VINCENT HALLINAN, one of America's most outstanding trial lawyers, pledges himself to use the prestige and authority of this High Office to help bring about a new attitude toward homosexual freedom. This will include holding hearings to determine the constitutionality of the present laws governing sexual conduct between consenting adults.

Getting drunk, smoking marijuana, gambling and copulating with someone of your own sex are relatively harmless acts that rarely infringe on the rights of others. Rarely does a person complain about someone else who is performing any of these acts.

"Morality" laws exist, however, that make such acts illegal and their increased enforcement by the San Francisco Police is cause for alarm. The police and the church work hand-in-hand to see that people who have sex out of marriage, gamble, use drugs or get drunk are punished for their "sins." Police crusades against "immorality" and "moral decay" in our society has resulted in increased arrests in the area of victimless crimes.

In 1970 the police sent its legal counsel to City Hall to block a resolution that would place the city in favor of consensual sex legislation. The move was successful ... Later, the police attacked the mayor's own Citizens Crime Commission when it reported that police were ineffectual in combating major crimes because they spent too much time making victimless crime arrests. The report was forgotten.

The police, performing as ministers-in-blue, arrested 34,000 people in 1970 for non-victim misdemeanors -- a startling 78% of the total arrests! Sex misdemeanors rose 1800% in Mayor Joseph Alioto's first two years in office, sex felonies by 900%! Although major crimes increased and many murders went unsolved, officers were heavily deployed to catch "sinners" who performed victimless crimes such as being drunk, having sex, gambling and smoking marijuana. Millions of dollars, over 1,800 officers, millions of man hours -- to track down private citizens and arrest them for acts that the church still finds offensive.

The situation was and is a tragic waste of manpower and ruins the lives of thousands of citizens. Yet the mayor and the police encourage increased victimless crime arrests and the Board of Supervisors gives the police more manpower and money in its new city budget.

Police could better be deployed to help educate citizens about their rights; a new police humanity could be applied to break down the general hatred and distrust of policemen; policemen could learn to help citizens to enjoy life rather than restrict life.

The Society for Individual Rights, as one of this country's leading citizens rights organizations, can begin to align itself with other groups and individuals who are, like homosexuals, the victim of unjust victimless crime legislation. Recently, SIR's membership voted twice to endorse the legalization of marijuana. Although smoking marijuana is not one of our things, the right of a citizen to do so if he pleases without police harassment should be no more questioned than the right of a citizen to copulate with someone of his own sex in private. Possibly, by assisting in the formation of a coalition to fight all of the victimless crimes, we can more effectively eliminate injustice for others and for ourselves.
Charley Davis was not turned on by drag queens but in a SIR director today if a SIR director accepted them and I do not look down on them. Sexually, I prefer anyone who is not gendered. Butch people had gay sex but "I was afraid they'd start throwing tomatoes at you!" Charley was present when Geòrgie Jessel told me not to run off stage. "In show business in the twenties and thirties, most of the chorus boys were gay." Charley despised the "haughty, bitchy, nelly queens" and shied away from them when he was much younger. "I was afraid if I was around them too much I would become as nelly as they are." He thought it was so terrible, but I was afraid that my gayness would show to the audience. They were very often then doing their own thing. I didn't think it was so terrible, but I was afraid that my gayness would show to the audience. They were very often then doing their own thing. A Gay Oasis - Palm Springs

By Martin F. Stow

If it's good enough for Truman Capote, it's good enough for me: Palm Springs, that is. Feeling that my orb had become too urbi, I used the April showers to escape to the sun. Usually this has meant a dry-out in Death Valley, but circumstances made the Springs the desirable choice this year. This was my first trip to P.S. and I decided to make it pay all the way (well, almost all the way).

The trip down new Highway 5 is terribly dry. One shares the feelings of the pioneers who also had no comfort stands or soothing roadside landscaping. But good! Even on Friday cruising was in evidence by those travelers participating in the long weekend S.F.-L.A. exchange. There was a particularly poignant love

The best indication of where to turn left is where you see a large stand of palms beside the road, a sign for the Palm Desert Private School and the marquee of the Desert Palm Motel. One passes this motel, proceeds down a pitted paved road, turns left between two beautiful groves of palms and thio, just before the school, one passes into Dave's unpretentious front entrance. From the time standpoint, the highway is sheer economy — six hours and one half a day — when compared with the shorter route. On the highway is sheer economy — six hours and one half a day — when compared with the approximately forty miles round trip.

Arrival in P.S. from L.A. is from off the San Bernardino Freeway via Route 111 which passes through the Springs, Cathedral City (Cat City), Ranch Mirage and so on. well on his way.

Charley helps others at the Senior Citizen monthly parties to decorate the hall. "It's hard for some to get up on the crafts class at SIR every week where really love crafts. They work at them all he teaches others and makes rugs and woven wall hangings himself. Many gays who had been together for 17 years, Charley. A few years ago he manned the school, is the most important thing that SIR does. "We must let them know that there are a lot of homosexuals. Let them know that if they are gay they don't have to redline off the bridge. Tell them that many, many gays are happy and productive. And tell those that aren't gay that they shouldn't look down on those who are."

"Young people today are more receptive to gays. I was always taught that you had to be homosexual or heterosexual. I had never even heard the word, 'bisexual' until four or five years ago. It's a new feeling, a new idea — that a man can enjoy both sexes. It's a wonderful thing. We used to feel that if you once sucked a cock, you could no longer sleep with a woman. Now we're getting away from that. People are more open — do everything sexually — and don't identify necessarily as being gay, particularly, and that's beautiful. That's the way it should be.

SIR instituted a Presidential Award in 1968 to recognize "devotion to the aim and purposes of SIR, unstinting service to the Society and its members, and willingness to undertake at any time any project asked." The award was presented to Charles R. Davis, and the accompanying letter said of him, "At no time has he become involved in the petty bickering and personality clashes that are to be found in any organization.

