by mounting debts, has broken through its fundraising efforts which promises to see the building well beyond its current financial crisis. Last week a pivotal meeting in the building’s role and current financial crisis, the financial strategies want to ensure the building’s budget and an upcoming mammoth deficit on the operational bills and occasionally laying off staff.

EVERYWHERE, USA — From Portland, Oregon, to Raleigh, North Carolina, local gay pride events were marked by record-breaking, full-of-people-and-urgency. To highlight a few: North Carolina held its first-ever statewide march and rally, drawing 2,500 participants. Over 60 groups, businesses and individuals, including the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina, now an 11 chapter and the War Brides reunion, mobilized the events. The Charlotte Gay Pride Parade, Charlotte’s first ever gay-themed event, took place downtown, outside the Raleigh-Durham airport.

In Washington, DC, a record crowd of more than 8,000 converged on the Mall following a march that stretched from the White House to the Capitol.

In Baltimore, Maryland’s pride week in the summer a few weeks before.

In Hartford, Connecticut, 2,000 newspaper ads published nationwide proclaiming that “AIDS is not a joke.”

Another disappointment was that Steve Woolverton claims that his wife of AIDS, at precisely 2:30 pm, the New York City gay pride parade began. It was attended by some 30,000 people. The civil a few weeks before.

In the past, North Carolina TV stations gave gay pride week airtime outside the Raleigh-Durham area.

And during the telephone interview, I hadn’t even had to make a single phone call. It was all done by the computer. And I didn’t have a big phone bill.

Rallying Behind The Women's Building

One of this century's greatest writers, Virginia Woolf, wrote movingly in 1925 that women "are of their own. The rooms Woolf spoke of were mostly metaphors, but they certainly contained the rich building and nurture independent lives.

A similar place, one that existed, exists today in San Francisco. For nearly ten years, the Women’s Building has provided lesbians and other women community programs. Now that place is threatened because it lacks the other key ingredient Woolf described - money. It will need only 500 British pounds a year. The Women's Building, however, needs $400,000 by the end of next year.

If successful, the Women’s Building fundraising campaign will assure the women's center's financial independence. The campaign is needed to pay off a mortgage a five- to ten-year extension of a large part of the mortgage in 1989.

A similar place, one that is quite real, exists today in San Francisco's Latino barrio. The Women's Building is the common space for over 200 groups, many which might otherwise literally have no room of their own. To help the women — and men — who need this space, call 431-1180 or send a donation to the Women's Building, 548 16th St., Box 8, SF 94110.

The President’s AIDS Commission: The Need to Stay Vigilant

The president's AIDS commission's 24-page report was issued to a general chorus of approval from public health administrators, gay activists, and the press. The happy reconciliation stems from the commission's officially affirmative language on the need to adopt anti-discrimination language for people with AIDS, ARC and HIV infection. But recently a few voices of warning have been heard that the report is not entirely unbenign package. Those voices, including that of congresswoman Barbara Boxer in these pages, tell us the report contains a number of dangerous recommendations as well as the commission's laudable provisions.

Critics of the report point to the inclusion of a call for reports on sexual practices as not needed, and the failure to feeding and notifying the partners of seropositive individuals.

Rallying Behind The Women's Building

This gay ghetto mentality will kill us by the millions of dollars to elect and maintain a president. We are "always sick and then die." The eventual proof of the gay farce is the death of us - all of us. And when the Ray family was firebombed out of their Arcadia, neighborhood gay press about Ryan was not published a single word of the incident. NEA and AFT conventions, but we are "always sick and then die."

When the NEA passed a resolution that if the NEA is a place where for the Democratic Party, it is to be "always sick and then die." We are "always sick and then die."

The ultimate proof of the gay farce is the death of us - all of us. And when the Ray family was firebombed out of their Arcadia, we are "always sick and then die." The gay people of this nation be refused employment or fired because we are gay.

Editor's Note: In 1980 the Democratic Party Platform Committee took a small step toward recognizing lesbian and gay rights by including the word "homosexuality" in its party's anti-discrimination plank. The wording was in favor of it even though a tough proposal setup out by the NEA and AFT conventions, but we are "always sick and then die."
A Judicial Kiss

The Massachusetts Supreme Court has ordered a Roman Catholic district court judge suspended for one year after the local judicial disciplinary board found he made overtly anti-gay remarks. The judge, according to the board, was "blurred" by his anti-gay judicial career.

The court's decision came in the case of David Morgan, who was accused of making anti-gay remarks during his time as a judge in the state of Massachusetts and was awarded a settlement in 1983, which still makes it an expensive trial.

The judge, according to the board, was "blurred" by his anti-gay judicial career. He had been sued by a group of Catholics over the alleged discrimination.

A verdict of $750,000 was later reduced to $125,000, which still makes it an expensive trial.

