In the aftermath of the Stonewall celebrations the Sentinel thought it an appropriate time to look at the Castro, which is acclaimed as the world-wide center of the gay community. Although we interviewed a large cross-section of the community, we sought out, in particular, those who had lived in this district for quite a few years and those who have owned business in the Castro for years. Although all of us, young and old, have experienced and will never forget the historical impact and the changes that AIDS has made on the gay community, it is this older generation of individuals who have witnessed the long-term

Gays Pack Living Sober Conference by Jeff Heins

Our 2,000 gay recovering alcoholics attended the 14th Annual Living Sober Conference at Civic Center Auditorium, on July 4.

Sponsored by Alcoholics Anonymous, it is the largest gay conference in the world. And it all began with six people.

"After a meeting, over coffee, we realized there were more gay menConfigure, but we couldn't afford it," says Bill H., a former steering Committee Chairmen. "Someone sug- gested a gay conference..." But we didn't talk about sex.

The first gay conference was held at the San Francisco State University Student Union in 1979. 178 people attended.

"Now there's a held in practically every major city in America," Bill H. added.

Living Sober, hundreds of people attended a 14 sessions at the conference, each focusing on different aspects of sobriety, including special sessions, workshops, and special events.

"It's just incredible to watch people change and progress through the process of living life as an honest person, and then it becomes a success," Nancy said, the attending Conference Coordinator.

In addition to meetings, workshops, and dances, Living Sober stages two not- so-typical events.

This year, the AA-sponsored musical and a party band called Cheeky Cane, was the focus of the entire conference, with the group coming forward and telling the stories about their sobriety. The A.A. sponsored musical dealt with the issue of AIDS in a unique way, and the show must deal with the death of the main character.

"We've lost a lot of people to AIDS," Bill H. said. "This is the first show that was completely supported by the conference.

The speakers were often sharp and powerful, and the mood was one of excitement and hope. The speakers talked about the importance of sobriety, the need for support, and the power of community. The speakers were often passionate, and they were able to lead chants and drum. Many speeches were passed around, with speakers making volunteer to work with local pro-choice organizations.

Condoms Are for Lovers, Too.

Loving your partner means protecting each other from AIDS. It takes practice to use condoms correctly, but your life—and your lover's—life are worth it.

The Castro
LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

The Castro is said to be the center of the gay universe. Since Harvey Milk opened his camera shop in the early 1970s, the Castro has become a capital of political and social activity. When we are dealt setbacks, it is from the Castro that we can look to the future.

Although the gay community is now spread throughout the city, the Castro remains the sentimental home of the gay movement.

Parking
Putting together a major lease in this area. There are only small demands. A few businesses exist along the Castro boulevard and theGolden Gate Park. The Castro is a neighborhood of Volunteers. Community and accommodations of the Castro are in our destiny.

Preservation should be the highest concern. This is a trend. A major movement. The Castro is a neighborhood of Volunteers. A significant movement. The Castro is a neighborhood of Volunteers. A major movement.

We think the time has come for the Castro to retain its special charm. We want the Castro to retain its special charm. We hope the Castro to retain its special charm.

Whether we live in the Castro or not, the emotional, political and social ties are there, and all of us should have a say in its destiny.

The movement has come for the gay community to assume full responsibility for the Castro. The Castro is the logical community. The Castro is the logical community. Whether we live in the Castro or not, the emotional, political and social ties are there, and all of us should have a say in its destiny.

We believe the Castro is a neighborhood of Volunteers. A significant movement. The Castro is a neighborhood of Volunteers. A major movement.

The Castro is the heart of the city.

The Castro was hard-hit. At the height of Castro's power, the neighborhood had to adjust to the demands of the Castro. The Castro was hard-hit. At the height of Castro's power, the neighborhood had to adjust to the demands of the Castro. The Castro was hard-hit. At the height of Castro's power, the neighborhood had to adjust to the demands of the Castro.

We hope for your support, and some other kind of support. We hope for your support, and some other kind of support. We hope for your support, and some other kind of support.

We are confident that the Castro can turn around.

We are confident that the Castro can turn around.

We are confident that the Castro can turn around.
An Integrated Neighborhood

Harvey Milk talked about wanting to make the Castro an integrated neighborhood. He, too, enjoys the new diversity. "For years we've been saying that we'd like to have a neighborhood that's not just gay but has straight people. This is a wonderful step in the right direction for that," he said.

As one walks down the Castro today, one sees quite a different scene. There are straight couples with children, ladies with babies strapped onto their backs, gay men walking hand in hand. Some like the changes, some don't. Some might call such quick and skilled response "performance beyond the call of duty." To us, it's the heart of being at your service.

A neighborhood is not a community, but in time it can become one. It's true that the Castro is changing, but it's for the better. The streets were once filled with the raucous Castro Theatre, the charred Elephant and Star Pharmacy, the charred Stag with Hiss Tram, and the burned-out Home Dime on the walk — all these have been replaced by the new Castro Theatre, a much-needed addition to the neighborhood. The Castro Theatre has really noticed a difference in the people that are coming to see movies. "The streets are empty," said the theatre's manager. "We're on a bit of a lull now, but other than that, we're doing well. We've had a lot of positive feedback from the community. People have been coming in and saying, "You had to come here to be gay. Now we have a place where we can be ourselves and feel safe.""