The award was to have been given annually with a plaque in the SIR Community Center engraved with the names of recipients. But the award was never granted a second time. That's most probably because there just isn't anyone else around like Charles Davis. are open and the mood becomes one of simultaneous erotic expectation and physical relaxation. The living rooms and recreational facilities are set among green lawns under one hundred mature shade trees. Quiet paths allow one to form the periphery around swimming and Jacuzzi pools, sauna bath, badminton courts, shuffle board, tennis, and for those desiring, housing the office and lounge. The facilities are not posh (nor plastic) but the total effect is most pleasant. The staff is fine. Dave is in residence but Kurt is the manager up front. George keeps the reservations straight while Billy supervises maintenance and services. They are most helpful and hospitable. Jesse is the manager of recreation and, one who knows and appreciates the difference between superkinesthetic manipulation and superficial genial stimulation, provides one of the best massages that I have ever experienced.

All resorts have a social pattern and, practically upon arrival, we were informed that the particular pattern for this season was sunbathing until four, nap and up at eight to rebegin sunning and swimming. The resort is surrounded and active but the effect is superrelaxing and highly recuperative. I know that Gay is Good but in the matter of food in P.S. it's Gay or David. David recommends the gay restaurants officially but the staff customers suggest that we straight. We took our breakfasts at Sherman's, on the motel side of P.S., a Jewish restaurant (unsuitably I ordered pork sausage) one morning and was Yugoslavian woman, Olga, served with Mexican rice, beans and vegetables. The spot for dancing is Oil Can Harry's, which I never dine in S.F. along with dozens of funky numbers, mostly in their own agreeable style in a thoroughly comfortable atmosphere. It's from here that the group returns to the Villa for early morning pleasures in the pools, sauna and bunk-houses. The circular Jacuzzi pool, kept at 90 degrees, holds over a dozen men and is a great idea. I kept thinking how I'd like for group therapy on such occasions.

There were celebrities as well. I looked back to see if any of the fans to en-conquer San Francisco's most famous count. Count D'Orange, whose frequent attendance in P.S. made him a veritable treasure house of valuable infor-mation. Trumun Capote was in atten-dance at Oil Can Harry's, which delighted and earned the viewpoint famous. The "Eat Your Heart Out" award was unani-mously given to a beautiful young man at the Beach. He was most devoted in spite of the obvious signs on the Highway. At so many occasions of accepting silent and verbal accolades without affirmation we were particu-larly pleased to learn that he was a S.F. resident. He is David of the P.S. res-taurants.

We tripped home via Highway 101, after the dog that had occupied the same good friends in residence there I like to hard like the City of Angels, but I can only say that I was a hurt and hyster-ical quality in a smoggy, plastic setting. Justifiably, Los Angeles resonates our attitude, but, fortunately, it doesn't stop us from visiting each other. To the Route is notable for its beautiful scenery and its atrocious cuisine. In San Luis Obispo we had a repast which was memorable; they served a charcoal brick for a rare steak at a restaurant. Sauvignon tasted like the third pressing of Concord grapes, but then we're spoiled by it.

My cynicism was stimulated by two signs which I saw in Los Angeles. The first announces the location of a State Correc-tional Hospital. The latter indicates Hospital Facility. What atrocious minions, heaven save us from that kind of competition! At L.A., in addition to another indicates Hospital Facility, What atrocious minions, heaven save us from that kind of competition! At L.A., a new center for human rights that I received was "El Besame Mucho" in Rosco Mirage, in the immediate direction from Dave's, in the color of a bud-lar City. The latter is a small restaurant in the street that has been there for ages. The one menu is prepared by a charming

We agree with your comments about Dag Hammarsk/old.

"Dr. Inerhahus" is a pseudonym used by a young San Francisco physician. He does not believe he could write in the free-wheeling style that he does, if his identity were known.

Could I see you use four-letter-words when I suggested, "Dr. Inerhahus"? Couldn't you use other words or write "The Inerhahus" like the newspapers do?

Thank you for such a good news in a recent issue of your magazine. We are working to make our organization into something dynamic for the gay community here... Keep up the good work at S.I.R.

On behalf of the city and county of San Francisco, I wish to recognize the first an-niversary of the Waterfront Senior Citizens Luncheon Program of The Society for Indivi-dual Rights.

Senior San Franciscans are indeed fortunate to have programs of this nature available to them. The uniqueness of this program is that great concern is shown for the nutritional and social needs of senior citizens by your organization. I would hope that more community organizations could become involved in providing social services for our senior citizens, whose needs are in some cases so important to San Francisco...

Sincerely,

Joseph Allito Mayor, San Francisco

I was fascinated by Morris Kitt's article, which described the history of oppression of homo-sexualism. Although it is true that imperialist countries oppresses the homosexual, the same situation is observed in socialist countries. It is a common phenomenon in most countries, i.e., public acknowledgement, of a more recently discussed public figure? Even W.H. Auden, I understand, refuses to permit this. At any rate, it is a bad heading, unnecessarily chauvinistic, . . .

Dr. Inerhahus, I think, should refuse pseudonyms to people who claim expertise, Even the Chronicle has at last, I don't know..."Count Marco." Finally, I should like to see Vector an infrequency of groups and movements struggling for percutaneous and oppression. Surely, clarity is necessary at home, but then, more than a beginning, SIR should openly associate ourselves with allies in the cause of liber­ation. At the same time we would be better off in the setting of our common oppression. The situation is observable in socialist countries...

The Presidency and Your Rights

By Lawrence Searle

The most significant fact in this election is that both major party candidates are, for the first time, recognizing the importance of the women's liberation movement and its demands. This will have a long-range consequence in local and national elections in the future and could influence legislative changes that will assist the homosexual in gaining equal rights.

Some of the candidates:

- Shirley Chisholm is receiving broad support among women's rights organizations.
- George McGovern has made no statement on homosexual rights.
- Lyndon B. Johnson has issued a lengthy and detailed commitment to civil rights that . . .

Although he was reluctant for some time, Gay Activist Alliance New York was persistent and candidate John Lindsay finally stated that he supported laws aimed at barring discrimination against homosexuals in employment, housing and public accommodations. He also called for the abolition of all laws and military regulations regulating private sexual behavior among consenting adults. He said he would urge executive orders to implement some of these pledges . . . Lindsay withdrew from the race but he remains a major force politically and as Mayor of New York City.