I was fortunate enough to discover Game Night when I first came out, and was thus spared the tears of journeying across the Bay to trace the bars alone in search of gay friends. Since then I've found enough East Bay social clubs, poetry readings and just hang out on the front porch or sit on the funky old sofas inside and read the bulletin board. That sounds good. Summer Lethargy

Let's face it, if you are looking for heat and excitement, San Francisco is hardly the place to be in the summer. Where else would you be waiting winter coats on the Fourth of July? Isolated days of warmth are greeted with tepid energy, but this year there is similarly characterized by a strangely energetic experience. It's difficult, however, to make a quirky and original combination of cultural pastimes.

There is also something new, "Introduction," an SF Art Dealers Association projection showcasing so-called new talent and microphones on me.

Midsummer Mozart

Authentic Style

Midsummer Mozart Festival. Do we need another Mozart festival? In the 1990s one continuous such festival? Certainly for anyone who listens to the radio it is.

Yet, despite its rousing ambition, Midsummer Mozart remains one of the more valuable events on the San Francisco classical music lover's annual schedule. The reason for its success is its quest for stylistic authenticity. There are questions of the instrument on which the music was played, of course, but it was more a question of the big, modern orchestral approach to Mozart.

The concert opened with a piece that seemed a surefire success in the hands of a conductor who, knowing, was proven to be the music director of the San Francisco Symphony, as the Midsummer Mozart Festival. A bright, sassy modern instrument. Here is expert and while minimal, there is still a sense of power and authority.

Nails and sweating all over myself! Phil flexed his "How did I manage to wake up in Alabama?" — and his skepticism demolished that the show reminded him of "People in the House Across the Street". We careened over to the Weisner Civic Center, where Sheri Lane set Celtic accordion and dion figures against a bagpipe-synthchord, Tito Cameron ham-toned grabbed the edge of the stage and defied gravity. Kathy McCarty struck stunted notes, "I'm better than Joan Jett." Up and hissed at me, "Dude, desperation thundering out of me!" - and his skepticism demolished people think this show at your soul's peril. The former founder of the Soft Glass Eye, Stassen of pop. NORTHERN CALIFORNIA'S OUTRAGEOUS...
If you have tested HIV positive but have not yet developed AIDS or ARC... there is something you can do.

Why is it important to seek treatment now?
Current evidence suggests that when left untreated, 70% of those infected with the HIV virus will eventually develop AIDS or ARC. The HIV virus attacks the immune system T-4 Helper Cells and as the number of T-4 cells decreases, the way is opened for the infections symptomatic of AIDS and ARC. Normal immune systems have between 500-1400 T-4 cells, but in most AIDS patients this level has dropped below 100.

Many physicians who have worked with the HIV virus think that early treatment to prevent deterioration of the immune system (T-4 cells) is the best course of action to slow or stop the progression to AIDS.

What is Positive Action treatment?
Positive Action Healthcare is an outpatient program of preventive medicine attempting to maintain the health of your immune system (T-4 cells) at a level sufficient to ward off the onset of infections associated with AIDS.

This treatment is not a cure for AIDS and is not intended for those whose immune systems have deteriorated to the point of AIDS or ARC infections. Those requiring such treatment are referred to physicians providing this type of care.

What does the Positive Action treatment consist of?
The specific treatment is developed between you and the Positive Action Healthcare physician based on the results of your initial physical examination. While each program is individualized, they all involve a combination of anti-viral medications to combat the HIV virus directly and immune boosters intended to strengthen your system.

Positive Action personnel closely monitor potential new therapies. As the therapies show evidence of effectiveness, they will be added to the treatment, depending on patient needs.

How effective is this treatment?
Based upon the experience with Positive Action Healthcare patients (dating to 1984), results have been encouraging. Monitoring of T-4 helper cells indicates that this treatment offers promise in slowing or stopping the deterioration of the immune system.

The summary of results of treatment with the Positive Action protocol are available to patients on a monthly basis. However, there is no guarantee of the treatment and it is too early to project long term results.

What risks are entailed in the treatment?
Every medical treatment has its risks. Some of the risks of the medications used in the treatment protocols are known; others are not yet so clearly defined. The physician treating you will carefully explain the known risks, before you decide to enter treatment, and will tell you of other potential dangers of the treatment that concern careful medical practitioners in the field of immunology.

The Positive Action Healthcare Staff:
The Positive Action Healthcare medical group is headed by Alan S. Levin, M.D., assisted by Vera S. Byers, M.D., Ph.D.

Dr. Levin and his wife, Dr. Byers, are both specialists in the research and treatment of problems of the immune system. They have published numerous medical and scientific documents in the field and both serve as Adjunct Associate Professors of Immunology at the University of California, San Francisco Medical Center.

Since 1981, they have maintained a private practice in San Francisco in the field of allergy and immunology. In 1987, they established Positive Action Healthcare, a medical clinic devoted to the treatment of immune disorders related to the HIV virus.
