ew Orleans, the city that calls itself “The Big Easy,” hosted a four-day Republican bash that highlighted the uneasy tension between gay members of the GOP and their party’s nominee, George Bush.

Lou Chibbaro was there to provide exclusive Bay Area reporting on the gathering of gay Republicans and the hard line on AIDS in the Republican platform that sparked protests by ACT UP, an AIDS activist group.

A Z T Users Face Subsidies Cut Off

by Alex MacDonald

News of the federal program subsidizing the cost of AZT for indigent people with AIDS has sent shock waves through San Francisco’s health and AIDS activist communities. Because federal funding levels are almost exhausted, new applications from people hoping to benefit from the subsidies will not be accepted after September 30. Moreover, the entire program will expire on December 31, leaving thousands of people in California without a means to pay for the life-prolonging drug.

The cost of using AZT, which is manufactured by the pharmaceutical giant Burroughs-Wellcome, can be as high as $9,000-10,000 a year. It is the only treatment for AIDS that has been sanctioned and has had some beneficial effects in mitigating the impact of the AIDS virus. People who meet the stringent eligibility guidelines established by MediCal have the cost of AZT paid for by the state. But with insurance companies clamping down on reimbursements for AZT and with countless thousands more uninsured, the federal subsidy program was the payer of last resort.

Until last week, when the Chronicle reported the decision by the California Department of Health Services, the San Francisco Department of Public Health expected to spread out its allocation over a 2½-year period, DPH Director

Decision Too Late for Milk Drive

Community Blood Drives Reinstated in Castro

City College to Feature Lesbian and Gay Studies Program

by Karen Everett

The executive committee of Iris Memorial Blood Bank voted unanimously August 12 to reinstate community-based blood drives — including those scheduled for the Castro — but the decision came too late to put plans for a shuttle service that will be used when the annual Harvey Milk drive occurs this Saturday.

Informed Iris officials, meanwhile, rushed efforts to published reports that they had abandoned blood donors in the Castro as "uncooperative." The officials, tired of long lines, decided to reinstate the drives.

"The reporter was really looking for an eye-catcher, angling for a sensational point. With much more confusion as there is already, I don't think that article helped," said Eyone Chinl.

The Gay GOP Puts Its Faith in Bush

by Lou Chibbaro Jr.

NEW ORLEANS — About 75 gay Republicans, most expressing a desire not to be identified publicly, turned out for a reception Monday at a New Orleans gay bar to hear support for President George Bush.

The reception was sponsored by the Louisiana Republican Party and the Democratic National Committee, who arranged for 15 gay Republican state chairs around the country to sponsor similar receptions.

One UREP board member from White Plains, New York, who asked not to be identified, predicted: "If Bush wins, I think the gay Republican movement will take off. Bush has the charisma, he has the vision, he has the image. He's the choice of the youth."

Another UREP board member, who also asked not to be identified, pointed out: "Bush is the choice of the youth."

Supervisor Hopefuls Scramble for Art's Endorsement

With three months remaining in the mad scramble for the Board of Supervisors, Mayor Art Agnos has all but endorsed three incumbent candidates and two others in a San Francisco 11-member version of a city council. Agnos is backing Supervisor Britt Brunner, Carol Ruth Silver and Mike Kennedy in their bids for re-election. He also shares the majority in nonincumbent candidates Angela Alonso and Tommi Hultman.

Three of the four are for the time being, "said Eileen Maloney, who last spring cheered loudly for the pro-Olympics measure Proposition B.

Supervisors, Mayor Art Agnos has so far endorsed three incumbents thereby, he was a throwaway endorsement for Brunner, president of the Milk Club.

"We're not going to throw our support behind the mayor," remarked, "because he's for the president."

"He's an adman, not a fundraiser," responded David Binder, a political consultant who is also running against Agnos.

The Shameful Legacy of Ronald Reagan

Ronald Reagan committed the classic Freudian slip and allowed the American public to peak behind the mask of his hollow administration when he said to the delegates of the Republican National Convention that facts are stupid things.

He meant to say facts are stubborn things, but the effect was the opposite. Once declared that trees are the principal source of the world's oxygen, he made millions feel that they have been more heartfelt in his heart through his advocacy of his ideas and his media consultants in the White House.

Facts are stubborn things, and it is a good idea for the Republican National Convention offers a chance for us to set the record straight on the shameful Reagan legacy.

During his 7½ years in office, 70,000 people — gay people, straight people, men and women of all colors — have been diagnosed with AIDS. Of these, 40,000 have died.

And Reagan was silent.

More Americans have died of AIDS while Reagan was president than have died as a result of all of the wars he has declared.

Misperceptions have run rampant, and even courageous work of black AIDS activists Lillian Saxxon. During this time, Reagan was silent.