By Lawrence Spears

It was agreed in 1949 that in introducing legislation opposing the security firing of homosexuals and that he opposed the Joe McCarthy-Nixon witch hunts to find homosexuals in government service. McCarthy states that he is pledged to work for a Democratic party plank calling for elimination of discrimination against homosexuals and says he would destroy all FBI files on the personal sex lives of citizens.

Dr. Benjamin Spock spoke to a meeting of psychiatrists and policies against gays, hating government investigations of alleged homosexuals, non-discrimination in housing, insurance, and banking, favoring research into the nature of all human sexuality, and supports federal sponsored educational programs to foster understanding of homosexuality. He has made broad and very specific statements about discrimination in federal employment, and would take to assure homosexuals' legal protection in the event of his becoming President. SIR's political chairman is a McGovern delegate.

Edmund Muskie has been vague on the subject and no one has been able to get a firm statement from him.

Richard Nixon believes he will be the next President. He has never said anything about homosexuality, but he has spoken out for gay rights: "They're entitled to their rights."

As told to George Mendehall

"Politics is a struggle of people to gain control over their lives. We say "Right on!" to people and groups who are attempting to do that. We support their struggles and we want to help them to become strong."

"The family institution is the bulwark of the capitalist society. The family system is the least expensive way to control the people, to control the population..."

"We are beginning to form alliances between the different liberationist groups where we can come together and discuss specific issues. The Socialist Workers Party is concerned that there must be the restructuring of this society; that it cannot be patched up."

"We have a very violent government and I believe it will use its violence against those who struggle, within their own organizations, toward gaining control over their society."
Misinformation concerning transsexualism is as prevalent in the homosexual community as in the heterosexual community. Transsexualism is often lumped together with other sexual perversions, such as the transvestite or hermaphrodite, a host of aberrant physical sexual abnormalities, and even homosexuality under the misguided term of "sexual perversion." None of these designations belongs under the title of "perversion."

An understanding of transsexualism must begin with what transsexualism is NOT: Transsexuals are not homosexuality oriented (although some are, others are not), they are not engaged in sexual (heterosexual, homosexual, and probably most frequently, asexual). Transsexuals are not hermaphrodites nor do they have any significant physical sexual abnormalities; indeed, they are perfectly normal physically as far as medical science can determine. Transsexuals have neither hormone abnormalities (although a few do) nor chromosomal abnormalities (though, again, a few do). In other words, taken as a group, the transsexual cannot be differentiated from any other group of human beings on the basis of physical or physiological tests now known.

There is only one thing clearly distinguished the transsexual from all other people: that is a very deeply held belief on the part of the transsexual that he (she) is, despite physical appearances to the contrary, a member of the opposite sex. Note carefully that the transsexual is transvestism in nature as a member of the opposite sex, he is certain that he is a member of the opposite sex. This transsexual thus feels that a mistake has been made; that he has been "improperly" assigned to a body belonging to someone else. He feels that he is "terribly deformed" because he lacks the physiological characteristics of the sex to which he is certain he belongs (i.e., the opposite sex). The transsexual gets little satisfaction and which the transsexual does not view as a homosexual act!

Dr. Harry Benjamin is an outstanding endocrinologist and probably the world's leading authority on transsexualism. He is himself responsible for most of what is known of transsexualism due to his profound interest and investigations. Benjamin has formulated a series of rules which are used in the unification of the sex change procedure. The decision for sex change surgery is made. Some of these rules are worth noting here: A psychiatric evaluation to make certain the transsexual is fixed and that the transsexual is not harboring a serious emotional disorder or psychosis. The transsexual's physical appearance must be such that he can, with the aid of hormone treatments and cross dressing, live in the community as a member of the opposite sex. Dr. Benjamin also insists that the transsexual have sufficient intellect to understand clearly the limitations and hazards of the sex change procedure.

No one knows the cause of transsexualism. The most attractive theory to date rests on the results of experiments which indicate that exposure to the wrong hormonal influence at a critical stage in the developing fetus is capable of causing sexual activity in later life which is inconsistent with the physical sexual characteristics. These studies have been done on lower animals (the monkey and the rat). There is some slowly accumulating evidence that such may be the case in at least some transsexuals. Much work in this field of sexual differentiation has indicated that there are areas of brain which are sex specific, and that they develop differently in the male and female fetus. It is possible that a transsexual gets the feeling that he is a member of the opposite sex or cross dressing have in any way simply acting as a member of the opposite sex or cross dressing have in any way simply acting as a member of the opposite sex.

There is no evidence at all that transsexuals, in general, have any less potent or pleasing sex drive than heterosexuals. Indeed, as I have indicated above, the transsexual is often lumped together with other sexual perversions.

Earl “Rick” Stokes, gay activist and Board member of the Family Service agency, is the most obvious choice for the attorney who frequently speaks at community events and is a member of the Bar. Although a considerable amount of his legal problems are related to the recent Non-Victim Crimes Committee, his expertise as a special interest in minority rights (“the Gay Community”) directs policies and finance in regard to Board positions. Homosexuals might qualify him to serve. We thought we were going to not be allowed to go to school while there because there were some charges that we flirted with charge or who state that they are gay are put on a special tier together on the sixth floor. We are each given an individual cell. They don’t allow two gay guys to a cell because they are afraid they’ll have sex. It is just as well because the cells are only five paces wide, five paces long and two guys share the same space as one does when he is alone. There are some alcoholics on our tier too. They are two-to-a-cell.

Are the homosexual prisoners denied any privileges given to other prisoners? "No. We get TV, use of the library and can attend the school classes. We thought we were going to not be allowed to go to school while there because there were some charges that we flirted with charge or who state that they are gay are put on a special tier together on the sixth floor. We are each given an individual cell. They don’t allow two gay guys to a cell because they are afraid they’ll have sex. They are two-to-a-cell.

The other prisoners but that was resolved later. Undersheriff Reuben Greenberg explained to us why the gay prisoners are not permitted to move about in the rest of the prison [although they would also be possible under such conditions but the possible beatings was his major concern]. Bob discussed the living conditions, true of the entire prison: “We eat in our cells alone, except on the weekends when we all eat together out on the tier. The food is bland with no vitamins or minerals in it. You can get better food at the commissary — if you have money. We go to the shower room as a group and shower together — with a guard watching . . . I have had one change of clothes in 30 days I have been here although if you mess your clothes you can get a change.”