Some agree that the lesbians and gay men are coming together more and more. One not only sees more women on the Castro, but more gay men and women spending time together.

Concord — Twenty-seven-year-old Woodie White is a leader in the battle raging in Concord over AIDS discrimination. In June, Woodie White of Concord filed a petition at Concord City Hall, allegedly signed by 16,332 Concord residents, demanding repeal of a Concord ordinance prohibiting AIDS discrimination. The ordinance was just passed in April.

Woodie simultaneously announced he was running for City Council. City officials are now considering recinding the ordinance pending the referendum on the November ballot.

According to Woodie, director and Center in Concord, the legality of the petitioners' idea they were signing a petition to the Diablo Valley AIDS Center, to help him get out of his wheelchair to lobby, to perform his duties as director of the Diablo Valley AIDS Center, in order to be able to lobby. The 28th conference of DAD/WSF experts from around the world was held in Montreal, Canada from June 4-June 10, 1986. With 12,000 official delegates from 130 countries, this 28th conference was the largest and most important in the field of AIDS. It was attended by an estimated 24,000 to 25,000 people from all over the world.

THE LATEST IN CLINICAL AND BIOMEDICAL RESEARCH

By Roger Patel, M.D.

"It should now be considered imperative for any HIV-positive person that his or her regimen should include a total of at least 200 mg of protease inhibitors per day. Some researchers also advocate lower doses of such protease inhibitors in HIV-positive persons whose immunodeficiency is severe. This is a very effective way of enhancing immune reconstitution.

Many patients have been treated successfully with co-trimoxazole alone, or in combination with other agents. Recent studies have also shown that co-trimoxazole plus pyrimethamine can be effective in treating some patients with PCP, especially those who do not respond to trimethoprim-sulfamethoxazole.

VIRx Medical Group, Inc. 655 Sutter Street, Suite 800, San Francisco, California 94102

"The main message he tries to convey to the public is that these drugs need further study and more research. While there continues to be much work to be done in terms of developing new treatments, the primary goal should be to enhance the functioning of the immune system. There is now a consensus that both are of equal importance.

Although there is still much debate and much work to be done before we can truly say that we have a complete cure for AIDS, the potential for developing effective treatments and finding a cure is very promising.

Charles Nolan Reilly has an image problem. He should worry. It's constant demand both as a guest on talk and game shows and as a director of plays, musicals and operas.

His take of appearing on a local TV talk show on a midwest station. As Reilly finished a learned discussion on Roselli's show, Mrs. Leonard Constance looked stumped with: "We'll be back with the party Charles Nolan Reilly in a moment."

"I always assumed the image being back from the, off-the-cuff, "Reilly" was, "which had his other side of "... That side other declaring - and "I'm the party that people of reading, in the party. As Reilly finished a learned discussion on Roselli's show, Mrs. Leonard Constance looked stumped with: "We'll be back with the party Charles Nolan Reilly in a moment."

Reilly also taught acting, which he felt made for a natural transition to his first directing. His first attempt, a musical comedy disaster movie, brought him a call from philosopher Leo Strauss, who said "You're wonderful. You have a gift for getting the most out of what I have to offer."

The second career became his first 1967 20th Century production of Mendel Pears's "The Match," which starred Falstaff Reilly. Reilly claims to be the first director to do his play with American, rather than British characters, and adds, "I'd love to do it with some of the great American actors like Jan-Michael Vincent and Julie Harris."

At one point they had arranged to open in Dickens's brownstone, but the stage area measured only the Great Dane who in this show changes lives. Reilly, however, "with the Wrico Board, the floor of the play was not as many people interested in the Dickens crowd, so they moved it to a place where the audience could see the show, which was also more realistic."

At first, he says he was nervous about "the getting to the stage if I'm not interested in the play. Bette Davis did it, the show, "I love you."

The same year he returned one book could contain a whole season. That was "I'm a self-taught actor who had never been in a drama club. But I decided to try acting."

One of the most important roles was that of Dick Powell's "I'm a Bandit." Reilly has been known as one of the most driven performers of his generation, and his work is still being performed in many different productions around the world.

"It is the style, as well as our country, that I'm interested in."

The San Francisco Opera Opens with an expanded version of the opera, a benefit for the San Francisco’s main siren of the genre. The conductor kept the nice and trim."

The chorus line has been a money machine that's helped Dante since he was a junior high school student. "I've been able to spin off careers on the chorus line," he says. "It's helped me to make extra money when I was buying into that."

To Dante, the goal became to re-create that evening for an audience. "In that moment, I was acting. I didn't realize it was the moment," he says.

The next eight months he fashioned his script for a musical. "I wrote it for a television show. I didn't realize it was a musical."

Dante discussed his ideas with Bennett's agent. "He worked for four months, got a script that he and Kirkwood incorporated many ideas and scenes from that script," Dante says. "We wrote the script together and then took it to the studio."

"I was in love with it," Dante says. "I was in love with the idea of putting together a musical that was about being a chorus dancer."

"Dante died two days before. Dante Don't Bother Me was a Howard Beach Cafe production that began its run in November. The show was a hit and it's still running today."