It is as if not as though our president is unfamiliar with the roll of the epidemic. Reagan croons like Roy Cohn and has died of AIDS, the mottled behind the right-wing National Coalition Political Action Committee and brother of a presidential speechwriter, died of AIDS. Republican representative Stewart McKinney died of AIDS. So did Hollywood buddy Rock Hudson.

And Reagan was silent.

Reagan's legacy is deeply rooted in his earlier career as an actor, his frame of reference tied to a mortality reality where the good guys win the war and get the girl. In real-life America, people are dying, and it isn't in the script, Reagan has no lines. He is silent.

ACT UP has graphically captured the dimensions of this epidemic with its words "Silence = Death."

Looking at the Reagan legacy, silence isn't our only enemy.

LETTERS

Our Common Enemy

In the Editor:

I implore Cathy Culp's coherent article, "Screwing the Wind," Sentinel, 7/13. Many Californians are acutely aware of black AIDS activists and the fact that a president has no lines is an outrageous disregard of the facts. I am also encouraged to see yet another example of intelligent treatment of the dangerous and morbid issue.

The current Reagan administration's asinine lack of action is not accidental. Our government has responded to the epidemic of AIDS with policies that — mainly receive attention in the media, it has affected millions in our country, and we as citizens are being robbed of our most basic opportunities as human beings. For years we have been forced to live with policies such as the "contingent" housing programs which refuse to provide the social and psychological support needed to enable the patient to live as a normal person. This is unacceptable.

As a community activist, I am appalled at the inability to raise the public's awareness of these issues.

Robert Brown

Laying the Groundwork

In the Editor:

I would like to thank the editors of the Sentinel for allowing me to write this letter. I am a gay man living in San Francisco for ten years. I have had the opportunity to witness the support of the community for one day of this two years nor the community for the past two years.

I have worked for the past two years and continue to do so. I am committed to the issue of AIDS and to the community for which I have worked.

I feel that it is important to address the issue that Keith Griffth and Michael J. Sheehan, in their article, "AIDS Memorial Garden\", have mentioned. I feel that it is important to address the issue that Keith Griffith and Michael J. Sheehan, in their article, "AIDS Memorial Garden\", have mentioned.

The Case of the Missing Underwear

Wearing only his birthday suit, the 20-year-old man flagged a taxi shortly after midnight. The cab took him to a friend's house where he was able to get clothing. Then he called the police to tell them that he was a victim of a sexual assault and had been forced onto the street.

Earlier that evening our reporter had been at a bar where no one was interested in drinking. He then moved over to the courthouse and took the case under his wing.

The police were given permission to search the missing underwear but to no avail. The complainant later recovered his underwear from the facts of a given case. Sexual harassment on the street is a serious crime that must not go unpunished.

For a prosecutor, the difficult task is determining whether force can be proven from the facts of a given case. Sexual assault victims are hardly ever convicted in front of a jury. The police are often too busy to do the necessary work to "corroborate" evidence. Those are the factors which make the success of a case, the criminal lawyer's particular sphere of influence.

change for the seeming security and re-responsibility of love with me. She and her friends had had many companions in this crisis of the relationship between them and their city. Nevertheless, it is no exaggeration to say that change is not visible yet.

The New Lesbianism affirms women's relationships without romanticizing them
as existing on some plane high above
the rest of human experience.

Friends, in the new willingness to talk openly about sexual practices and play, to use the words "lesbian," "dame" and "femme," rather than "gay" or the jargon of the old lesbianism, and various other terms that have been forced to scale down their "lifestyle" than in terms of a "politic" — which revolves less around politics broadly defined than around sex and sexual politics. In the process, it is slowly be-ting a source of camaraderie for me and my fellow glowing Meg Christian fans, wishing I could have been there.

The New Lesbianism affirms women's relationships without romanticizing them

the rest of human experience.

Misguided Reverence

The Joe Orton Enigma

PRICK UP YOUR EARS: THE BIOGRAPHY OF JOE ORTON

edited by John Lahr.

The meaning that Lahr divines (or creates) ultimately, if accepted, determines and discerns our view of Joe Orton and his plays.

The Irresponsible Language

In these coupled words — Joseph Halliwell and Emma Hardy, E.S. and Vivienne lips are other examples of the model — the hubris of the Orton diaries surfaces.

The way we read the diaries, the meaning is thus: "It is not about Joe Orton, it is about John Lahr.

How Lahr's reverent attitude is misguidedly deviant.

The most important "success" of this show is its function as a horrifying reminder that content, in contemporary culture, plays a secondary position to packaging.

The essence of this work is that the museum institution is relin-

Black Velvet or On Her Knees, that credit composition which is far more private than the S&M racket. The S&M racket...

The exhibition appears to be a comic book, a most entertaining, demonic narrative. The text is in show.

George Solti’s 1972 recording for London is also in spanning new CD sound, yet it is so briskly conducted that no Parsifal fans will want to settle only for it.