What recreation is there? “You can watch TV from 8 am to 11 pm at night as it is on at the end of the tier all that time. When you are locked up it is sometimes hard to see the seat because the bars are in the way . . . However, we are released to visit on the tier with the other sixty prisoners in our area three times a day: 2 hours in the morning, 3 hours in the afternoon and 6 hours at night. There is also a ping pong table. Once a week we are taken outside in the yard. If there is some entertainment at the jail in the yard, we go also. You can also get library books, like I said.”

Is there any sexual activity on the tier? “. . . There was a pause and then Bob replied, “Only holding hands.”

What do the prisoners think of Sher­iff Hongisto? “Most people in here are for him. They believe that he is sincere, they know he is trying . . . He sounds like a pretty good dude to me.”

Do you have any difficulties with deputies or volunteers? “No, nothing serious. The deputies are pretty decent to us. There are a couple stick-head deputies but generally they are ok.”

The Community College Board directs policies and finance in regard to several colleges and Stokes believes his special interest in minority rights (“the rights of all minorities”), his community service activities and his expertise as a member of the Bar qualify him to serve. Another friend to the gay community, Attorney John Riordan, is also a candidate for the Community College Board . . . Thirty people are vying for the five Board positions. Homosexuals might consider these two names on that list in June: Stokes and Riordan. — G.M.
Getting It Together

Go to the Foreign Exchange window of your bank and get at least $10.00 in small bills and coins in the currency of each country you plan to visit. The bank will tell you which few countries don’t like to see their own money coming in or out. Who knows, maybe the ink disappears outside their boundaries. This little errand will save you the tiresome necessity of standing in line at a currency exchange window at your destination airport after a long flight. And you’ll feel awfully sophisticated.

Keep your wardrobe simple. Unless you’re absolutely masochistic, learn to travel with a “Carry-on” bag. If it’s no more than eight inches high, fourteen inches wide, and twenty-one inches long, it will fit under just about any airline seat in the world. Surely the male readers can size up something with these easy-to-remember dimensions.

Buy lightweight, washable clothing. Don’t worry about the expense. Having nice, new things to wear on your trip will enhance your mood and appearance immeasurably. You don’t need different outfits for each city. Dazzle the poor sons of bitches in each city with the same clothes. They’ll never know their experience with you wasn’t absolutely unique. And you’ll save your strength for better things than lugging suitcases. When you arrive you will be the first through government formalities. You will never have to worry about tipping porters. While everyone else is still standing around waiting for their luggage to come off the airplane, you’ll be sprawled on a feather bed, sipping a refreshing drink and plotting your first night’s escapades.

Take along a travel clock. You can trust most hotels to wake you on time. But, why take a chance? Also, take a radio. You will not be busy every mo-

HOW ABOUT A TOUR?

That depends on the purpose of your trip. If you’re completely exhausted and just want to be care-free, take a tour. Everything is pre-arranged. You don’t have to search for a hotel, or worry about getting to airports, train stations, and docks. There’s someone there to handle the language problems and agonize over currency conversions. As long as you have an alarm clock, you’ll get by. You’re also sure to see everything worthwhile. The companies who organize these things have condensed the entire travel experience into an exact science. They know when to feed you and when you have to pee, and when you have seen exactly enough cathedrals. It’s all very organized and sanitized.

I, frankly, prefer to take independent sightseeing tours in the cities that interest me and trust my keen desire to survive to get me between countries. Do as you please. Remember, however, that on a complete tour package you are usually with the same group throughout the trip. You may fall in love with your seat-mate in London and live happily ever after through sixteen countries in twenty-six days. Or...you may be assigned to share a seat with the fattest woman in the Aaron Lewis War dey, who doesn’t believe in baths because she can’t fit into a tub. And there you are. She also likes to talk, and because she’s hard of hearing she talks loud... in an ethnic accent you find offensive... it all depends on how you feel about gambling.

When you started for home, you did pack a folded-up flight bag inside your suitcase, didn’t you? That’s for bringing home those unique goodies you will certainly pick up. Generally speaking, if you have been outside the country more than forty-eight hours during any 30-day period, you can bring back $100 (retail value) duty-free. Anything over that...

Sheriff Dick Hongisto continues to assure daily news media coverage. He received a small part of his request for additional funds from the mayor's budget but he has been most successful in raising thousands for the prisoners' fund with side projects. The recent Hongisto benefit rock concert drew 5,000 and greatly increased the fund. Now Hongisto has a plan to form an inmate rock band, record an album, and put the profits back into the fund... The popular young sheriff received considerable support from the gay community as his successful bid for office last year.

The late Judge Learned Hand said it: "A criminal law which is not enforced is much worse than if it was not on the books at all... I think, for example, is a matter of morals, a matter very largely of taste, and it is not a matter that people should be put in prison about." • • • •

Rev. Ken Jones, MCC-San Francisco, spoke to a Teen Clinic, sponsored by Planned Parenthood in Oakland. The local press quoted him as saying that homosexuals feel threatened by a society that sees them as evil: "Homosexuals exist in every walk of life and I ask you to recognize this and to understand that every person should be allowed to choose his own sexuality." • • • •

Dr. Hip Pacrates (Eugene Schoenfeld) answered a complaint in his SF Chronicle column of a man who said he was constantly getting erections when asleep at night: "Most men have erections several times during their sleep so don't feel you have a strange problem... sex is good exercise too... perhaps you could modify your present calisthenics program..."

District Attorney Frank Hogan, New York, and conservative federal judge Edward Tarnoff among those Bar members are now supporting the relaxation of vice and panic crime statutes. Public attitudes are changing fast and laws concerning vice crimes such as public drunkenness, drug use, prostitution, gambling and deviant behavior among consenting adults, are being challenged across the country.

Maurice Chevalier, who began his stage career at age 12, died in France. His most recent California appearances were at the Greek Theater in Los Angeles in 1965... Felix Paganit, Chevalier's lifelong friend and secretary, attended the funeral... Rumors in France about Chevalier's sexual orientation caused him some poor publicity in 1948 and his music publisher, Eddie Benson, announced the famed singer-actor would marry actress Nita Raya. The marriage took place.

A Ken Birch wrote the Daily Review newspaper in New Haven, Conn., to explain that homosexuals had been allowed to speak at a local high school "family life" class. Birch contended the teacher should never have allowed homosexuals to speak in a "family living" class and imply that homosexuality was "normal." The writer said that homosexuality is a "medical and spiritual problem" and to accept it as a way of life would have tragic results ("Look at the history of Rome..."). To allow gay people to speak to students, Birch stated, is to knowingly let "indoctrinate the boys of our society."... The teacher, Joe Hamilton, said to the main complaints came from some students who say the gay speakers hold hands in the hallways.

A Ann Landers (real-life-sister) comments on a gay "marriage" performed by GGlide Methodist's Rev. Lloyd Wake; "A ceremony does not necessarily constitute a legal marriage. As the minister said, it was a 'covenant' - which means an agreement - but this does not mean the couple is considered married in the eyes of the law..."

Professor Judith Blake, U.C.-Berkeley, says corporations should stop encouraging their employees to get married in this increases the population explosion. If anything, Ms. Blake contended, there should be an end to incarceration for simple people.

Jill Johnston, Lesbian columnist in the NY Village Voice, married some local Hills College students with the statement that she was raising her eighteen-year-old daughter with the hope that she would be a Lesbian, She added that her 12-year-old son was picked up, with her knowledge, at a gay party she attended, by a 20-year-old male. When she was asked, "But you have to give them a choice!" she commented: "What choice did you have?"

George Dye, candidate for the 10th Assembly District (Republican) has a position paper that calls for "mandatory castration of homosexual prisoners." Dye, 66, a retired gas station operator, states: "Homosexuals should be the lowest form of life on earth... One nurse with a needle and one soft bandage with a tattoo knife can in one hour reform more criminals than all the world's psychiatrists could reform in a century."

The NY Times critic, Clive Barnes, saw the new musical "Signs" (based on "Some Like It Hot") and didn't like it. Barnes said Robert Morse was brilliant "playing Robert Morse in drag," the staging by Gower Champion (who staged "Dolly") rescued the show but the disappointing Barron says that comedy movies should not be converted into Broadway musicals.

Abigail Van Buren answered a letter from a concerned animal lover who stated that the male dog and male cat spend a great deal of time together and are obviously "gay." Dear Abby answered: "No need to be ashamed. Don't apply human behavior codes to animals. They haven't read the Bible and know nothing about incest taboo and homosexuality. Given a choice, your male pets would choose partners of the opposite sex..."

Ronald Reagan, Governor of California, was asked by a U.C. student what he thought about equal rights for the gay community. The governor replied: "In afraid I'm not an expert on these particular people, but I wouldn't support any legislation against such people who have basically what I understand to be a medical problem... The government should do whatever it can to help people with such physical or mental problems..."

Walking Around

"Too bad some people have to camp it up at an elegant affair,"
"I don't like the way they do it," said one elegant gay man.

"Aida" has been a huge success for the M.C.C. and has received rave reviews from audiences all over the state.

But did it go too far? Some critics felt that the show was too campy and that it didn't do justice to the original story.

Lori Shannon, the new producer, defended the show, saying that it was "just right." She said that she wanted to "make sure that everyone has a good time." She also said that the show was "very relevant to today's gay community."
A HOMOSEXUAL BILL OF RIGHTS

BASIC RIGHTS

1. Private consensual sex acts between persons over the age of consent shall not be offenses.
2. Solicitation for any sexual act shall not be an offense except upon the filing of a complaint by the aggrieved party, not a police officer or agent.
3. A person's sexual orientation or practice shall not be a factor in the granting or renewing of Federal security clearances, visas, and the granting of citizenship.
4. Service in and discharge from the armed forces and eligibility to VA benefits shall be without reference to homosexuality.
5. A person's sexual orientation or practice shall not affect his eligibility for employment with federal, state, or local governments.

AREAS FOR IMMEDIATE REFORM

1. Police and other government agents shall cease the practice of enticement and entrapment of homosexuals.
2. Police shall desist from notifying the employers of those arrested for homosexual offenses.
3. Neither the police department nor any other government agency shall keep files solely for the purpose of identifying homosexuals.
4. The practice of harassing bars and other establishments and of revoking their licenses because they cater to homosexuals shall cease.
5. The practice of reviewing less-than-honorable military discharges, granted for homosexual orientation or practice, shall be established, with the goal of upgrading such discharges.
6. The registration of sex offenders shall not be required.
7. City ordinances involving sexual matters shall be rescinded and these matters left to state legislatures.
8. Conviction for homosexual offenses shall not be the basis for prohibiting issuance of professional licenses nor for the revocation of these licenses.
9. No questions regarding sexual orientation or practice shall appear on application forms, personnel data sheets, or in personal interviews.
10. No governmental agency shall use the classification of homosexuality as an illness to limit the freedom of any homosexual.

The above statement of direction for legal action was prepared by the S.I.R. Legal Committee under its former chairman, Attorney David Clayton. The S.I.R. membership has voted overwhelmingly that this is the official policy of the organization. Dick Gayer, a S.I.R. Board member, who himself is facing federal security clearance problems, published this statement. Copies of the above have been mailed to thousands of concerned citizens across the nation by S.I.R.
Military Discharges Analyzed By Weinberg and Williams

By Frank Howell

“My God, I’m being called up for the physical,” I thought. “Don’t worry,” my friend told me. “Just check the little box on the physical form.” At the induction center I did just that. I was now officially gay in the eyes of the draft board, but I escaped serving and fortunately no job difficulties followed. No further questions were asked.

My lover, John, tells a story which ended less fortunately than my own. He entered the Army in 1948 and was assigned to work in an Army library on Okinawa. On one occasion he in­no­cently suggested a book display on Russia and those around him became suspicious. McCarthy and his political voo-doo spiritus.