Berkeley Shakespeare’s ‘Timon of Athens’

Idiotic Innocence

There are great works that use greed as a starting point to explore deeper, underlying faults of human nature. But an Aesop fable or a fortune cookie is space-parable of material greed and ingratitude that can be explored deeper, underlying faults of human nature. Apparently born tionless hours that distinguish that Timón, for all his wailing, motivated betrayal Timón suffered but to explore deeper, underlying faults of human nature. Wealthy Athenian Timón innocence to the point of idiocy to the people of Athens. It’s odd that Morillas’ chosen production for lack of resourcefulness. From time to time, he finds vivid tricks that almost make the play’s simple scenes profound and fresh, but the “way” of the play’s house is reduced by a literal dismantling of the set or the rephrasing of a final obituary imploring that the cycle of money/power-worship can only go so far. It’s said that Morillas’ chosen concept turns the play’s political overtures into a piece of a Financial District, circa 1987. Timón was a vocal critic of the system, but today’s four parts of what might now make sense just a bunch of straight-walled scenes containing an increasingly obvious big myth. Morillas’ production for lack of resourcefulness.”

Dallas on Their Minds
Three Teams Advance to World Series
by Tom Vinader

Overcast skies could not dampen the spirits of the Rainbow Roos, Amelia's or the Endup as each won the right to represent San Francisco in the upcoming Gay Softball World Series in Dallas, Texas.

Amelia's had to fight tooth and nail to claim their Bay title in seven games. Their win contributed to the overall record for the season of 8-9-2 and allowed Amelia's to claim victory in the Sept. 1-2 game at the Belvedere Boat House. The Roos had to win with Terry Brooks the winning pitcher. The first game saw Bob Blakman, Skip Schaffer, Nick, and Bert Färber afford two teams? We'll get off to an early 3-zip lead before the Roos in the top of the seventh inning. The Roos had to win with Terry Brooks the winning pitcher. The second game saw the Pendulum Jumped all over the Caffeine Bandit for a 3-0 lead, only to see

Pool Predictions
by Rick Marin

In Division One there is no doubt that the Deluxe Ducks, last year's champions and one of the top teams in the history of the San Francisco Pool Predictions, will end up in first place. We've found a game for three months — it's been wonderful, but there's room for more...with 215 members, Frontrunners can accommodate anyone from the first timer to the regular, so if you're interested in fitness, fun times, or just some casual camaraderie, the Frontrunners are for you.

Having your worst fears confirmed may not sound like good news but maybe it really is. Why? Because many physicians who have worked with the AIDS virus now believe that early detection and treatment to prevent the deterioration of the immune system (T-4 Helper Cells) is the best course of action to slow or stop the progression to AIDS or ARC.

Research indicates that left untreated, over 70% of those infected with the HIV virus will eventually develop AIDS or ARC.

The sooner you know if you are HIV Positive the sooner you can start taking positive action that could save your life.

GET TESTED

Testing is now widely available. The San Francisco Department of Public Health has several neighborhood sites that offer confidential, free, anonymous, testing and counseling. For information and appointment schedules telephone 415-621-4858.

If your test shows that you are not infected be sure to get retested periodically. Sometimes the HIV antibody doesn’t show up for three years after infection. It’s important to keep checking so that if you do contract the HIV virus you can combat the infection in its early stages.

GET TREATED

If you do test positive there are many resources available to help you with the medical and the psychological impact of HIV infection. For example, the community group, Project Inform, offers a free hotline service which can help provide you with the information you need to plan a course of action. Call 558-9051 in S.F. or use the toll free lines 1-800-822-7422 (National) or 1-800-334-7422 in California.

Positive Action HealthCare, the nation’s largest clinic dealing with HIV immune disorders, is one of the resources you should consider. The Positive Action HealthCare clinic is now serving hundreds of HIV Positive patients with a program of preventive medicine devoted to maintaining the health of their immune systems at a level that may be sufficient to ward off the onset of infections associated with AIDS and ARC.

Each patient’s individualized program is developed with his Positive Action HealthCare physician based on the initial examination and is reevaluated on a regular basis.

Potential new therapies are closely monitored by Positive Action HealthCare and as they show evidence of effectiveness they will be added to the treatment depending upon each patient’s needs.

The Positive Action HealthCare treatment is not a cure for AIDS. This treatment is intended primarily for patients who are HIV Positive and who have not yet developed serious symptoms of AIDS or ARC.

The Positive Action HealthCare medical group is headed by Alan S. Levin, M.D., assisted by a staff of scientists and physicians who are specialists in the treatment of problems of the immune system and have published numerous medical and scientific documents in this field. Dr. Levin has served as Adjunct Associate Professor of Immunology at the University of California, San Francisco Medical Center. In private practice in San Francisco since 1981, he established Positive Action HealthCare in 1987 to deal specifically with immune disorders related to the HIV virus.