Castration in the Military: A Study of Less Than Honorable Discharge by Colin J. Williams and Martin E. Weinberg, Harper & Row, New York, $8.95. (Foreword by Dr. Evelyn Hooker, Chairman, National Institute of Mental Health, Task Force on Homosexuality)

Two years later a trick (fellow Gl) turned in John’s name as a practicing homosexual. The nightmare which followed included eight and nine hours of interrogation, alternating between the “nice” guy and “tough” guy approaches. Suspicions of Communist connections were brought up. Books on Russia were not popular just then. Nor were certain remarks John had made about Americans and the Korean War (John had said that cruelty was not confined to any one ethnic group of nations; that Americans were also capable of war crimes and torture of prisoners … My Lai has proved him right). Lavender and red didn’t go together, in any color and red didn’t go together, in any color.

The book exhibit did not go unnoticed. The salt of human desperation. When they were drifting throughout the world and targets, both large and small, seemed tempting. The book exhibit did not go unnoticed.

Castration will diminish a man’s own, published as Homosexuals in the Military. Colin Williams and Martin Weinberg have exhaustively analyzed oral and written records from all branches of the armed forces, and interviewed a number of former Gls who were gay (the data for the study was made possible through the cooperation of SIR and Mattachine—New York).

Certain routine facts assume a built-in drama of their own when cast in the searing light of human desperation. When homosexual discharge cases are processed, the matter is generally considered admin­istrative and not judicial. This distinction is not insignificant. In administrative hearings rules of evidence, as Williams and Wineberg point out, are largely ignored. The accused is not permitted to cross-examine or confront those who bear witness against him. The soldier who

The castration of criminals has been a common "cure" for crime in many societies for many years. Castration diminishes aggressiveness, which is the energy motivating the criminal disposition, or so the theory runs. In this case another variable is introduced, that of homosexuality. Castration stops homosexuality which is the basis of criminality. Castration will diminish a particular type of aggression or, in terms of the theory of counter-phobic, a particular type of fear. What fear is it that homosexuality repre­sents to our candidates?

We will not be surprised to discover that our candidate views homosexuals as feminine, a very common perception. It is not homosexuality of which he is afraid but femininity. In our culture, tragically, feminized. Indeed, the wife, the female and dominating in the relationship and this is viewed by the male as a form of feminizing castration. The stereotyped homosexual becomes the feared symbol of this castration and hence an object to be rejected. The recent All In The Family episode portrays this vividly. Archie rejects the faggot (his fears of femininity) and experiences disbelief concerning the butch homosexual because rejection of the latter would be a rejection of his own masculinity.

A more general implication, which underlies much of the youth movement, is that young males represent a masculinity which is a threat to the declining masculinity of older males. The old counter this threat by doing away with the young males. It is not wild or bizarre speculation that part of our war policy is predicated on diminishing the castration attacks from fellow scientists, ministers and ignorant non-observers who possessed facts. Cherished beliefs of the 1940's were shaken when the Male volume appeared. Kinsey faced even hotter fury. The female of the species also experienced passion and orgasm. Lesbians actually existed! The masculine world.

Martin Stow is a psychologist in private practice in San Francisco. He also serves on the Board of Directors of SIR, the Institute for Sex Research on the ladies. Dr. Paul Gebhard, who took the reins of the Institute after Kinsey's death, relates the following incident which highlights the research into one aspect of gay life. The Indiana professor's curiosity ranged widely and he demanded unflinching objectivity from his co-workers. The Institute research on the ladies is typical of Kinsey. He asked. By train," Gebhard said. "What did you do as soon as you got in the station?"

"I went downstairs to the men's room and unainted." "Did you notice anything unusual found himself being initiated into the field work for the first time by Kinsey. After the interview was completed, Kinsey talked to Gebhard about his attitudes toward different kinds of sexual behavior. How did he feel about homosexuality? It wasn't a crime, Gebhard declared blandly, but an illness, probably endocrine in origin. What was its incidence in the population? Kinsey inquired. Rare, Gebhard told him. If it had been common or even prevalent as an anthropologist he would have noted it. Kinsey's face was impassive as he listened to these remarkable statements. "How did you come here?"

The opinion that homosexual activity in itself provides evidence of a psychopathic personality is materially challenged by our incidence and frequency data. For years, the gay community has been working through the Legislature, Congress, with the Governor's office and with the federal administration to bring sanity to our nation's consenting adult sex laws. THEY ARE ALL TOO TIMID TO ACT!

And that timidity is causing too many people to languish in jail for supposed offenses that the rich and powerful commit with impunity.

REFRESHING.

The enemy, Coriolan is saying, is Victorianism, not straights per se. I can dig that.

Again, in "The Three-spoked Wheel," my favorite, Coriolan takes a group of tired, dispirited, middle-aged homosexuals, each one an Everyman, and shows what marvelous things happen to them when a handsome, loose, giving-type Camack named Orlando walks into their midst. Orlando happily does them all, spreading thereby a considerable amount of joy, and before he gets busted and deported to Quebec the message is clear—giving is good, and lots of fun, and profoundly revolutionary besides. There should be more revolutionaries like Orlando.

The longest piece in the collection is "A Serpent in the Garden," an epistolary thing like Fanny Hill and Pamela yet, and a wry, satirical double cliche—it is pure Restoration, deliberately written in the pulsing-purple-cockhead school of John Cleland and his army of disastrous imitators, and anybody who can poke light fun at Cleland et al. gets a bouquet of hearts—felt roses from me, ("Incomparable tool"—"massive anomaly"—"palpable sovereignty"—indeed?)

Wit is sadly lacking in most gay fiction, for various reasons, and Coriolan's book is therefore doubly enjoyable. Very sly, very obbligant, and well worth your time.
San Francisco Passes Nation's First Gay Employment Rights Law

BULLETIN

Mayor Joseph Alioto has signed into law City Ordinance 96-72 which is the law discussed in this article. He did so without any statement, as we went to press with this issue of Vector.

The board of supervisors of San Francisco have passed upon a change in the city's administrative code that calls for non-discrimination in regard to sex or sexual orientation. The new code would require that contractors, subcontractors and suppliers which do business with the city refrain from discriminating against their employees because of sexual orientation, ancestry, or national origin. The addition does not state an opinion it shall become a law in ten days; if he vetoes the measure the Human Rights Commission states that it does not discriminate because of sexual orientation and that they do not discriminate because of sexual orientation and that clearly post such an intent.

City employees are not affected by the code although the city's Civil Service Commission states that it does not discriminate because of sexual orientation. There are no known cases where city employees were ever in a position which carried such discrimination.

The long fight to bring about this "sexual orientation" clause in the code began in 1969 when SIR's Larry Littlejohn, brought the matter before the city's Human Rights Commission. With the cooperation of Supervisor Dianne Feinstein and her friend, the Reverend Joseph Finan, several SIR activities were underway at that time. The Reverend spoke at the hearing but ultra-conservative the Board but that "the Board would not pass on the matter but she put the matter on the April 3 Board agenda for a vote. Co-sponsors were Francois, Gonzales and Mendelsohn. On April 3 the Board voted 10-1 (Barbagelata voting No) and the word "human" was changed to "sexual orientation." On April 17 the final vote of the Board (10-1) moved the matter to the mayor's desk for signing.

San Francisco City Ordinance

All contracting agencies of the City and County of San Francisco, or any department thereof, shall include in all franchises and in all contracts hereafter negotiated, let or awarded for or on behalf of the city of San Francisco a provision obligating the contractor in the performance of such contract not to discriminate on the ground of race, color, creed, ancestry, sex, or sexual orientation, or national origin, sex, or sexual orientation, or national origin, sex, or sexual orientation.

This section shall be interpreted as allowing the contractor, subcontractor or supplier to discriminate against any person because of race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, sex, or sexual orientation. The contractor, subcontractor or supplier shall not discriminate against an employee of the contractor, subcontractor or supplier employed, and that employees are treated equally during employment, without regard to their race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, sex, or sexual orientation. The contractor, subcontractor or supplier shall not discriminate against an employee of the contractor, subcontractor or supplier employed, and that employees are treated equally during employment, without regard to their race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, sex, or sexual orientation.

As used in this chapter, the term "sex" means the character of being male or female, and the term "sexual orientation" means the choice of human adult sexual partner according to gender.

Wherever the work is performed or supplies are manufactured in the United States, the contractor, subcontractor or supplier shall not discriminate against any person because of race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, sex, or sexual orientation. The contractor, subcontractor or supplier shall not discriminate against any person because of race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, sex, or sexual orientation.

The contractor, subcontractor or supplier agrees to read "human" was changed to "sexual orientation." On April 17 the final vote of the Board (10-1) moved the matter to the mayor's desk for signing.

Travel

(amount is subject to varying taxation. If you are going to be looking for specific bargains somewhere, find out before you leave how much duty you will have to pay. I am under no obligation to tell you anything with you that was manufactured abroad, be sure to register it here with the Customs department before you leave. Otherwise, it may be subject to duty when you return.)

While overseas you may also mail back to the U.S. free of duty valued items of less than $10.00. If you are staying longer than the same goes when you're coming through Customs when you return. Keep your receipts handy and be honest. Only a few fools would try to put something over on a professional customs inspector. And don't be tempted by offers from sales clerks to give you receipts for amounts far less than what you paid.

Some of these clerks report you to officials in order to get their percentage. They will have to pay. Sneaky, huh? And, incidentally, there is no such thing as a "secret" hiding place.

This is a general introduction to world travel. If you can not discover the answers to your questions from the sources that we mentioned, you may seek redress by writing to the Foreign Service Institute, Washington, D.C. 20520.

For a large number of vacations, especially those involving world travel, a good starting place is the Travelers' Aid Society. There are branches in most large cities in the United States. They can give you information about the customs and practices of the countries you plan to visit.

HOLLYWOOD: a cinemaland vacation

By Bob Rommar

How to break the daily routine, even in busy San Francisco, sometimes becomes impossible so I rush off to Hollywood, that strange land of the cinema and endless characters.

Allow half-a-day for getting from downtown San Francisco to the Hollywood YMCA (where else?) because although the PSA trip ($32 round-trip) is only 1 hour the trips to and from airports are extensive. The Hollywood Airport bus will whisk you off to the Roosevelt Hotel, upon your arrival. This is across from Grauman's Chinese Theater - a very clean, modern structure with friendly showers and gym facilities (including a steam room). Occasionally a heterosexual can be spotted on the resi­dient floors - but it is rare.

The local restaurants have been sampled and found wanting but I recommend Alice's at 6413 Hollywood Blvd. for 24-hour service, an unusually gay crowded and tasty dinners under $3.00. A little farther away at 1110 No. Highland (take a bus or walk) is Arthur's Jr. which is about as gay as a restaurant can get (usually young), is open 24 hours, and has a more varied menu - still under $3.00. For the well-to-do traveler there is the straight Musso & Franks on Holly­wood Blvd. that is an "A" restaurant with superb food and superb prices. . . . I am saving the best until last and the best (ask anyone) is Lillian's at 1255 So. LaBrea. All the food is fresh (nothing from cans or frozen), bread is baked on the premises and is hot, the homemade desserts are delicious and I've eaten at Lillian's and the Mixed Grill (pork chop, chicken livers, mushrooms, shrimp steak PLUS) is great if you are starved and only $3.75. Lillian's has no atmosphere so if you want class you have to pay more ($1), but on Hollywood Boulevard this Y is a little farther away at 1110 No. Highland.

Beyond the YMCA because you can save that for later. Instead, take a bus or walk to the Roosevelt Hotel, upon your arrival. This is across from Hollywood Boulevard. There is always SOMETHING going on in L.A. and that includes nude stage shows (The Dirtiest Show in Town is the current one), gay balloon dancing (the Trouper's auditorium on Friday nights - $1), Metropolitan Community Church picnics and parties (call MCC for info).

Just walking Hollywood Boulevard (Hollywood to Vine) is most entertaining. Hoods, heads, hustlers, Jesus freaks, drags and strange-looking tourists mill up and down the boulevard for hours. On Satur­day night it is a circus! . . . Stop at Las Palmas Theatre (Highland to Vine). This 24-hour gay movie theater, a favorite gay visit­ing spot, and have coffee at the gay Gold Cup, venture along the large Las Palmas news-magazine stand (which sells 300 Vectors each month) and across the street is the Las Palmas Theatre (24-hour gay porno). Further up Las Palmas is Selma Street, famous for the strolling hustlers and their "johns.''

Can you get a free trip to Saugus (where ever that is!) from Highland and Hollywood every night at 6 pm if you want to join the fundamentalist Jesus freak group that will take you there for dinner and a sermon (I think they bring you back) . . . From the same corner, during the day, you can take a 15-minute bus ride to Universal/International Studios for their famed $4 studio tour. Although it is contrived, it is highly recommended. You tour the back movie lots and see familiar movie sets plus get an "inside" tour on sound stages, plus live animal acts, stunt men (they are very giddy) demonstrations, puppet show, a zoo, beauty exhibits, etc. etc. Allow yourself 3-4 hours for the tour and shows (all included in the $4).

Hollywood Boulevard (we are back again) offers the Wax Museum ($2.50) with its replicas of celebrities and a fascinating "horror" section. . . . Contact ABC-TV and CBS-TV early in the day about possible television shows that you might see. The studios are near by. (NBC-TV is in Burbank) . . . Grauman's Chinese is on Hollywood Blvd. If you want to see the stars' footprints in cement . . . Oh, yes, check the YMCA desk to see if they have cut-rate tickets to any local live shows and see what is playing on stage at the nearby Huntington Hartford Theater . . . There are many low-cost movie theaters on Hollywood Boulevard . . .

The GSF California Platform contains the following statement: "We have all been told that there is in this country equal employment opportunity based on ability. We all know that this is true only in the state, heard addresses from Senator Alan Cranston, Senator Ted Kennedy and State Senator George Moscone."

The California Commission on Platform and other representatives of Gay Liberation and Gay Community met recently at the Los Angeles Commission on Platform. The Commission composed of nationally listed phones, executives of gay organizations, as well as Gay, and bisexual advocates, presented relevant aspects of a platform plan prepared by Jim Kepner and Carl Hudgens.

A group of ten people, representing Gay Liberation, the Y.W. and the Gay Community, appeared before the workshops and public hearing, presenting their statements. I urge you to include this statement in your national platform. The Task Force on Economic Growth and the Urban Affairs Task Force.

We have thousands of friends out there who are anxious to help, who want to present the whole plank supported by practically all the Gay activists in the state movement. Carl's remarks were well received by the 100 Democrats attending the meeting and for inclusion in the general statements of the Urban Affairs Task Force.

At the conclusion of the session the various task forces reconvened as a committee of the whole to hear all the recommendations. The general opinion of the delegates was that Gay Civil Rights be included in the California Democratic Platform to be submitted to the National Platform Committee.

The Commission on Platform and other advocates believe that Gay Community demanding that Gay Civil Rights be included in the California Platform to be submitted to the National Platform Committee within the next few months.

Vector Nudity Starts Trend

By Alan Jacobs

The career of Burt Reynolds has sky-rocketed since he appeared nude in the centerfold of Cosmopolitan magazine. His agent is now asking $50,000 a movie, instead of his former $5,000.

Vector originated the male centerfold idea in mid-1971, although in most cases the penis was exposed. Reynolds chose to put his hand over the genital area for the photo and Editor Helen Garley Brown explained that "maybe next year the public will be ready to see all." The acceptance of Cosmopolitan (male nudity and all) by major magazine publishers indicates a new tolerance in the United States and opens the door for more male nudes in other "respectable" publications.

Editor Brown keeps repeating that Reynolds is "totally heterosexual" and no one has publicly questioned his sexual orientation. In all newspaper interviews and TV talk shows he brings up the subject of homosexuality. Reynolds says in Joyce Hiler's column, "I like women!"

The new "sex symbol" recently joked that the Cosmopolitan photographer took one look at Reynolds in the nude and said, "You're gorgeous." Thereafter, he says, he took a friend with him when he posed. . . . On another occasion he was asked, "Who would you like to have an island with you?" He replied, "Carel Burnett and a screaming faggot." He has a mixture of hip and experimental films.

But don't let my questions deter anyone from seeing "Carel and Ferd" — it is a challenging entertainment. Debbie Reynolds fans: Stay home! (415) 648-9040. "Carel and Ferd"

Soap Opera in the Mission District

By Gary Leander

In a small loft in San Francisco's Mission District (near 19th & Mission) is a unique two-hour entertainment on Saturday nights. The loft only holds 50 people. The tapes are shown on eight TV sets but in such a manner that no one has publicly questioned his sexual orientation. Much of the dialogue is about whether they should get married or not, with Ferd's homosexual relationships the considerations. Ferd's friend, a swishy guy named Gary, discusses his relationship with them . . . This first set of video tapes is lively and has considerable melodrama (sort of like a real life soap opera) and at the conclusion, Ferd and Carel really do get married. The Jewish ceremony with their freaky friends is almost camp.

The second part is more honest and revealing as Carel and Ferd find married life and their move to Chicago both dismal. There are some meaningful and almost embarrassingly personal discussions about themselves. They return to San Francisco and everything falls apart for them . . . The program concludes with Carel and Ferd watching and discussing — on tape — their year together and the tapes themselves.

Since the tape experience, Ferd and Carel have split. She is soon to receive her PhD in Film at Northwestern University and he is living in a gay commune in Chicago.

Skip Sweeny and T.J. McHose are the "behind the scenes" men who operate the complicated video equipment, which is plainly on view. The Klein is the program editor and PR man. The creator of the program, Arthur Ginzberg, lives in New York.

Although one could just accept this program "as is," some homosexuals who attend "Carel and Ferd" might be asking: Since it is made clear that Ferd is gay, why is this never made specific? The sex action in the film is entirely hetero . . .

In one scene, Ferd says, "It was a big thing — to accept the responsibility of being gay," which was a startling moment of insight but it was treated as just a casual comment.

But don't let my questions deter anyone from seeing "Carel and Ferd" — it is a challenging entertainment. Debbie Reynolds fans: Stay home! (Note: Advance reservations for this show are essential. Call during the week: (415) 648-9040. Performances are Saturdays, 8 pm, 442 Shotwell).
